It will be detrimental to the character and appearance of both the local area and wider locality. It will cause (among other problems) loss of light to a large area and chaos to local transport, public and private, with inadequate parking, harmful impact on highway safety and free flow.

The roads are already gridlocked, the medical centres over subscribed and the schools overcrowded. Why not build something that will actually benefit existing residents such as an affordable swimming pool rather than bringing more people into an area that is ill equipped to sustain them.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: As someone who still has family and friends who I still visit in Cricklewood I object to these plans. There are several reasons for my doing so, the size and density of the amount of new homes will have a terrible impact on the area. It is already overwhelmed with traffic and a severe lack of parking and Cricklewood Lane will become even worse than it already is. There has been no thought given into the infrastructure in the local area by which I mean where are the extra GP surgeries and Dentists going to come from, the added stress on the already overstretched NHS facilities that there are left in the area. Childcare, Nursery places and schools for all of these extra families. The site should be sympathetic to the surrounding area and any building of homes should be in keeping with a limited height restriction of the surrounding area, so if flats were to be considered at all they should be small blocks.

Personally I think it would be better to create a nice family estate of just houses to include some for social housing and some for affordable housing.

We need some extra housing of course, but the number of properties and potential number of people needs to be studied carefully. Property developers are only looking at obtaining the maximum amount of profit for their investment but Barnet council need to think, first and foremost, about its residents.

Comment: There is absolutely not enough social housing being proposed in this building. I would object to a high rise that was so obviously purely for profit, it would be an abhorrence and completely not in keeping with the area and other housing. The light obscuration is a problem for the local community. But I object even more particularly because it is not social housing, a development that only proposes the bare minimum of social housing in an area that has so many people on low incomes is ridiculous. How the walk in GP can be closed and then the local services expect to handle a sudden influx of a large amount of residents is completely insane.

Transport infrastructure and local services are already overwhelmed and it is impossible to see how they can cope with the number of new flats proposed. Comment Reasons:

Comment: Firstly, I think this is a good site for development and has the potential to improve the centre of Cricklewood if delivered in the right way. However, I have objected primarily as I think the height of the towers should come down. I think this is achievable given the number of units allocated in the local plan. Whilst the site is within the Brent Cross regeneration area this does not dictate building heights. Instead, a clear design narrative and justification is required - in this case the 17 and 25 storey towers are not in keeping with the Victorian high street and not in character with the location. Precedence has been set at 9 storeys with Co-op site next door.

Cricklewood suffers from anti-social behavior. Ensuring an active street face along Cricklewood lane would help (retail etc.). Also considering lighting and layout to 'design out' these issues I think is very important.

The location suffers badly from air quality. There is an opportunity to provide local EV charging provision and increase the number of trees to support London's agenda on air quality.

I support the low number of parking spaces. Adequate parking restrictions will need to be in place surrounding the site and adequate drop-off/delivery provision (you mention car clubs in your proposal for example).

You are planning to provide 10% new homes for wheel chair users. However accessibility is an issue at the Thameslink station with no step free access to platforms (other than platform 1). DfT has provided funding to upgrade this station (by 2024). I encourage some joined up thinking around access to the station and some potential win/wins (retail etc.) that will encourage active use of the sites public realm.

Comment: The dire need for housing is well publicized but surely there is a better answer than building mega-towers (which is what they are compared to anything else in the area) on what is already elevated ground and are entirely out of keeping with any other building around here.

With the A5/Cricklewood lane and Cricklewood lane/Claremont Rd junctions being congestion disasters, and no harmonisation of parking restrictions between Barnet and Camden, Richborough Rd, Ebbsfleet road, Skardu road and Fordwych road are traffic nightmares as cars and vans scurry around trying to avoid those junctions and are also parking lots in particular on weekends when, as a resident, I cannot park anywhere near my own home.

Both Barnet and Camden already struggle to deal with the trash deposited on the streets and pavements, the inebriated urinating wherever they please (the Covid silver lining is that both of these have substantially decreased), and to deliver the healthcare and education services needed in the area.

Comment: This appears to be a wholly inappropriate development. That crossroads in Cricklewood is one of the worst I have come across in London and already it is backed up in four different directions most of the time. B&Q and the other shops there are useful and increasingly the population density in an already strained area, from an infrastructure perspective, seems to me to be mad.

With Covid upon us the the decreasing need for many workers to go to work, there seems to me to be limited need to cram more high rise housing in to central London when property prices are going to fall as demand falls.

If there is any forward movement on a project like this there needs to be contractual commitment and investment in to the roads and surrounding areas to make something like this additive and not a drain on everything around it. My experience of developments such as this, is that is highly unlikely and thus my overriding feeling is that it should not go ahead.

Comment: How can this even be considered?

Traffic along Cricklewood Lane/Edgware Road/ Claremont Road is already at breaking point, with vehicles polluting the area. Bus routes are already busy, trying to get on the Thameslink at Cricklewood during rush hour is already unpleasant and overcrowded.

It is hard enough as it is to get an appointment at our local GP surgery, it will be nigh on impossible to get one within 6 weeks with the extra people this will create.

The loss of light to local residents is unforgivable.

Would you agree this in Hampstead high street? No. So don't ruin our local neighbourhood in the name of greed.

There are so many more positive things that can be done with this land, smaller buildings - social housing, not 'affordable' which is still 80% of market rates, unattainable to most. As someone else said, a public swimming pool, and affordable gym, youth services, a local library, a community hall. Not this monstrous eyesore that there isn't the infrastructure to cope with anyway.

This will only bring noise, air and light pollution and no benefits whatsoever to the community - only to a handful of property developers that probably live in a secluded, leafy area well away from Cricklewood.

Existing residents don't deserve the misery this will bring, please do not pass this. Do the right thing, you know this proposal has no place in Cricklewood and will only harm the area, not benefit it.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I live in a top floor flat above shops (2nd floor) across the road in Brent and have done for 33 years. I have had a ringside seat to the changes that have taken place in and around Cricklewood Broadway during the last three decades. What has not been mentioned in this application to build 1,100 apartments on the B&Q site is that there are also other plans by Barnet council for further multiple storey buildings in front of this site at B&Q on Cricklewood Broadway itself. The eventual plan for housing on that block is not just going to be the B&Q site. The infrastructure in Cricklewood cannot cope with concentrated housing of this type, unless the developers are planning to sell them to absent owners and leave them empty. Plenty has been said about the traffic and transport links and I will not revisit that very serious issue.

I would like to mention other equally serious issues including water pressure in the area, rubbish collection, sewage disposal, gas and electricity services, basically all domestic utilities including mobile phone signals to name a few. Once everything is built there will be no sunlight on the Broadway apart from an hour or so in the middle of the day. 1,100 apartment equates to upwards of 3,000 plus individuals streaming out of the building every morning and the same coming back every evening, added to the other apartment blocks that are also planned for that same immediate area. The 1900 infrastructure was never built for that load or density of people. I totally agree we need more affordable housing to rent or buy in London but this venture is not going to be for those people. I object in the strongest possible terms to this application. Thank You

Comment: This application is for an unbelievable size development in not only footprint but also height and is unlike any other buildings in the area. The surrounding buildings are all just 2-3 stories in height where as the height of this application is far above anything for many miles and would be very over bearing for residents living near by.

It's also an incredible high density with the the very minimal of affordable housing and no social housing at all, which is total unacceptable in the current climate of high unemployment and job lose due to corona virus.

There is no provision for new schools or doctors and with no near by tube station it would put a huge strain on buses to Kilburn tube, which in the current covid19 restrictions is not acceptable. I'm all for good design that matches local needs, but considering the size of the plot, it must be possible to develop this plot along the same lines as fellows square, Nw2 which better suits the type of development thats suits the area.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Hello,

I am objecting to this proposal for a number of reasons:

Firstly, this proposed development only makes provision for the bare minimum of required 'affordable' housing. This sort of housing is rarely actually affordable and there is absolutely no provision for social housing. Considering the short supply of social housing in Brent, this is absolutely unacceptable for a development of this size.

This development will put an undue pressure on existing services. The proposal will bring thousands of new residents to the area without accounting for demands on services e.g. no provisions for a new school, new doctors surgery etc.

The construction will take a number of years, pushing additional traffic into Camden roads such as Westbere Road and Fordwych Road.

Finally, the proposal is a collection of huge sky scrapers, with the tallest being 25 storeys. It's extremely excessive. There's absolutely nothing this size anywhere nearby and this sets a dangerous precedent for other taller buildings to be built nearby. The shadow cast will extend far into Camden, impacting residents in both boroughs.

For these reasons, I object to this development which is clearly motivated solely on profit and greed and not in investing in the existing Brent communities and developing the existing infrastructure, amenities and services.

Comment: We strongly object to this plan for several reasons:

- the building is far too tall for an otherwise 'low-rise' urban area (Ellerton is the largest in the area and less than half the size) and would be an eyesore, and set a bad precedent for future tower block developments
- no consideration has been made for the impact on local infrastructure eg schools, GP surgeries. The increase in population will strain these services without more investment
- construction would take several years and put additional traffic into local roads such as Westbere Road, which is too narrow to accommodate large vehicles (eg the busses frequently cause damage to cars parked on the road)
- Proposals for affordable and social housing are insufficient and don't meet the needs of the area

Comment: While there is a need for more homes in this area, the scale of this proposed development is far too large.

Other residents have pointed out that traffic is already very bad around Cricklewood station. Stationary vehicles often queue for long periods at both crossroads near this site (Cricklewood Broadway and Cricklewood Lane, and Cricklewood Lane and Claremont/Lichfield Road), causing noise, poor air quality and accidents. A large-scale construction project, and later a huge increase in the local population, will only make this worse. The roads close to this development are not fit for this kind of project. The increased congestion will considerably inconvenience existing residents, all for the profit of a private developer.

Furthermore, our GPs and schools and bus services will be overwhelmed by this change. What proposals have the developers made to ensure the new and existing residents will have sufficient access to these services?

This building sounds excessively tall and very ugly. I am disappointed that the council is considering adding such an eyesore which is so out of keeping with the other buildings in Cricklewood. I support a smaller development, no taller than any existing building on the site, to maintain the character of the area. Alternatively, as another resident suggested, I support a development that would benefit the local community, such as a swimming pool or other facilities for young people.

This land should be used for social housing

This will contribute to social cleansing on London, particularly affecting young and working class people.

The height of the tower blocks will be a huge eyesore, cutting out natural light for thousands of local residents, which has a massive effect on people's mental health.

The extra traffic will cause more air pollution.

Cricklewood Thameslink is already packed during rush hour, hundreds of extra people using these trains will make an already unpleasant commute even more unbearable.

This land should be used for low rise social housing, and council-run amenities eg a park, youth club, council gym, swimming pool, sports field, community centre.

Comment: While visually it would be an improvement to see nice, new dwellings within landscaped area instead of a dreary looking B&Q with its huge parking lot, the entire development is pure and simple insane - 120m high blocks in an area dominated by 2-3 storey houses? I don't want to see these blocks everytime i turn around instead of the blue sky (!) And while dreary looking, the B&Q with the adjacent Pound store have been a godsend to us and can't remember a single month when I haven't shopped there.

Even if each and every proposed block will have its own parking for each resident (from what I know, this is now a planning requirement) - what will happen with our roads once all those people in the fancy flats will go out and get to work?! The roads are already crowded beyond belief and these guys want to increase the number of cars?! By at least 1100?!

As I said, this proposal is ridiculous and - as much as I welcome new housing - in its current form, I will oppose it as much as possible.

In terms of size, the number of units are too many for the site and the height of the development (25 stories - really?) is not in keeping with the surrounding area. Where are the schools, GPs etc to cater for this additional population that would exist due to this large development?

With the existing traffic issues at the moment in the area, I'd hate to think of the additional traffic generated from this 1000 plus unit development.

The development needs to be scaled down drastically. And if it isn't, it should be rejected by the Council planners.

Comment: Although in principle I agree with the idea of repurposing the B&Q site, I do not think there has been enough consideration made to the current communities that use the space nor the people that may move into the new homes.

Use of the Public Realm

The area outside B&Q, facing Cricklewood lane, is a meeting point for friends and families. At times this is a busy area. There is the potential for conflict between the residents of the new homes (who undoubtedly will pay a large service charge) and the people who enjoy what is currently the adjacent space.

How will the public realm be managed to ensure that there is not conflict between people paying for the space and people who wish to use the space?

Parking

As has been mentioned by others, how you can manage car use if you are selling properties to people who may wish to rent them out to others? Is this going to be a stipulation of the leaseholder agreement. There does not seem to be any impact study on the increase in cars in the local area.

Crime

How do you avoid antisocial behaviour? The pathways in and out of the site provide fertile opportunity for people to run into and away from crime.

Other developments in Cricklewood

What evidence is there that the developers of the B&Q are talking to the developers of 1-13 Cricklewood Lane and 194-196 Cricklewood Broadway. These plans should not be considered in isolation as between them they create a brand new centre for Cricklewood with both benefits and potential issues

I object to this planning application until these questions and comments are adequately addressed.

This area is already horrendously developed, the roads are full of pot holes, the road is one lane which leads to traffic jams, air pollution is high due to the train and tons of cars on edgware rd (cricklewood roadway).

There's a skip dump, and a waste of green space right next to it that no one wants to develop.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I object to the proposed development on the following grounds:

The proposed scale of the development is immense and fails to take into account existing issues of overcrowding in this area as well as proposed other developments and impact on the area.

The area is at a junction between three boroughs with each Borough being stretched for services in the provision of healthcare (GP's) and education. There are many primary children in the area who have failed to get places at local school and given the nature of proposed individual homes there is likely to be an increase in demand.

There appears to be no apparent consideration of how people will get around. The pavements in the area are already congested. People struggle to pass one another. Pasing at bus stops and queues outside ATM's is extremely difficult without venturing into traffic.

Furthermore, the road traffic on Cricklewood lane, Cricklewood Broadway, Westbere is at a standstill for considerable periods of the day. This includes buses which are full most of the time (not just at rush hour). The roads have no capacity to accommodate more buses.

Train capacity at the Thameslink station is also at capacity at peak times as is the Jubilee Line from Willesden or West Hampstead.

There is no proposed parking for services to supply the homes e.g. delivery vehicles, taxi's, visitor parking, construction vehicles. At present, parking is already at a premium as a result of businesses in the area and customers of the restaurants etc on the Broadway. These small family run business with niche clientele would fail without their regular customers.

Given that the development is on the boundary between 3 Borough's, there is likely to be a massive impact on residents of Camden and Brent as well as Barnet. There has been difficulties thus far to manage the problems of high density living in the area in terms of cooperation around litter control, flytipping and maintaining streets.

2. The crossroad junction of Cricklewood Lane/ Cricklewood Broadway/ Chichele Road is already a bottleneck. This development will only add to the traffic congestion.
3. The size of both residential and commercial will bring increased pressure on public transport in the area, especially Cricklewood Thameslink station.
4. I'm concerned that such a large residential development will be conducive to an increase in anti-social behaviour and crime in the area.

Comment: I must object to this proposed development in the strongest terms. The intended skyscrapers are wholly out of keeping with the pleasingly low rise character of the surrounding area, and their imposition upon this residential community would represent a callous disregard for the interests of local people, to be unconscionably trumped by the greed of developers seeking to maximise profit no matter the distress caused to those forced to live with the results. The sheer scale of the buildings would be an eyesore and make many areas gloomy and depressing to be in, just like the area of Cricklewood Lane adjacent to the 'Broadway' development, which had previously been a bright and pleasant place to walk. Cricklewood also already experiences severe problems with traffic congestion, public transport overcrowding and sufficiency of facilities like GP and school places, and it is difficult to see how such high density development can do otherwise than exacerbate the pressure on those already-stretched resources. Some development of this site is to be welcomed, but on a far smaller scale, and not at the expense of the destruction of this longstanding local community and environment, which would be irreversible. It is not acceptable for Cricklewood to be turned into another Colindale or a dumping ground for development unpalatable to the more affluent areas in the borough.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The proposed development accounts for no social housing. At a time when more people than ever need social housing this is unacceptable.

Secondly, there is no plan to increase services, as schools and doctor surgeries. Having the local population increase without correct provision of these essential services is irresponsible to the well being of current and future residents of the area.

Thirdly, when it says that there will be affordable housing, what would the income salary of a potential resident need to be in order to buy a home there? Make the homes truly affordable for people in normal every day jobs such as shop workers, taxi drivers, teachers, nursery staff, nurses and delivery drivers. These are the hard working people of this country and have proven through covid just how much we as a nation depend on them.

Comment: I think anyone who lives in and around Cricklewood Broadway and the crossroads with Chichele Rd and Cricklewood Lane knows just how congested with traffic the area is. To me it seems unbelievable that a plan for up to 1100 residential flats is even being considered in this vicinity. Even if only half of those residents had a car the mayhem caused by vehicles come in and out of this new site would be horrendous and cause a logjam of traffic. The proposal loosely refers 'buildings' in plural without being specific as to 'how many' this intends to be.

In this area I know the tallest current building is 5 storeys high (Travel Lodge) which is tall enough for our local skyline. The thought of a 25 storey building going up is a non-starter as it would be such an eyesore in Cricklewood.

With 1100 residential units hosting what would most likely be 2000+ people there is now room around this site to implement associated services... a doctors, school, dentist etc. Existing such services in the area are, I perceive, full to the limit. Overall, I don't believe the knock on effects of this proposal have been thought out properly so I am objecting to this move.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: As a resident of the Fortune Green area in Camden, I wish to express my strong concerns for the proposed new development on the B and Q site in terms of the impact it will have on the surrounding area and infrastructure.

Whilst we all recognise that there is a serious lack of affordable housing in London, the proposed new development is not the answer. It will end up squeezing an unsustainable number of new residents into an already overcrowded, often multi-occupancy, area of the city and will have serious negative health and well-being effects on those already living in the area. Indeed, given that the proposal includes a 25 storey, 16 storey and 17 storey tower on the B and Q site (the current tower is about 5 stories and is visible from Mill Lane) in addition to the one proposed for the back of the Co-op, more on the site opposite the Bingo and another on the Matalan site, it will impact significantly on all of us living in Camden, Brent and Barnet - existing and new occupants alike.

Already the traffic and crowding along Cricklewood Lane, the intersecting arteries with Westbere Road and the continuation of Shoot-Up Hill on the other side is terrible, particularly during weekdays, backing far up each of those crossroads (including to where we live). That is to say nothing of the pollution from this traffic and idling cars, as well as the lack of parking and pressure on school places, in this area already. Moreover, the train line in from Cricklewood station is extremely overcrowded during travel time on weekdays. Frequently, one is unable to get onto an overcrowded train, resulting in a 30-minute wait for another train (further compounded by ThamesLink adversely reconfiguring the train timetable to reduce number of trains stopping at Cricklewood, en route to London).

There are insufficient local schools and GP surgeries to support some 4000 new inhabitants.

This proposal will have significant negative impacts on the health and well-being on all in this area.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The Brent Cross Cricklewood Framework states that taller buildings are to be in the north west corner of the opportunity area adjacent to the M1 Motorway, North Circular, Brent Cross Station and planned heavy infrastructure (rail freight hub etc). Building heights are to step down across the area towards the existing residential areas.

At 25 storeys this development on a site which is already elevated from street level would be the tallest building to come forward in the opportunity area with the early phases of Brent Cross South (closest to existing residential areas) ranging from 6 to 13 storeys. Moreover, the approved re-developments within the immediate vicinity (i.e. Co-op, Cricklewood Lane) are significantly lower leading to a mismatch of heights, with no transition from north to south.

The proposal will produce a development which would dominate and fail to respond to the surrounding prevailing heights in its immediate context. It will have an adverse impact on the urban form in this part of Cricklewood and cause significant harm becoming overbearing and dominating the surrounding streets and buildings, in particular the Cricklewood Railway Terraces Conservation Area and the two Grade II listed buildings to the south west.

Further consideration should also be given to the amenity of neighbouring occupiers with the effect of the proposals on daylight levels a concern.

This is a sustainable brownfield site and development should be encouraged. However, I cannot support the current application due to its excessive height and in particular the 25 and 17 storey towers.

Comment: Cricklewood is getting inundated with new buildings. This is already a built up area and is getting terribly over developed. The traffic levels are unbearable at the Cricklewood end of Cricklewood Lane and even if the traffic is divided between there and the other exit/entrance leading to Edgware Road, it still is a huge burden on the current levels of traffic. Added to that the pollution levels are ghastly. Why on earth are developers allowed to put buildings at every available space? Cricklewood is becoming a nasty area to live in and for those of us who cannot move due to unaffordability or other reason, it really is the pits. This type of development should be taken elsewhere into less developed areas with more space. This is our home and we should have some peace and quiet and not have to weave in and out of crowds of people all milling around the narrow pavements of the Broadway and the noise levels are also increasing. We pay huge taxes to live round here, so please don't make it even more unpleasant than it already is,

Comment: Echoing the comments of my fellow objectors, this development is of scale that is unsustainable and will lead to a decreased quality of life for the existing local residents as well as the theoretical ones who would occupy the scheme as proposed.

The site sits at one of the highest points in Cricklewood itself, therefore allowing a series of buildings, the shortest of which would establish a new height threshold for the area, would cause significant damage to views in the area.

Views are not the most important issue, what is more important is the density of residents that will occupy the site. Other comments have identified new resident's car parking as an issue. Even assuming minimal parking is provided for residents on the site and the applicant commits to a 'strong estate management strategy' to ensure there will be no illicit parking on site, inevitably illegal parking would occur. I don't even own a car but I appreciate the concerns of my neighbours in that area who are concerned at their ability to continue to park if new residents spill over into the streets already covered by CPZs.

Finally, when considering this application do consider the strength of local opposition that is emerging. Allowing that level of height on an already raised piece of ground would establish a damaging precedent for that part of Barnet. Soon with permitted development rights being expanded every owner of a piece of commercial property will take a chance on pushing for that level of height. This property only benefits from close proximity to a crowded and service limited Thameslink station, just imagine the argument that could be made for sites with better transport connections.

It will add to the high levels of traffic congestion on A5 and Cricklewood Lane which are already noted as being problematic for the pollution they generate. There is also a minimal number of affordable homes in the development. The developer should be making greater efforts in this area too.

Comment: While I appreciate the need for additional housing, adding 1,100 residential units by a major junction that is already at a stand-still most of the time makes no sense at all. There are no tower blocks anywhere nearby. The design of the development, and particularly the height of the proposed buildings, is totally out of keeping with anything in the vicinity. They would be an eyesore for miles around and cast significant shadows on the neighbouring streets. Most of the accommodation in the area is terraced housing, with many of the properties converted into flats. This means thousands of local residents in Barnet, Camden and Brent will be negatively affected by being deprived of precious natural light.

With the site being on Barnet's boundary with Camden and Brent and no co-ordinated traffic or residents' parking plan in place, the new development will turn the traffic and parking situation for local residents from very difficult to intolerable.

Increased traffic will make residential road nearby even busier rat runs as cars try to dodge the inevitable congestion. This will increase risk for the many school children who travel in to local schools at a time when they are being encouraged to avoid public transport and walk and cycle to school.

I am not aware of any plans to increase public services such as GPs and schools to cater for the 2,000+ new residents, in fact quite the opposite as one GP practice will be forced to close. None of the collateral damage from the proposed development can be mitigated without a complete redesign and expansion of the Cricklewood Lane / Kilburn High Road junction.

In summary, this is an ill-thought-through development that should only be seriously considered if the number of units is reduced considerably, and the number of storeys in the towers reduced to no more than 8.

Comment: The congestion in roads around Cricklewood Broadway and the crossroads with the A5, Chichele Rd and Cricklewood Lane is already awful.

A plan for up to 1100 residential flats in this vicinity will cause mayhem when vehicles come in and out of this new site and would cause a logjam of traffic, even if only a proportion of residents have cars. I was unsure from the plans how many car parking spaces were being allowed.

The tallest current building in the area is 5 storeys high (Travel Lodge) which is tall enough for our local skyline. A 25 storey building in Cricklewood is totally out of character with other flats and housing developments.

Existing services such as schools, doctors, and dentists in the area are already full to the limit. There is no infrastructure planning to accompany this huge number of new housing units, which will mean about 2000 new residents to the area.

As someone who lives locally and uses local services, and frequently travels across the Cricklewood A5 Junction by car, public transport, by cycle and by foot, I object to this plan. A much smaller number of units would be far more appropriate.

We do not want these high rise buildings in Cricklewood. The railway cottages, where I live, will be sandwiched between this development and the one proposed by Brent on the Matalan site. The homes in Cricklewood are predominantly terraced houses and the residents would like it to remain this way. This area lacks schools and other major services such as GP practices which cannot support the foreseen population increase. Cricklewood has been my home for over 20 years and I am very concerned about the lack of attention and care it has received from Barnet Council. It seems that only the more affluent areas of the borough matter and we feel neglected. I hope our worries and feelings are taken into consideration .

I also take issue with the proposed height of the building which will be intrusive and out of proportion to the surrounding neighbourhood.

My objection is also based on the lack of any considered plan for investment in public infrastructure and social services to support this development, and limited evidence of a formal accountability process in place.

Finally, I am doubtful on the economic viability of your project. There are already many new builds in the area that are failing to shift stock. There is evidence that new builds are struggling to defend against spiralling property values in the area. To the extent this development is net positive in EVA terms, I am certain that that is possible only because it ignores the significant negative externalities on the community.

We also object to the scale of the project. The area is already congested with traffic and people. The local amenities do not support such an increase in population.

We welcome the site being tidied up so that drunks and dossers are not sitting in the grass area as they currently do. And would welcome a much smaller in height, reduced scale development.

Comment: I believe this project with storeys of 12, 16 and 25 storeys tall is ugly, out of character and an eyesore which I would be able to see from my garden in Heber Road. It is so depressing to consider that planning would potentially approve these 1,100 flats.

We have a sense of neighbourhood here and community, and thousands of people flooding into the neighbourhood would be very negative for several reasons:

It would be overcrowding the area, traffic congestion is already horrendous and pollution levels intolerably high. Local services will struggle. It would destroy what quality of life we have now. But would Barnet care? I sincerely doubt that the well being of present or future generations matters to our councillors if they can only see short term financial gain and decide to go ahead with this project.

We have lived here 30 years and if this proposal is another one which local people object to, but developers go ahead with, it is utterly demoralising. So please, this time, please listen and think about future generations. People should not be stuffed into small spaces, like chickens in a battery farm. It is on social, environmental and moral grounds the wrong proposal.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I totally object to the planning application of the high rised building that is being proposed to be developed,

My home is just behind the current B&Q building and the prospect of a 25 storey building overshadowing us is making me depressed.

When i go to my garden i can see the b&Q building (less than 100 m away)and the thought of this monstrosity of a building will be an imposing figure WHENEVER i go into my garden, cast a shadow and invade my privacy. It would be a definite eye sore an not in keeping with the area.

The traffic along cricklewood lane is horrendous at the best of time, 1100 residential unit? is this not mad?

The infrastructure to accommodate these people into the community is just not there. The pollution that it will generate!

The developer need to understand they need to create homes not flat and house. We've already got the BX redevelopment happening. where are the extra schools(Whitefield and claremont primary are just being demolished and rebuilt, we need extra capacity) and medical services. cricklewood would just be over populated with this development.

Please reconsider.

Comment: This proposed development is completely out of character with the surrounding Cricklewood neighbourhood.

A 25 story block (made even higher by the fact that it is proposed to be on the raised ground next to Cricklewood station) would overwhelm the centre of Cricklewood and loom over the surrounding houses, blocking the light. The proposal is far too high density for the surrounding area. It is inappropriate for the character of the surrounding area.

The proposed development would place unbelievable stress on the local facilities - schools, doctors' surgeries, public space. The use of the existing public realm to increase the profit of the developers is a scandal.

The increase in density of population would increase already-high traffic levels, increasing pollution and noise. It would put a great strain on public transport in the area.

Please reject this proposal.

Comment: I oppose the Montreaux application for 1,100 residential units in blocks up to 25 storeys tall (built on embankment making buildings tower higher over my 3 storey house in Elm Grove & surrounding neighbourhood). I oppose on grounds of scale, number & size of buildings. The design/appearance is very unsympathetic to the surrounding area.

Barnet must see that this development in addition to the 2 already planned for the immediate vicinity of Cricklewood Broadway/Lane:

a) Co Op site - flats with 1 block maximum height of 12 storeys.

b) Galtymore site - flats up to 8 storeys maximum) is cramming too many flats into a part of the borough with limited facilities & resources. Aside from this Montreaux application plus 2 developments above we are being impacted by Brent Cross South plus proposed development on the Brent side on the Matalan site (9 storeys maximum). It is shocking if Barnet seeks to meet its targets for new housing by packing housing developments into its 'have not areas' Cricklewood & Colindale.

Please require Montreaux to go away & scale its plans down to what is appropriate to the neighbourhood in terms of scale, number & size of buildings, design & appearance. I would not oppose Montreaux's development should the development be a more appropriate design & scale eg. Fairview Homes next to Virgin Gym (8-9 storeys high) or Fabrica Fellows Square Development. Those developers have made a profit with developments of a scale & appearance appropriate to the area so why allow Montreaux to blight Cricklewood with this greedy oversized development. A scaling down would be better for existing residents (& new residents in all proposed developments) reducing negative impacts of loss of light/privacy, out of control traffic levels, public transport overcrowding (in normal times trying to get on a train at rush hour is impossible) & overcrowding of the area & its facilities overall. I support plans to keep/ enhance green public realm & trees, crucial to area.

I object on the grounds of height, density and the effect of these on the local community and local infrastructure particularly when the cumulative effect of the following is taken into account:

Other Local Developments

Co-op Site

Brent Cross Cricklewood Regeneration Area

Previous Local Developments

Express Dairy Site

Cricklewood Trading Estate

Cricklewood Production Village

Transport Study

Statement

The proposed development will provide car parking spaces for 10% of the residential dwellings, of which 3% will be for disabled drivers from the outset. There is therefore no opportunity for the proposed development to displace any parking onto the public highway or surrounding streets.

Comment

Both LB Barnet and LB Brent need to consider where will the other residents with vehicles park? And, make no mistake, there will be other vehicles.

Statement

An assessment of travel by different modes shows that the proposed development will result in a material reduction in peak hour and daily vehicle trips. Rail - During the most affected peak period the predicted trip generation from the Site therefore represents just less than one additional passenger per carriage. Bus - The additional demand generated by the proposed development would equate to either one or two additional bus passengers per bus.

Comment

It beggars beliefs that 1100 additional dwellings with however many more persons this equates to, will only add 8 persons per train during peak travel.

In addition, there appears to have been no study into any effect on the TFL Jubilee Line local stations (Willesden Green and Kilburn).

Design

Statement

The Proposed Development has sought to integrate Secured by Design core principles, based on the Secure by Design (SBD) New Homes 201612 standards for security. The general layout and design accommodates these principles to minimise the opportunity for crime and disorder.

Comment

There is a lack of detail at this stage of the planning process, however it is of the utmost importance that future plans in respect of walkways, public spaces seek to design in the safety of individuals and design out potential areas for crime and the carrying on of criminal activities, such as dead ends.

Development Parcels

This will inevitably lead to a lengthening of the build phase. The total build phase timeframe and the time in which neighbours experience disruption is identified as five and a half years - is this acceptable?

Primary Healthcare

Statement

At the eight practices there are 22.3 FTE GPs in total. The average number of patients per FTE GP across the practices (2,177) far exceeds the target ratio of 1,800 patients per FTE GP and therefore has no capacity for additional residents.

Comment

This lack of capacity will be exacerbated with the loss of the Cricklewood Health Centre if the Co-op development goes ahead.

Primary Education

Statement

If it is assumed that 95% occupancy should be planned for, as per the National Audit Office guidance³³, and therefore that a 95% occupancy rate means that a school has no further capacity, there would be a total surplus of 164 places at primary schools within 2.1km of the Site.

Comment

The school list includes a significant number of faith-based schools on the same basis as other schools and this may not be an appropriate way of ascertaining the number of places available i.e. there are likely to be fewer places than is suggested.

In transport terms, the proposal puts great emphasis on the closure of the Cricklewood and the limited parking for residents, but takes no account of car-borne visitors to the 1,100 residential units. Surrounding pavements are narrow and already crowded. There is vague reference to a "town square" and "Cricklewood Green" but the community benefit is doubtful. No other community benefit is cited and the opportunity to improve the cramped access to the adjacent railway station or create a much-needed public transport interchange would be lost if this development goes ahead.

Comment: I object to this planning application on the basis of the unsympathetic and disproportionate height of the buildings. The proposal for a 25 storey building, classified by the Mayor's tall building strategy as "very tall", is completely out of character for Cricklewood, where the maximum number of storeys of all buildings is around 8 or 9 storeys.

According to the current London Plan, Policy 7.7 Location and design of tall and large buildings, Tall and large buildings should:

a generally be limited to sites in the Central Activity Zone, opportunity areas, areas of intensification or town centres that have good access to public transport

b only be considered in areas whose character would not be affected adversely by the scale, mass or bulk of a tall or large building

c relate well to the form, proportion, composition, scale and character of surrounding buildings, urban grain and public realm (including landscape features), particularly at street level;

d individually or as a group, improve the legibility of an area, by emphasising a point of civic or visual significance where appropriate, and enhance the skyline and image of London

e incorporate the highest standards of architecture and materials, including sustainable design and construction practices

f have ground floor activities that provide a positive relationship to the surrounding streets

g contribute to improving the permeability of the site and wider area, where possible

h incorporate publicly accessible areas on the upper floors, where appropriate i make a significant contribution to local regeneration.

The proposals fail on several of these points, but especially a, b, c and d. The proposals are in direct conflict with the London Plan and NPPF.

It is also clear that the buildings would cast shadows on nearby houses, and place additional stress on Cricklewood Station, the road network, and other local facilities. The development would be detrimental to the area.

Comment: I strongly object for the following reasons:

1. The scale of the 25 and 17 storey towers is grossly out of character with neighbouring buildings and is a clear case of gross over development that will significantly harm the character of the area.
2. Any local can point out that transport links - particularly cars already pose significant issues of pollution and congestion that are already extremely problematic - before the addition of 1,100 residential units and their vehicles.
3. The development of this site should provide the perfect opportunity to improve the adjacent rail link interchange, but this crucial aspect has been completely ignored.
4. The addition of 1,100 residential units will put huge demands on local services, particularly primary care (GP) which are already operating at capacity. This could have been addressed with a new practice incorporated into the scheme but again has been ignored.
5. Thames Water Utilities Limited has confirmed following the submission of the pre-planning enquiry for this site that there is insufficient capacity in their water and sewerage network to serve the whole development and reinforcements are required.

6. Similarly, UK Power Networks has confirmed that off-site upgrades are required to accommodate the proposed electrical demand of 6.6MVA when all the units are fully occupied.
7. Little/no thought or provision has been made regarding a large supermarket that could supply both the new residents and the existing locals - especially in light of the fact that the existing Coop is slated for redevelopment. Again, this could have been sited somewhere on such a large site, but instead has just been ignored.
8. There has been a notable and deliberate lack of social housing provision or housing for rent. Cricklewood does not need or want flats being built as investments for wealthy overseas buyers - London need homes for Londoners.

Comment: I strongly object for the following reasons:

1. The scale of the 25 and 17 storey towers is grossly out of character with neighbouring buildings and will significantly harm the character of the area. There is no other development in the area or any surrounding area with a 25 storey building. There is no way this should be allowed. Look at Colindale, that area has been completely ruined with high tower blocks that dominate the area. I can see why councils want more people paying more council tax but they aren't providing more services for them and you will ultimately kill this area for families.

2. We are at the start of a global economic downturn where people are moving OUT of London NOT into the area. Who is going to buy these flats? There is also no social housing provision/rental accommodation. I doubt even wealthy overseas buyers will have the money to buy them. How viable is this now in a post-CV world???

3. This will cast a shadow on all the surrounding area & affect the character of the area.

4. Increased cars pollution and congestion that are already extremely problematic - before the addition of 1,100 residential units and their vehicles. A slight change to a local road isn't enough. Meeting our Co2 emission targets won't be helped with this increase in traffic.

5. The addition of 1,100 residential units will put huge demands on local services, particularly primary care (GP) and schools which are already operating at capacity. This could have been addressed with a new practice incorporated into the scheme but again has been ignored.

Comment: I must object to this proposed development in the strongest terms.

The global pandemic is causing people to move out of London and has this been taken into account now? Who will buy these flats? There has been substantial increase in the number of flats built in NW2. It is at least 3/ 4 times bigger than originally intended; multiple blocks of flats going up everywhere. This is in addition to the tower block on the corner of the Broadway/Cricklewood Lane.

It's not acceptable for Cricklewood to be turned into another Colindale or dumping ground for development unpalatable to the more affluent areas in the borough. This causes polarisation of people's experiences - the demand for extra housing is being forced on some areas and affluent families will leave & a death spiral starts, making it economically unviable to run local services.

The skyscrapers are wholly out of keeping with the pleasingly low rise character of the surrounding area, and their imposition upon this residential community would represent a callous disregard for the interests of local people, to be unconscionably trumped by the greed of developers seeking to maximise profit no matter the distress caused to those forced to live with the results.

The sheer scale of the buildings would be an eyesore and make many areas gloomy and depressing to be in, just like the area of Cricklewood Lane adjacent to the 'Broadway' development, which had previously been a bright and pleasant place to walk.

Cricklewood also already experiences severe problems with traffic congestion, public transport overcrowding and sufficiency of facilities like GP and school places, and it is difficult to see how such high density development can do otherwise than exacerbate the pressure on those already-stretched resources.

Some development of this site is to be welcomed, but on a far smaller scale, and not at the expense of the destruction of this longstanding local community and environment, which would be irreversible.

Comment: i object to the 25 storey development of the B&Q site. 25 storeys is completely out of character for the area, with no other buildings on this scale in the vicinity. The sheer height will cause loss of light on many surrounding properties and the skyline will be completely ruined in what is a relatively low rise area. Cricklewood is already very congested on most day with both people and traffic and Cricklewood Lane and Broadway are often gridlocked particularly at the railway bridge area near Cricklewood Train Station. The addition of thousands of extra inhabitants will just make this even worse. Of course we need more housing but to introduce blocks of such huge size in an already densely populated area (one of the most densely populated areas in London) will make life worse for the current inhabitants. The Broadway area with it's low rise but beautiful buildings will be completely dwarfed by architecture more suited to a large underdeveloped site.

Colindale is now more like Manhattan with its huge buildings everywhere and the traffic here is unbearable and you are proposing to do exactly the same in Cricklewood. Barnet planning has already allowed huge developments in Childs Hill which have ruined what was once a pretty and close neighbourhood. The Brent Cross development is also on the doorstep of Cricklewood and the impact of all of this over-development can be felt already with traffic congestion, fighting for school places and doctor's appointments being hard to come by. Life in Cricklewood will be cramped.

there seems to be no thought given about how all this over-development affects the local communities. Barnet just seems to approve all the huge developments with no regard for proper town planning and sensible growth. Why put such a huge development in such a densely populated and overcrowded area? Place it where there is space and where it will not be out of character.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I completely object to this planning application. The proposed buildings are completely out of character with the rest of the area. The buildings will be a blot on the landscape and are completely unnecessary. Where are shoppers supposed to park when shopping on Cricklewood Broadway now? There is nowhere for existing residents to park.

Cricklewood Lane already has severe congestion issues and further housing will mean more cars and only make it much worse. I see nothing proposed in this application that supports infrastructure such as schools, doctor or dentist surgeries, walk-in clinics, hospitals, etc. Town planning is not restricted to just providing housing. You need to also provide the supporting infrastructure that all these people will need. Providing a token playground or some retail space is not sufficient enough.

You are taking away local amenities from existing residents and simply replacing them with more residents. That makes absolutely no sense. Do local residents have no rights? Are you always going to just treat them with complete contempt because this housing scheme will raise millions for your coffers? Seriously which other local neighbourhood has a 25 storey housing block right in the middle of its main shopping street? It's a completely poorly thought out and poorly laid out proposal which should have been rejected outright at the first hurdle. Barnet Council should not even be considering such a preposterous and ludicrous scheme all in the name of money.

Having lived in Cricklewood for the last 45 years, this by far is the worst planning application I have had to witness. There is nothing in the application focused on improving the roads serving the area. It's just more housing, housing and yet more housing. It's a disappointing proposal that will overpopulate what is already a congested area in terms of traffic and people.

Under no circumstances should this proposal be approved.

Comment: This development does not align with the rest of the area. It is too tall and not in keeping with the local area. The majority of the local buildings are 2 or 3 storey and as a local resident I do not believe this high density and high rise development should be allowed to spoil the historic character of Cricklewood.

Additionally, there is not enough local infrastructure to support this many new homes. The development should be revised to better fit the existing local aesthetic.

Comment: Dear Sirs,

I believe although the regeneration is a great idea and a town centre sounds good, I will miss the Shops that's are currently there, and the height of these blocks are extremely high and will not fit in to Cricklewood.

I work in New Build construction and have just moved less than a year ago to the new development next to virgin gym. This was restricted to 7 levels which looks good. I could not even imagine the impact of a building that tall would have in this area. We would only put in planning for this if similar building where close by.

I would say 10 levels would be the maximum that's would fit in to the area. We do not want to loose the feel of Cricklewood.

Kind Regards,

Francesca

These plans are not in keeping with the area and look completely out of place.

They will impact residents from Barnet but also Brent and Camden as well.

We do not want Cricklewood to look like the monstrosity that is Wembley Park where tower blocks are so tightly packed together, the area has lost any charm or character it once had.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This planning application for a 25-storey tower block and 16-storey ones too in the middle of Cricklewood is disproportionate and overwhelming let alone the impact of loss of light on existing neighbours and the nearby Railway Cottages conservation area. It's extraordinarily high-density and it would overwhelm the centre of Cricklewood, looming not only above its nearest neighbours in Barnet but all the Brent and Camden residents of Cricklewood too, and stress facilities to breaking point. The application sites the tower should be near Cricklewood Lane for maximum impact on people coming through the bridge and to act as wayfinding when anyone who actually lives in Cricklewood knows that there is no lack of wayfinding and this bridge is emblazoned by Cricklewood wayfinding thanks to a community project. In 2012 the Cricklewood Town Team were awarded OLF funding to revitalise it's high street and create a unified and attractive destination and enhance the Edwardian grandeur and this work has been ongoing. The architecture needs to be distinct and building on and enhancing Cricklewood Town as an historic town centre location. Cricklewood is mainly two-storey and occasional three-storey buildings and I object strongly to the height of the buildings in this application. Though these plans affect the character of Cricklewood, it is one-quarter Barnet, one-quarter Camden and one-half Brent and this consultation has to be tri-borough.

With so many new homes are local services i.e. doctors, schools will be overwhelmed. Traffic on the main road can already be bad and this will again increase. I also really don't think Barnet really care about what happens in Cricklewood as we are on the periphery and have turned us into a dumping ground considering the recent planning they have approved without real thought for all of the residents of Cricklewood.

Our area is already overcrowded with people needing services; the streets are already ugly and covered in litter and dirty poorly maintained shops. More people will make it worse. And the loss of beautiful sky, to be replaced by ugly flats, is profoundly sad.

We need to treasure what we have and look after it better. We need to care for our existing residents and make our townscape beautiful with trees, litter management and civic care. Not cram in more buildings and more people. Let's love where we live; not prostitute it.

Comment: I am a local resident and feel the current plans are ludicrous in their size and scale. There is no capacity for these new respondents either in our schools or drs or other local services. There is also already considerable congestion in the area and the building phase of these works will undoubtedly make this worse. My daughter travels to school on the bus down cricklewood Lane, and the traffic is terrible. I don't believe there has been any provision of extra public transport in the area. And there is not enough capacity on the buses as it stands. Unless TfL open up the metropolitan line at Willesden, which could ease things, I can't see how the roads will cope. Or if cricklewood station somehow connected with the north London overground. In addition there is little to offset the co2 emissions and as one of the most polluted spots in the area it would need a lot more consultation and provision of trees to improve this. I don't doubt that the space needs developing, but I don't think it is acceptable to have 25storey buildings and it is not in keeping at all with the surrounding area. Please consider this objection on the grounds of:

Size/scale

Carbon offset

Lack of Public services

Lack of Transport and congested roads

Comment: I recognise the need for more housing in London and do not object in principle to the development of this site. However, I do object to this application. Basically, it's just too big and out of all proportion to the surrounding area. I live less than 200 yards away from the site and the prospect of a 25-storey tower block surrounded by a further group of tall towers is beyond imagining. It feels like an insult to local people and will totally dominate the whole area. It will also cause unwelcome shade and loss of privacy for the nearby houses and gardens.

Not only that, but the addition of 1,100 new residential units, potentially housing nearly 2,700 extra people, on top of the other local housing developments (e.g. 1-13 Cricklewood Lane, and the Matalan and Galtymore sites) will put a huge pressure on local services. The buses, for example, are already over-crowded and all the additional users will bring about travel chaos. Similarly, overcrowding on the trains will increase, especially with the addition of Brent Cross West Station, so that passengers further down the line will sometimes be unable to board the trains.

The developers say they have consulted with local people about the plans. However, none of the drawings I have seen made it clear what the development as a whole, with its overbearing height and massive bulk, would actually look like from the surrounding neighbourhood.

A group of buildings no higher than 9 storeys would be much more acceptable.

Comment: I would like to strongly object to the building of a huge tower block in the centre of Cricklewood. 25 storeys is unacceptable. The building will be out of keeping with the Victorian and Edwardian buildings in Cricklewood, dominate the skyline and loom over Cricklewood creating shadow for existing residents. Planning permission for the new Coop site was approved for 10 storeys and the B & Q development should not be allowed to be any higher than this - and should be lower in terms of storeys, given that it is on higher ground than the Coop building. Thank you for taking on board my objection.

I am objecting to the current plans of the new block in Cricklewood for the following reasons

- Loss of light. A 25 storey tower block will have an impact on my properties lighting.
- There are insufficient local amenities and services
- Cricklewood Lane is already far too busy, anymore traffic would be very bad for our local area and pollution
- Local parking will not be sufficient and from experience living in a new block the demand on developed on site parking is never enough and leads to local nuisance
- Public transport will currently not be able to cope with increased demand.
- Noise and disruption of building work.

Thank you

Comment: I am not opposed to the area being developed for residential purposes. I am, however, opposed to the current plans. The introduction of a building that is over 20 stories tall is simply too high to be in keeping with the neighbourhood. As well as being dissonant with the neighbourhood, it will place an unacceptable pressure on the existing amenities. It will also impact on the sunlight which the southern end of the railway terraces currently benefit from. The orientation of the gardens in those properties mean that they already do not get a full days' sun, and will get even less if this development is permitted. The tower could be reduced to, say, 10 stories in its current location and probably would not have an adverse impact on the neighbourhood or local amenities and the sunlight enjoyed in the railway terraces.

If this development is permitted it will change the feel and look of Cricklewood for the worse and forever. Please do not be the council that approves this fundamental change.

Comment: I urge Barnet Council to go back to the drawing board with this re-development plan. The impact of such high rise buildings on the local community will be dreadful in a number of ways. Clearly no one involved in these plans actually lives in Cricklewood otherwise they would understand how terrible of an idea this is. Please I urge you to listen to all the people who are objecting to these plans. The high density of new housing you are currently trying to cram into Cricklewood across various sites will destroy whatever small amount of charm is left in what is an already overstretched, overpopulated and underserved area of NW London. Yes, the 120 odd page Masterplan booklet is attractive to look at BUT the vision it presents is totally unrealistic and unwanted in our area. Reduce the scale!

As a final thought, if the Socio Economic Report on this development makes the following disturbing statement:

"it is deemed that the Proposed Development will have a direct moderate adverse (significant), permanent effect on primary healthcare provision locally if healthcare provision is not increased." Then this statement alone must be taken as proof that the plan is not sustainable in its current state.

Comment: That such a proposal should be made reflects a blatant disregard for neighbouring communities as well as providing housing and facilities on such an intense level that increases in crime, traffic chaos and the number of unhappy residents of your borough will result. This mindless overdevelopment of the site can only be motivated by the developers keen eye for profit at any cost.

The intensity of this proposal is a major concern for both potential residents of the development and to a significant surrounding area. A significant volume of traffic is bound to be generated going southwards towards central London on to a road and transport system that is already overburdened. Chaos on the east/west road (Cricklewood Lane) is inevitable and significant modification of this road is impossible.

Providing decent low level housing on this site is a legitimate aim but this in no way is realised with the current proposal.

Comment: This is an appalling application and I wish to object to it in the strongest terms. The building of 3 enormous soulless high rise blocks will destroy my neighbourhood. These buildings do not create community rather the opposite. You only have to drive up the A5 to realise how awful the place now is, and there isn't total occupancy - so who are you building for ?

Currently in Cricklewood there are 5 significant developments either in progress or under planning application. This will turn my neighbourhood into a building site for years destroying the quality of my life. This is simply a project to line the pockets of developers, not build affordable homes for the local community. Why do high rise buildings have to be built here? If it has to be developed build 2 storey house that are in keeping with the current housing stock and which create real communities not desolate places of isolation.

There is not the infrastructure to support such a large influx of people It will create chaos and a living hell for all of us that live close by. With all the additional building plans that are currently underway it will completely destroy my neighbourhood. There has been enough new developments here already- time to stop!

I strongly urge you to deny this application and consider the damage that it will have for the lives of everyone in Cricklewood!

While the sunlight analysis demonstrates that much of the afternoon/evening shadow is over the railway, there is a considerable effect on the residential areas to both east and west.

Comment: Dear planning team,

Whilst I am excited by the prospects of development in the Cricklewood area - including the B&Q site - I am concerned by the current plans.

First, a building of 25 stories on this site would be significantly taller than anything else in the area, it would be an eyesore, tower way above all buildings in the locality and cast shadows over the 3 boroughs in which the district lies and beyond.

Second, I am worried about the increased pressures on the local public transport infrastructure. Over 1000 new dwellings in the area would cause untold bottlenecks at Cricklewood station and on local bus routes, particularly during peak times. Has anybody discussed the frequency of existing routes with TFL and Network Rail to accommodate the extra volume?

Yours sincerely,

Dave Shaw

Comment: In principle, I'm in favour of a new development on the B&Q site, however, the proposed height of the towers and number of dwellings are matters of huge concern. A 1000 flats with multiple 25 storey towers is totally out of place with the character of not just our neighbourhood but also that of the whole of Barnet and surrounding boroughs. In fact, I would strongly oppose any development above 10 storeys.

I am also seriously concerned about the excess load on public services and increase in traffic that a significant number of new residents will bring. Irrespective of the frequency of public transport, a high proportion of residents still need and use their vehicles for many activities like grocery shopping, school runs, kids activities and social engagements. The current infrastructure is unable to cope with today's volumes with frequent traffic jams. How will the network cope with a big spike in numbers?

The height of the towers and number of dwellings need to be revised significantly downwards to make this development viable with the infrastructure and character of Cricklewood.

Thanks

Faraz Ghani

This preposterous 25-storey development would sit better in Canary Wharf rather than Cricklewood! As this project does not even meet Barnet Council's planning policy for 40% affordable housing, why is this monstrosity even being considered? Furthermore, it will be out of keeping and not suitable for the area to have new high rise buildings. It is also disappointing that there is only 35% 'affordable' housing, which doesn't even meet Barnet's own 40% policy.

All in all, I can't see how this will be a positive development for the area and its residents.

Comment:As a local resident I am commenting on this plan as I feel strongly that it is not within the character of the area, mostly low-rise shops and flats or individual Victorian houses. The impact on local infrastructure will be immense, both during the period of construction and thereafter, this is already an area with severely congested roads and overcrowded public transport.

There is another huge development at Brent Cross which is already having a negative impact of the ability of residents of this part of Barnet as well as neighbouring boroughs to live and carry out normal daily activities and this plan,if approved in its current form and density, will have further negative impact.

Building sites of this magnitude not only clog up local transport systems and cause major dust and pollution problems while work is ongoing, but the heavy vehicles involved cause noise pollution and frequently severely damage road surfaces and underground utilities.

The level of affordable housing seems to be very low at 35%.

There will also be an impact on local businesses for the duration of the build which will presumably be quite long, forcing some small businesses to fold.

Comment: I wish to object most strongly to the planning application to build a massive development of 25, 17 and 16 storey tower blocks on the current B & Q site.

I have lived in the Railway Terraces, a conservation area, for 39 years. The Planning (Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas) Act 1990. Section 72 states 'special attention shall be paid to the desirability of preserving or enhancing the character or appearance of the area (e.g. Conservation areas). These hideous tower blocks will be seen throughout the terraces. The developer has submitted illustrations with a line showing how much of the tower blocks will be seen above the roofs of our tiny cottages. The line drawing shows minimal impact but if you colour in the line drawing, you will see that the buildings in the development will affect the views of the long roof lines of the terraces and the views in and out of the terraces. The developer has also ignored terraces where the building will be visible from people's homes eg the middle blocks of Needham Terrace. This shows a lack of transparency which should be the cornerstone of the planning process.

The huge 25 storey tower block will cut sunlight from some terrace cottages. These cottages were built on a north south axis, not east to west. This means that many of our gardens and yards only get sunshine for half a day. The developer states the loss of sunlight and the shadow will be 'negligible' - planning speak for a 20% loss of sunlight/increase in shadow. A 20% loss is very significant if your home only gets sunshine for half a day. The terraces, where people all know and look after each other, interact and communicate, is a 'gem' that should be protected. People's lives matter.

Not only do peoples lives matter in the terraces, they matter in wider Cricklewood, where the architecture is predominantly Victorian and Edwardian small scale, enabling communities to live together in harmony. The developer suggests the area can be compared to west Hendon or Brent Cross south. This is nonsense. The tower block in west Hendon is nearly 2 miles away and Brent Cross south is a mile away. Cricklewood is nowhere near these developments, nor is the B & Q site on the A5 corridor. Remember the disasters of the tower blocks built in the 60s and 70s. They had to be demolished, they turned into ghettos where no one wanted to live.

There will also be an increase in traffic, even though the road onto Cricklewood Lane will be closed as the thousands of people living in the development will all be shopping on line with the result that there will be endless delivery vans blocking Cricklewood Lane already jammed with traffic.

This development will SWAMP the terraces, Cricklewood and be a huge blot on the landscape that will be seen for miles. There are no very tall buildings in Cricklewood. Planning approval for 1-13 Cricklewood Lane (the Coop site) was approved for 9 storeys.

I do not understand how Montreaux has been led to believe a development of this size and scale is acceptable to the local community. Montreaux was told repeatedly by local people attending its public exhibition and consultation at Ashford Place last February that the development was too tall, too dense, etc. The public consultation was clearly a tick box exercise and no changes which reflect the views of the local community have been made to the plans submitted. The local community has been ignored.

This application should not even be considered by Barnets planning committee in its present format. Montreaux should be informed that it needs to revise its plans before they can be considered by the committee. Revised plans should be for 500 units with maximum block heights of 10 storeys, reducing to 3 storeys near the terraces. A development of this size will still produce a healthy profit for the company.

Please reject this planning application outright.

Comment: The proposed development will create a huge issue in and around the Cricklewood area.

Firstly the size of the buildings are not in keeping with the rest of the area and will present both an eyesore for existing residents but will also create an issue where private gardens are overlooked which I have an issue with.

Transport is already a huge issue in the area with the Cricklewood Broadway/Chichele Road/Cricklewood Lane interchange almost always at gridlock. This development will make this situation significantly worse both during the build phase and if the development opens, especially with the lack of parking for the development. Where are they meant to park? It will cause gridlock on the neighbouring streets.

The transport report in the application doesn't address these issues with any sense of reality and pays lip service to the process.

I would not oppose the development if the height of the buildings was in keeping with the surrounding area and the transport plan proposed would be adequate.

What is badly needed around here is affordable social housing, not expensive high-rise developments designed to enrich people with no connection with or affinity to the area.

I've lived in NW2 for twenty years and I've not met a single person who is in favour of this development.

I object to the Cricklewood Lane Development on the following grounds:

Loss of light

- o The height of these blocks will ensure that very little sunlight will enter these flats

- o Some open space will be in shade most of the time

- Scale of building

- o The height and size of these building is completely out of scale with the existing surrounding development

- o These building would be visually intrusive and

- o Consequently damage local character.

- Lack of open space

- o Despite the pretty pictures, the amount of open space / resident is very small

- o Much of the open space shaded by the buildings reducing its usefulness.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I strongly object to this proposal on the following grounds:

The proposed development is completely out of character with the surrounding area. The neighbourhood is largely made up of Edwardian and Victorian terraces, so this new development would be in complete juxtaposition with the extant buildings.

The height of these blocks is totally unacceptable. The blocks would overshadow the surrounding neighbourhood, blocking light, leaving homes in shade and blocking sunlight from gardens. The tall block would cast a shadow that would stretch across a huge swath of Barnet and Camden, encompassing Cricklewood, The Hocrofts, West Hampstead and Hampstead. Because Cricklewood is an area made up of low-rise buildings, all new developments should be a maximum three storeys in order to blend in with the existing architectural style.

Local residents do not want tower blocks in this area, as they are anti-social, alienating, high-maintenance, invariably ugly and unsafe, encouraging crime while discouraging a sense of community. Furthermore, in light of the Grenfell Tower disaster, it is clear that tower blocks are not fireproof. High-rise structures were designed to house as many residents as possible, but in times of pandemic perhaps this needs to be reconsidered. Moreover, many high-rise buildings built in the 1960s and 70s became ghettos, which have since been demolished, invariably replaced by low-rise buildings.

Local residents do not want another Trellick or Balfron Tower monstrosity on our doorsteps, blotting the skyline and marring our views. I urge the councillors to reject this outrageous development proposal.

The density and height of the proposed buildings will have a negative impact on the local community and need re-thinking. Development of this site is needed but not in such an extravagant over reach like this. It will put immense pressure on the infrastructure and will be out of keeping with proposals in north cricklewood (Brent Cross South) and will overwhelm many of the residential areas in the surrounding area. This is not acceptable.

The lack of social housing should raise eyebrows and the need for more affordable housing must be considered.

The town centre is a jewel in the crown of south west Barnet and such a dense development will destroy and not enhance this area.

There simply is not enough space in Cricklewood to accommodate residents of 1100 new homes and a building of 25 storeys would be a ludicrous addition to the neighbourhood. Not only would it look ridiculous however the shadow it would cast would affect the lives of its current residents. As I mentioned I'm from Cricklewood and can almost promise you that I wouldn't be able to afford any of the flats in this building which means probably not many of the other residents would either.

Comment: I am writing to you as a concerned resident regarding the latest proposed plans for the B&Q development, which I strongly oppose.

These current plans are quite frankly an outrage. The proposed building plans are distressing and will have a devastating effect on the local area.

Firstly, the height. The high-rise tower block will loom over our low-lying area creating an out of place eyesore and shadow over our community and my home. If allowed, this development will also create a precedence of high-rise buildings in this area, which we do not want!

Secondly, myself and my family are concerned about its effect on the existing infrastructure. With hundreds of new homes and developments already in place for Cricklewood, the surrounding area will struggle to keep up with demands on services like schools, GP's and transport links. Trying to get on a bus during rush hour is already a struggle. Moreover, it will add to the already terrible traffic which comes to a standstill on a regular basis.

I have lived in Cricklewood most of my life. Please think about the residents you are here to represent and do not approve these development plans, this land could be used in a far more beneficial way for the community. If we have learnt anything during Covid it's the importance of community, clean air and green spaces, not towers in the sky.

The planned building is way too tall and would be a huge eyesore in the area. The percentage of affordable housing in the building is also way under what it should be for an area like this. There are also 2 other huge housing developments being built soon in the area and the only reason all three have permission to go ahead is that they are in three separate boroughs, otherwise this would not have been allowed, which is defeating the point of these regulations completely. I went to school in this area and have many friends living there who's lives would be massively negatively affected by this development. Thankyou

Comment: I strongly object to this project as it is ill conceived, inappropriate and unsympathetic to the area. My principal objection is the height of the tower blocks, their disproportion to the architecture of the area and their effect on light levels. Secondly the area is already overburdened with traffic destined for the M1 and A406. This project will increase traffic both during construction and after having a damaging effect on the health of local residents. There will undoubtedly be insufficient parking and local streets will be further clogged with non residents parking inconsiderately as they already do. Thirdly this is not public housing, it is 35% so called 'affordable housing' which is anything but. The majority will be buy to let at unaffordable market rates owned by absent landlords with no connection or concern for the area. This plan must be overturned or reconsidered.

The area around Cricklewood Lane, Cricklewood Broadway, Lichfield Road and Claremont Road is already heavily congested with traffic. The addition of more cars will only add to the problem and create further pollution. The road infrastructure is severely limited by railway lines and is already inadequate for the area.

The height and of the buildings is most unattractive and will do nothing to improve an already grim area. The overall development is just too dense for the site and one can imagine that it will only deteriorate over time.

The public transport in the area, combined with existing congestion will have difficulty in supporting an extra 1,100 families.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: While there is certainly scope to develop the B&Q site the proposed development is completely unacceptable:

1. Density- 1100 new households. The current services in the area are already over stretched. There is no GP surgery, the buses are over crowded, making it impossible for residents down the line (ie camden) to board buses, the pavements are overcrowded, the Thameslink (Crickle wood Station) is overcrowded at rush hours making it difficult for residents of west hampstead to board a train at the West Hampstead Thameslink station, schools are over subscribed. These buildings would need servicing and that would also dramatically increase traffic congestion even if residents don't have a car. Providing cycle parking is all very good but where will these new residents park when they go and shop? There are no cycle parking facilities in the surrounding town centres ie Kilburn and West Hampstead.
2. Height. A 25 storeys tower would stick out like a sore thumb in a neighbourhood with 2 to 3 storeys houses. Residents from all the surrounding area would be blighted by the site of these monstrosities and neighbouring properties would be dwarfed and shadowed.
3. No large family units provided. This area needs family units ie 3 or 4 bedroom units. Why are these not provided?

4. Social housing. In a development of this size and because of the needs of the local population a substantial proportion of the units should be social housing. No social housing planned. The small amount of affordable housing supplied will not be within reach of the local population.

5. Number of car parking units at 100. Only disabled parking should be provided and a legal agreement should be in place preventing access to parking permits in the surrounding area to prevent further clogging of local roads.

6. Lack of open spaces with access to light. The green spaces provided are not big enough for the size of the development

Please reject and insist on a more human scale development.

At this time of multiple consultations with all levels of government we have referred to, Mayor for London's Spatial Strategy- Intend to Publish London Plan (2019) London Borough of Barnet Draft Local Plan(Regulation 18) 2020 policy 6.3.1 policy 6.4.3 policy 6.4.4 policy 6.4.6 policy 6.11 policy 6.15 Policy CDH03 Policy 6.16.1 (tall buildings) MHCLG White Paper Planning for the Future August 2020. Over development of the site by reason of quantum of floorspace, alien scale, excessive height, being overbearing and out of character with neighbouring development resulting in an excessive density which will detrimentally impact on the lives of neighbouring occupiers. The number of persons attracted to the area will impact on the already strained health and educational services. The lack of on site parking would be likely for a tendency for occupiers and visitors looking to park elsewhere in this already congested locale. At page 30 of the DAS lists among the key objectives. Provide affordable Housing for the people of Cricklewood. How will the allocation to Cricklewood residents be managed/regulated? Will this be secured through the section 106 agreement? In the context of the overall masterplan the provision of 1200m2 for community/commercial use is very small. The council should if it is minded to approve secure some of this space to be provided as affordable workspace, as described in Policy E3 OF THE London Plan. Air pollution is a major concern. The current consultative draft of the White Paper raises a number of issues which are relevant to the consideration of the application. In the forward the Secretary of State states at Page 1 "Our reformed (planning) system places a higher regard on quality design and local vernacular than (page 44). The ambition of the Governments 25 Year Environment Plan are referred to at page 56 of the White Paper and the vision is to play a proactive role in promoting environmental recovery and long term sustainability. In doing so the Plan needs to play a strong part in government efforts to mitigate and adapt to climate change and reduce pollution as well as making our towns and cities more liveable through more and better green spaces and tree cover. At page 56 it is stated We will also deliver on our commitment to make all new streets tree lined by setting clear expectations through changes to the NPPF. Are the Council satisfied that the tall buildings would meet the requirements set out in Policy 7.7 of the New London Plan? Also would they not conflict with the Councils policy 6.16.1 of its local plan? Public realm provided in the scheme particularly the green space should be useable and accessible to the public at large and not form part of a gated development.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Like many, I am concerned about the development of 3-25 storey buildings in the centre of Cricklewood. Whilst there is a need for housing, none (or very little) will be properly affordable and those that can afford one of these flats won't want to live in down-at-heal Cricklewood.

Families will not want to bring up children in an area where there are poor services, overcrowded doctor and dental surgeries and over subscribed schools. Housing yes, but not on this scale in an already densely populated area.

I am objecting to this development . Surely, a white elephant built by an off shore developer only interested in profit rather than the people in Cricklewood.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This is an inappropriate development of overly massive density. The main problems are as follows:

1. The 25-storey tower block is utterly out of keeping with the local area which it will dominate in an overbearing and threatening way. It will obscure views, remove privacy and sit like a brooding monster over what is a low-rise residential area of NW London. It is without question inappropriately tall.
2. The proposal to cram 1100 residential units onto the site is without merit. The site is far too small for this density.
3. The development will put even more pressure on local services and infrastructure which are already overwhelmed. This includes in particular the effect on traffic which will swamp local roads.
4. The mix of housing does not meet the needs of the area, neither from the perspective of size (not enough larger housing) nor affordability.

For all these reasons I object to the development.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: CricklewoodTownTeam welcome improvement of the Cricklewood area but are concerned that the proposed development has fundamental problems and should not be accepted without considerable amendments being made to the proposal.

Ground 1 - Community Character

Cricklewood's community character is characterised by housing which is predominantly Victorian and no more than 3 storeys high. If one considers recent developments in the locality one finds only:

- a. the 5-storey Travelodge built at 214-218 Cricklewood Broadway
- b. A 6- and 8-storey building at 112-132 Cricklewood Lane
- c. an approved application for a 6-storey development on the Galtymore site, 194-196 Cricklewood Broadway
- d. an application that has been passed by the planning committee but not yet approved that includes a 9-storey block at 1-13 Cricklewood Lane, described by Barnet planning as "an appropriate height barometer for future development of the neighbouring site"

e. an outstanding application for a 7-storey block with 8th-storey protrusions and services, further up the Broadway on the Matalan site.

These developments are however outliers and Cricklewood remains a predominantly low-rise locality.

CTT considers it important that any developments respect, retain and contribute to the character of the community rather than fundamentally changing it by overdevelopment of Barnet's small part of it.

CTT is concerned that the proposed development will undermine the work of the last few years by producing a building which will dominate rather than compliment the locality, explicitly creating "maximum impact on people coming through the bridge" and superfluously "help[ing] people find their way around Cricklewood" by overlooking and dominating the entire neighbourhood. The development would be overbearing and diminish the appearance and experience of the streetscene and the wider locality.

CTT considers the proposal for very tall buildings, whether 14-, 16- or 25-storey, to be disproportionate and an overwhelming overdevelopment of the proposed site. If approved, such buildings would dominate Cricklewood's social space and locality in a way which would change the identity of Cricklewood in a negative manner.

Ground 2 - public transport

CTT notes that trains leaving Cricklewood Station during peak times are crowded to such an extent that it is often impossible to board the scheduled services. Similar issues apply to local bus and tube services.

CTT is concerned that the proposed redevelopment will result in a situation where public transport services are overburdened and the quality of service for Cricklewood residents will be reduced.

Ground 3 - overcrowding

CTT is concerned that the proposed redevelopment will put a strain on already stretched public services. Accessing local medical centres already requires a long wait.

Further, Cricklewood Broadway has standing traffic for significant periods of the day. CTT is concerned that the local roads lack the capacity to cater for an increase in vehicles that would come with the proposed development. CTT is concerned about the associated air pollution that would ensue.

The high rise blocks would be entirely unsuitable in an area of predominantly low rise buildings. This development would dwarf the existing surrounding properties, overwhelming them with ugly monstrosities that would be a blot on the skyline.

The high rise blocks would cast shade upon neighbouring dwellings, robbing gardens of sunshine. It is totally unacceptable that this development would cast a huge shadow across North West London, blocking sunlight throughout a vast swath of NW2, NW6 and NW3.

The density of this development would have a huge impact on the local amenities and infrastructure, which are already overwhelmed. There are far too many dwellings proposed for the amount of space in this development of overly massive density.

Although new housing is a city wide requirement, this development does not adequately address the problem as it would not be affordable for those most in need.

I urge the council to reject this outrageous proposal.

Ground 4 - policy

CTT notes that Barnet has housing targets but is concerned that the proposed development fails to have due regard to the need to develop the necessary public services.

Cricklewood does not have a dedicated community space. There is no publicly run leisure centre within Cricklewood. It is unfortunate but related that local library provision is poor, with the Childs Hill Library open for very limited hours and staffed by volunteers. There is also a concern that there is insufficient outdoor play space and green community space in the locality. CTT is concerned that the proposed development is not consistent with Barnet's policy of providing sufficient inclusive and integrated community facilities (policy CS10).

The police in the local area are overstretched and Cricklewood has had problems with antisocial behaviour in the recent past. CTT is concerned that the creation of excessive housing would worsen this situation by placing a greater strain on local policing (contrary to policy CS12).

Conclusion

The Cricklewood Town Team is opposed to an application which has very tall buildings in the town centre. Such a development would:

- a. Radically alter the character of the locality by creating an overbearing tower block in the heart of Cricklewood and thereby undermine the community feel that has been nurtured over the last decade;
- b. Risk overwhelming public transport services;
- c. Stretch already limited community services and facilities and potentially damage social cohesion by forcing local residents to travel elsewhere to access the services that they need.

The Cricklewood Town Team remains committed to making Cricklewood a vibrant and pleasant place to live but consider that the proposed development will not achieve this goal.

CTT considers that:

a any plans that are approved must ensure that there is provision for the creation of public spaces which will be usable by the community or improvement of existing public spaces;

b there is sustained funding for community events and spaces;

c and the quality of life in Cricklewood, in existing properties and in new developments including any development of this site, is not sacrificed in order to achieve quantitative targets.

In summary, we object to this proposed development plan because it would make Cricklewood into a high-rise annex of the Brent Cross Regeneration and deprive Cricklewood of its identity as a historic town centre location.

Comment: I strongly object to the plans for 1100 homes to be built in the Cricklewood area. Do these property developers plan on building extra schools, GPs, and other community facilities? I thought not. With no connection or care for the local community, I expect they are simply hungry to jump on the regeneration project to fill their pockets by providing "luxury apartments" which are unaffordable to the existing local community.

Having been born and brought up in Cricklewood, it saddens and disgusts me to see my area being preyed upon in the name of "regeneration". We have existing, beautiful period buildings, which should not be towered over by ugly, "modern", towering blocks. In no way do the proposed plans compliment the local area. The height of the tower is out of the question. It will be a large, ugly, light-blocking development which will shadow Cricklewood and its surrounding areas.

I do not, however, object to apartments being built on the B&Q site WITHIN REASON. By this, I mean 5-6 storeys high MAXIMUM, similar to other sizes of apartments in the area. I understand the need for the area to be modernised. However, humongous tower blocks with no consideration of local amenities, traffic congestion and other community needs, are not the solution.

We in the Terraces adjacent to this development are concerned that this will have a detrimental affect on the area. Too many people with services already stretched not to mention the litter and the anti social behaviour which will occur in the open areas. It's way too big a development and will tower over our Terraces at that end. We are conservation area and this sort of development does not fit with that ethos. Most of the houses at that end of the Terraces will be overlooked and many of them will be overshadowed. It needs a total rethink to make it viable.

The proposal of a 25 storey tower block and other other blocks of between 15 & 18 Storeys . will completely overshadow the terraces and will cause loss of light to mine and my neighbours homes. the terraces only get half a day of sunlight because of how they were built any loss of sunlight would be significant. It will also spoil our views. The terraces are in a conservation area and this development would destroy their special character. This is also not suitable for cricklewood as a whole there are no tall tower blocks in cricklewood the council themselves consider tall buildings from 8 to 14 storerys and very tall 15 which they consider appropriate for the brent cross development. this is far from the Brent cross development and should not apply. I also have concern for the increase in people and vehicular traffic to this area which is already very heavily congested and lacking the facilities needed for the people already living here, there is no way it would be able to cope with an extra 3000 residents. I urge Barnet planning committee to reject this application as proposed and for any new application to be reduced in density and height. Local residents must be listened to in this regard Comment: I am vehemently opposed to the proposal. I live in the nearby Cricklewood Railway Terraces, a conservation area that is a haven of calm and community in Cricklewood, with a rich and important history. The current proposal of a 25 storey building and others nearly as tall will be an eyesore that towers over the community, casting shadow over the Kara Way playground and much of the terraces particularly in the south of the terraces where I live. Cricklewood has no other tall buildings and this will be widely out of character, being imposing and ugly (yes, I've seen the plans). Barnet's Tall Buildings update 2019 indicates that buildings of 6-14 storeys high max are appropriate for Cricklewood and taller buildings should be in other locations such as Brent Cross. Other developments have been asked to reduce the height of their proposed buildings to keep in line with other buildings in Cricklewood and I would be outraged if these buildings are not reduced to half the height or less, with serious consideration also needed regarding the density of buildings in the proposal. I have grave concerns about how the sudden presence of multiple tall residential buildings will impact on already stretched local services including transport and health.

We are not able to alter our houses in the slightest if it alters the look of this protected area; building developers that would alter the look of the skyline of this protected area should also be held to account.

Comment: I object on the grounds that the proposed massive development fails to comply with Barnet's Tall Towers policy document. The cross section on page 31 and the subsequent table shows that B & Q Cricklewood site was only intended to have 8 storeys when the policy was written in 2019 (ie last year!) .

On page 11 of the document note this table:

Proposals for tall buildings will need to demonstrate:

- an active street frontage where appropriate
- successful integration into the existing urban fabric
- a regard to topography and no adverse impact on Local Viewing Corridors, local views and the skyline
- not cause harm to heritage assets and their setting
- that the potential microclimatic effect does not adversely affect existing levels of comfort in the public realm.

All of which Montreaux development contravenes thus:

- street frontage set back on embankment

ii integration? In what way will these 25 and 17 storey buildings be integrated?

iii 25 storeys will be seen from miles away. The topography of the site is raised above ambient ground level which makes things worse.

iv the heritage is all low rise. The site was originally a railway siding, then a factory. The nearby shops are three or four storeys. The corner Co-Op site is to be nine storeys but measured from the lower ground level which only takes it to about two storeys above the current B & Q building.

v wind turbulence will increase. An experiment that we conducted by flying balloons was difficult in the lee of the B and Q, so 17 and 25 storey towers will make turbulence worse in even the lightest wind.

All of the example photos in the Barnet document do not exceed 15 storeys and some of the newer versions are considerably less. 1255 High Road Whetstone was always considered an aberration when it was built.

Nearby development in Brent (Ashford Road) is 9 storeys.

Comment:L.s.,

I object the proposed application 20/3564/OUT strongly for two reasons. First, the proposed buildings are too high which will negatively impact quality of life by reducing sun hours (REF: 1,2,3) in the adjacent neighbourhood, specifically in the Railway Terrace area. Second, because the proposed buildings will results in a substantial increase in the number of people in the Cricklewood area, this will increase traffic and thus air pollution, with further health consequences (REF: 4,5,6) for residents.

For these two reasons, I am concerned that the health of the residents has not been taken into consideration sufficiently when drafting up these plans and hope therefore that this proposal will not be accepted by the Barnet council.

The density of housing will cause significant detriment to local services, already stretched, as well as local infrastructure. It is disingenuous to say that the tall tower (up to 25 storeys??) is by the railway and therefore not visually intrusive as it clearly is - even if not overlooking many domestic properties. It is totally out of character to the local area as some of the proposed buildings that surround it. I also find it appalling that only 291 units will be affordable housing

They would clearly change the landscape and view for current residents at an unacceptable level. The huge increase in traffic and pressure on the roads, amenities, schools, Gp surgeries and local services would be burdensome. There is nothing to suggest that climate change has been incorporated into the plans of the buildings and low level communities are more suitable to the surroundings and sustainable in the long term. Why is there no social housing in the plans. This is essential for London and is a clear oversight in this project. Housing for key workers is required and not luxury flats which become purchased from investors and are unaffordable to local residents.

Comment: This proposal is ludicrous and totally out of keeping with the area. It is far too big, particularly in height, robbing the area of light. I also see that the tallest tower is next to Cricklewood Lane therefore affecting the residents that already live here, rather than Jewson. Also for the amount of people that it will house, there isn't the infrastructure locally. There have been a lot of developments on the A5 in recent years to support housing shortages.

I can't believe such a big development doesn't factor in social housing, it seems that there is no consideration for the local community. This makes it look as if the developer is only interested in their own pocket.

We are already living in a densely populated area, developments like this will greatly reduce the quality of life of the locals.

However this development would dwarf anything anywhere nearby. Local Infrastructure will be utterly unable to cope. Already roads are full, busses are full, there are long waits (even Pre-Covid) at the health centre on Cricklewood Lane.

Any development on this site needs to be more in keeping with the size of the existing buildings and the surrounding buildings, and needs to contribute to the local area not just take.

Comment: I am very concerned about the height of the proposed development. Up to 25 storeys is an enormous height, 12 and a half times higher than the majority 2 storey residential buildings typical to this area. It will alter (and deteriorate) views for nearby neighbours but also from parks around the whole area. I am also concerned about the impact this high-rise development will have on views from the local secondary school. It seems excessive and the negative impact of its size will outweigh any positives. My other concern is that there is no social housing, in our community where we have a population that need this security. Failing to address the issue to lack of social housing will have ongoing impact on the area.

Comment: Cricklewood is a predominantly low rise area. The height of the proposed development is totally out of character and raises issues of privacy and light deprivation - overlooking all existing surrounding properties and casting huge shadows.

The inadequate line drawings on the submitted application do not show how the towers will look either in materials or in relation to the surrounding structures (they are strategically from high viewpoints to try to make the tower seem less imposing), so I fail to see how this can be considered, let alone approved without full rendered elevation drawings for residents to see. It's being proposed as a visual marker and yet we aren't provided with clear visual of that marker in situ.

I also feel there is inadequate open space for the proposed residents. This will put a strain on the already sparse local public spaces and play areas. The intense development will put extra strain on the local infrastructure. There are not enough local GP's and schools to accommodate such a large development.

These proposed tower blocks will bring nothing to Cricklewood, it has been designed for maximum profit with scant regard for the living conditions of proposed tenants in tiny flats. It would be highly irresponsible of Barnet to allow Cricklewood to resemble the mess of mismatched and seemingly unregulated development in Colindale and West Hendon by allowing this extreme height of structure in a low rise environment.

The development is huge and overbearing.

Traffic would increase in an area of a key route with an already congested junction on Cricklewood Broadway, causing more congestion and pollution.

The development is out of keeping with the area, being mostly 2 story terraces.

It will overwhelm the skyline in all direction, blocking views of the sky and sunlight.

It would lead that area to be over developed with 1100 intensely packed dwellings and little social housing or plans to build new schools and other vital services.

I strongly object for the above.

Thanks

I oppose to this project as I don't think the area is prepared to host so many new properties. The main road is a mess at peak hours, sometimes it takes a lot of time to reach the Kilburn station, with bus stops full of people. This will only make it worse.

What's more, it's a neighbourhood of low houses, that allows us to enjoy a lot of open space and sunlight. These enormous buildings are definitely going to affect that. Please preserve the neighbourhood characteristics and think about the people's benefit and wellbeing before profit.

Comment: There has been no joined up thinking with all the council in Cricklewood, from a barnet, brent or camden perspective. The 25 storey block with little parking is definitely going to affect my road with traffic and people wanting to park.

The tower are overbearing and no thought has gone into having a massive 25, 19, 18, 17 & 16 tower blocks with is out of keeping with the typical cricklewood heritage of 2&3 storey blocks.

The plans will be overwhelming for the area and will definitely cut out my skyline and daylight on my broad due to the over bearing storey building.

This is absolute over-development for the area, and there is no need for a 25 storey building, the max that would be appropriate would be 10 storey.

There has been no consideration for the people that live in the area and no providing of social housing. The flats will increase property prices further driving people out of the area leading gentrification.

The proposed 35% "affordable", will definitely decrease as the build goes as the developer usually do driving more and more people out of the area.

With the current COVID situation there will be definitely be more requirements for people to drive and people will use the Brent areas to park after the controlled zone times have finished which impact local residents which Brent do not seem to care about. With the plans occurring in Brent there needs to be a better thought process to ensure the buildings are fair and reasonable for Brent.

Comment: as a resident of the neighbouring road, this area will not be able to support all these new homes. the traffic around here is bad enough as it is. it will turn quiet residential roads into busy main roads. we have already seen the effects that colindale has suffered with all these new tower blocks; an ugly sight with impossible journeys and unaffordable homes. I would suggest that instead of adding more homes to the ever busy cricklewood, that we add some more amenities as cricklewood is far from any. with crime rate rising around this area, why don't we use this space to give people something better to do than roam the streets? cricklewood is never what it once was, with so many things to do including clubs, friendly bars/pubs, many big chain shops and so forth. I suggest we should bring something similar to this back to cricklewood to re-vamp the local community and morale

Comment: I am writing as a resident who lives near this proposed site. As it is, the roads in the area are congested, especially near the B&Q store and Cricklewood Station. The construction of 1100 homes in an already built-up area of London will put undue pressure on the services and infrastructure in the area. PLEASE DO NOT ACCEPT THIS APPLICATION NO MATTER WHAT MONETARY INCENTIVES ARE GIVEN FORTH.

The residential roads will become untenable and as a neighboring resident I do not support this application at all.

The high rise nature of the development is neither in keeping with the area nor aesthetically sound. The view from my property will be altered in a negative way and I am not convinced that the benefits outweigh any detrimental effect it will have on the neighborhood.

Finally, as a person who believes in an egalitarian society based on the principles of a social welfare state, I am very dissatisfied that there is NO SOCIAL HOUSING in this application, and just on that very basis it should be rejected.

Comment: This proposed development will dominate the skyline with ugly 16, 17, 18, 19, and 25 storey flat developments.

This is TOTALLY out of keeping with the Cricklewood skyline and surrounding buildings and will negatively impact the local community in the following ways:

- 1) Obscuring daylight and damaging the visual image of the borough
- 2) Putting unmanageable pressure on local resources, schools, services and amenities (despite the paltry additions that are planned as part of the development)
- 3) Increased air and light pollution from the build and the proposed 25 storey building
- 4) Terrible disruption during the build process to public transport, traffic and local services.
- 5) Creating a ghetto where it will be difficult to police and crime will rise

It is reasonable to develop this site, but in line with the local area, local buildings and infrastructure.

NO TO ANYTHING ABOVE 5 STOREYS!!!

Comment: These plans if allowed to go ahead will contribute to the further over population and congestion of the area. The same has been allowed to take place in Colindale, and also in Borehamwood Hertfordshire, where there are now far too many new home buildings within the area, so the local train stations cannot cope and the traffic congestion is terrible - leading to increased levels of pollution.

Instead, it would be better to invest in and build more new 'affordable' homes in areas outside of London, and increase and improve public transport options to enable better efficient commuting into and out of London.

I gather it also does not contain any social housing which I find most objectionable. At least 40% of the new homes must be affordable, obviously those by the railway will in any case be undesirable!

There appears to be no plan for any integration of Cricklewood railway station. This is essential!

If you halved the size of the development I may be inclined to favour it.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This is a developer's "get rich quick" plan with some sops such as a bit of public and green space to soften up the opposition. Don't fall for it.

It is vastly too large in scale, height and density of the proposed resident population and will irredeemably overdevelop the area in an ugly and unsympathetic way.

Although the site could usefully provide family homes, public space including play space for children, sports facilities and some commercial development, the prospect of 1000 -1100 homes being squeezed into it, on the justification that the "Opportunity Area Planning Framework" provides for "higher density" is ridiculous. The height and massing is disproportionate.

The massing of the blocks is entirely out of local character, will dwarf the neighbouring buildings, deprive them of light and privacy and be overbearing. As with all these developments, I suspect the 25 storey block is a bit of kite-flying; in due course Montreaux will "take heed of the local feeling" and scale this back to say 18 storeys and everyone will think it's a retreat. Don't be fooled. It is an old trick.

The developer's Community Engagement Statement and the socio-economic chapter in the Environmental submissions, are but attempts to massage the inevitable problems which the proposed development will cause to local infrastructure including public health provision, schools and public transport.

The 35% "affordable housing" provision is a bit of a con, as all developers know. "Affordable housing" is not. There is no correlation between the income levels of local residents in Brent and what these housing units will be sold or let for. The absence of any social housing is unsurprising but unacceptable nevertheless. Barnet and the local Cricklewood community cannot afford this scheme being foisted on it.

Comment: Dear planning team,

Whilst I am excited by the plans of development in the Cricklewood area, I am extremely concerned by the current plans.

Firstly, the plans seem to have made no account for the character of the area nor the welfare of those already living here and are an obvious attempt to maximise profit over anything else.

Anyone approaching this sensibly would appreciate that a large development 25 stories in height is completely out of character for the area. It will be a complete eye-sore, towering over everything else in the area, not to mention the awful impact of the shadows it will cast.

Secondly, in an area that is already pretty much just one big traffic jam, has any thought been given to the infrastructure of the area? Cricklewood already buckles under the pressure of traffic and pedestrian footfall, how on earth are we expected to manage with 1000+ new homes?

Has the frequency of existing routes with TFL and Network Rail to accommodate the extra volume been discussed? The Thameslink services are often cancelled causing chaos at the moment. I shudder to think what they would be like if this development, in its current form, went ahead.

I am not someone who is afraid of regeneration and development but it is clear that these plans are not fit for purpose and will only serve to make worse the lives of those that live here.

I sincerely hope that our fears and worries are listened to.

Guido Cavaciuti

Completely overwhelming and out of character - dominating the skyline which is contrary to Barnet's published policies on tall buildings and regeneration. The density and size is totally unsuitable - with no thought for the already, under pressure, local services, let alone the traffic and access. It is overdevelopment on a disproportionate scale incompatible with the location.

This will not only increase the traffic on already congested A5 but also increase the usage at Cricklewood Train station, when there is not sufficient train capacity. There is lack of schools in the local area and unable to cater for the new family moving in. Cricklewood lane is the only road connecting between A5 and A41 and already very congested as well.

Comment: I think it is appreciated that we require more homes to be built but I have concerns regarding this proposed development.

The height of the block is totally out of keeping with the area. This block will dominate in an oppressive manner. The land is already elevated at this point and a 25 storey block will dominate the local environment.

High density housing will completely overwhelm the local infrastructure. Where will all these new residents park their cars, find school places, find a GP? The current provision is already overstretched and there does not seem to be any consideration of this issue. Probably because the nearest providers are out of borough.

Traffic in the area is already a problem. The A5 and Cricklewood Lane are already rammed to capacity. I do not think 1000 + new homes are going to ease this in any way along with the expected lorry movements on the A5 due to the building of the new train station and the aggregate site.

There is no provision for the housing that is actually the most needed - social housing. "Affordable" housing is in my experience a get-out clause for developers as any one in the real world knows that this does not exist.

My feeling is that applying for a huge tower block seems a cynical ploy by developers. A new application of less storeys which will no doubt be granted and developers can congratulate themselves on "listening to locals concerns". We need more housing but please a more sympathetic structure. The other intended blocks are still higher than anything in the vicinity but a huge tower is totally unacceptable.

I would like to see the height reduced to a reasonable level of 12 floors at the most. This area is already extremely busy with traffic from Finchley, Cricklewood Lane and the M1. I would like to see a reduction in new builds in this area. As I am a resident of Brent, I can see the borough of Barnet is really does not care about how they are affecting the surrounding areas. Comment: I endorse the revitalization of Cricklewood and the construction of these buildings but I object to their size. Tower blocks of up to 16 to 25 floors will not revitalize the area, it will fundamentally change it for the worse. The traffic is bad enough as it is, and adding so many housing units in such a condensed space will only make things worse. Furthermore, these towers will be visible across the area and will forever change the views from so many gardens. Finally, you are not enhancing the historical integrity of the Cricklewood area but transforming it into a mini-metropolis. Please build these towers, but please do so respectfully and responsibly so we can maintain and enhance the integrity of our neighbourhood rather than destroy it.

Comment: This proposal is too high and dense for the area and the drawings are incomplete with no true rendered elevations.

It raises issues of invasion of privacy and light deprivation for the existing properties as well as changing strategic and local views.

There is no social housing provision, insufficient open space for the proposed residents and it will put too much strain on the wanting local infrastructure.

A good well planned development is needed, but not an estate of tower blocks. The current covid situation has reminded us how important outside space and community is, this proposal harks back to high density council towerblocks which have been proven to be socially disastrous.

This development is not a good fit for the area, which is already densely populated and fairly run down - why don't the council consider ways we can improve the area and existing housing, rather than supporting developments that will strain public services and schools. The tower blocks are a total eyesore to the skyline and really bring down the value of nearby properties.

There is no social housing provision, which is disgraceful given the challenging times many people face at the moment. Is it too much to ask that residents and members of the public have a genuine say that is listened to?

Comment:Of course, the area needs additional accommodation but it needs to reflect the needs of the community first and foremost. The proposal is totally out of keeping with the area in that the height of the development is far too high and will cause lack of light for the surrounding homes and shops as well as users of the local facilities. It is also likely to cause wind tunnels. The average height of the rest of the buildings in the area is only 3 stories so these buildings will dominate the skyline for miles around. Cricklewood is not the Isle of Dogs - visit there to see how high-rise developments create darkness and wind!

The design is completely out of keeping with the ethos and ambience of Cricklewood, which is to a local community and needs to remain as such. The largeness of these proposals works totally against this. Furthermore, the lack of social housing means it is contributing nothing to the local community and simply serves to line the pockets of the developers. The comment that some of the properties will be 'affordable' is insufficient guarantee. Surely, Barnet should be aiming for 30% to provide accommodation

I am also concerned that the proposal is very, very high density and the inclusion of car parking would encourage further traffic to an area that is already known for traffic jams and chaos.

All in all, a development proposal that seems not to take account of the needs of the community and seems to be driven by profit. Can't we get a housing association to take this plot over? Their approach is more likely to be balanced.

I grew up and have lived in the area for over 50 years. I know the area well and the "feel" of the neighborhood and residents. The proposed development is completely overwhelming and totally out of keeping with the nature and height of the existing town. Its scale is a monstrosity and it will adversely affect the character and view of the area. It seems more appropriate for a new town or central London. The tall towers are out of keeping and in complete contrast with the surrounding houses, shops and offices. This feels like an attempt by developers to build as many and as tall high rises as possible without taking into account the nature of the area

The idea of tower blocks of between 16 - 25 storeys is completely out of keeping with the area which is currently of 2 and 3 story builds in the main. The new blocks will be completely incongruous and will overwhelm the area. They will not only cut out daylight but will dominate the skyline... as a feature of the area they will add nothing. No beauty, no character and, as there is absolutely no social housing, not help the area one bit. This is clearly a money making venture and, yes, we all need money, but...at what cost/ The build should be far less intrusive and far more inclusive to get my support.

It is out of character for the rest of the area which is largely made up of terraced properties or flats with only a few stories. It will cut daylight to a huge number of residential properties and dominate the skyline as well as overlooking existing properties. There is also huge congestion in the area with councils already having to put in pace blocks to roads to stop vehicles cutting through residential areas. The additional traffic generated will cause increased congestion to both Cricklewood Lane and the A5 in both directions and this is not acceptable.

Comment: The vagueness of the drawings is risible. I can't for the life of me find a decent elevation of the scheme. However, I find that the height of the proposed buildings within a 3 story Edwardian-style context is totally inappropriate. Pity the housing surrounding this development, noise, loss of light, increased traffic pollution, loss of amenity, destruction of all the hard work community groups have slowly built up over these last years. This will ruin the historic town centre of Cricklewood.

While improvements are helpful to this struggling area, high rise, high density housing - with no social housing - only exacerbates the problems of crime, rough sleeping and unemployment. Creating canyons of shadow has a depressing effect. The railway will be sunk between hard surfaces increasing noise levels while the new edifices will cast prolonged shadow, especially to the west, on Claremont Road and Cricklewood Lane. Surely it makes better sense to step up the height away from the existing houses and towards the commercial buildings?

Transport services are stretched, roads are beyond a joke with tail backs to Kilburn and Willesden Green. The pollution in this area is already high level and I can't see how the development's planting will compensate. All very well to have green roofs 25 stories up that the community won't have the privilege to enjoy

Consider the two superstores this is replacing, possibly equating to 20 or more individual retail units. There seems to be minimal provision considering there are to be over 1000 flats. As usual, Barnet approves building on boundaries and then piggy-backs on neighbouring boroughs for essential services such as schools and GPs. Montreaux's answer to that was "they are welcome to rent one of our retail spaces".

The development is too high, too dense and overbearing in this suburban context. There is not enough provision for essential amenities and current transport links cannot support such a proposal.

Comment Reasons:

Comment:OBJECTION

Cricklewood is a low-rise neighbourhood of North West London, bisected by the A5, the main artery road, straight off the M1, into Central London. A largely residential locality, it already has problems of over-population, pollution and anti-social behaviour.

Residents of Cricklewood are concerned about the proposed tower blocks to be built on the Barnet side of the Broadway on the B&Q site. The plan for 1100 housing units in buildings from 16 -25 storeys in height represents a disproportionate over-development in an already over-populated part of North West London. The site is on the boundary of the boroughs of Barnet and Brent and will impact hugely on the character, demography and infrastructure of the area. In appearance, the tower blocks will aggressively dominate the skyline and completely over-shadow and dwarf the original 2-3 storey buildings which form the present townscape of Cricklewood.

Who will live here?

I note that there is no provision for social housing. Private owners? A shadow was cast over high-rise living by the 2017 Grenfell Tower fire in west London, which killed 72 people. The negative impact is still being felt. The highest tower-block in the plan - 25 storeys - is higher than Grenfell Tower.

Where will they work and how will they travel?

North and west London boroughs have some of the highest volumes of in-commuting outside of central London. Public transport from Cricklewood is already over crowded and poor orbital transport connectivity makes car dependency necessary. The A5 is already choked with clogged traffic flow and air quality is poor.

Where will children go to school? Where will they play?

Cricklewood town has very little green space and schools are already over-subscribed. The demand for schools, hospital and medical practices will place a huge burden on Brent, already at capacity.

How will the community be protected?

Will police deal with increases in anti-social behaviour and criminality, almost certain to escalate with the increase in population and lack of community cohesion ?

Conclusion

Residents of Cricklewood would like to see buildings that positively enhance the overall character of the area. They should be of exceptional design quality, consistent with London Plan Policy requirements and show dignity and respect visually, functionally and environmentally for the people who live there and their neighbours. They should be places which contribute to the overall wellbeing of the area and places that people are proud to call home.

The current plan denigrates these criteria and therefore I strongly object to it.

The lack of social housing is a disgrace.

The plans clearly show the magnitude of this engulfing structure and how disproportionate it is to the surrounding areas, as well as an eyesore. I object to these plans and believe the buildings will actually Lower the value of local properties.

Comment: Having lived in this area since the 50s I have seen many changes. The roads around are packed with parked cars, the pollution is very high. Flats that have been built in the local are not too high, unlike this horrendous proposal. Brent council have just paved the end of Oaklands road to stop traffic because of the pollution. Only 110 parking spaces for over 1,000 flats, ridiculous. The buses down Lichfield road have to stop in the middle of the road because vehicles are parked over the bus stops. I don't know where the planners think vehicle owners are going to park. Many people have two or more vehicles. The postmen are already refusing to deliver in the monstrosities on the Edgware Road as it is dangerous. If it was more like the development in Clitterhouse park then it would be tasteful, as this proposal it would dwarf most of the two or three floor Victorian houses THIS PROPOSAL IS UGLY, UGLY, UGLY.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Cricklewood characterises for being a low rise neighbourhood. The area already faces challenges related to uncoordinated action from the three boroughs of Camden, Brent and Barnet, which has affected provision of housing, critical services and traffic and pollution.

Residents of Cricklewood are concerned about the proposed tower blocks to be built on the Barnet side of the Broadway on the B&Q site. The plan for 1100 housing units in buildings from 16 -25 storeys in height represents a disproportionate over-development in an area. The plan, as currently presented, will have a huge impact on the character, demography and infrastructure of the area with tower block aggressively dominating the skyline, putting pressure on current critical services (GP surgeries, schools) as well as increasing traffic congestion in an area that already suffers from poor orbital connectivity and no tube service which causes long traffic jams especially on the A5 northbound and Cricklewood lane. This, plus the low levels of green space in the area, results in higher levels of pollution all year round.

I also note that the plans do not provide for social housing, which is something that is needed in the area, especially at a time where everyone is facing difficult times fighting the current covid pandemic.

Residents of Cricklewood would like to see buildings that positively enhance the overall character of the area, which the current plans do not provide. They should be of exceptional design quality, consistent with London Plan Policy requirements and show dignity and respect visually, functionally and environmentally for the people who live there and their neighbours. They should be places which contribute to the overall wellbeing of the area and places that people are proud to call home. Given the lack of these characteristics in the current proposal I strongly object to the plan as presented.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Dear Barnet Council,

I object to the planning application for the comprehensive development of B&Q retail park. My concerns are:

- The proposed height of buildings is too high. They will be visible from the Railway Terraces Conservation area where I live, especially so from Campion Terrace and Kara Way. Kara Way is the only entrance to the railway terraces (the only other road access via Gratton Terrace is one-way). This view has not been considered or illustrated in the planning documents, but will have a significant impact on every resident of the Railway Terraces Conservation area and all users of the playground adjacent to Kara Way. It is already clear from the other viewpoints considered in the planning documents that the tall towers will be visible above the roofline of the Railway cottages.
- Furthermore, I note that the Barnet Tall Buildings Update 2019 suggests that 6-14 storey buildings in Cricklewood would be acceptable. I would like to see the maximum height of the development brought down to 14 stories.
- Increased density to the area is a major concern. There are no provisions in the planning document to build new essential services such as schools, GP surgeries, or a large grocery store. It will also put a strain on other important services such as leisure facilities and green space. The landscaping proposed for the development is not big enough to facilitate the new residents that will fill the 1100 homes. Cricklewood and the surrounding area is already facing problems, and a further 1100 domestic properties will severely compound the issues.

- The idea of needing a 'marker' building for Cricklewood station is completely unnecessary, and the description of Cricklewood Station as a convenient 'transport hub' is completely ridiculous.
- Increased density will compound the already terrible congestion, pollution and traffic situation in Cricklewood.

I would request that the Barnet planning committee rejects this application in its present form.

These tower blocks seem very old fashioned and out of date while being an overshadowing eye sore for the whole area. I really think the plans for this need to be relooked at to ensure any new housing is in keeping with the area while maximising the space. As these flat will no doubt be priced extortionately this should give the developer more options than the planned development. This development seems to want to upset the neighbourhood and maximise profs for the developer and the council through more properties to pat council tax.

Comment:1. The proposed development would utterly overwhelm & dominate huge areas surrounding the development

2. The surrounding areas as above are 2 & 3 story buildings with nothing anywhere near the equivalent of the proposed development.

3. Because of the above two points this proposed development is so out of the character of the surrounding areas as to make it outrageous & there is absolutely no argument that it would be in character with the local areas.

4. The fact that there is no social housing included is discriminatory & again is totally out of character with the local areas.

5. The population density of the local areas would rise to an overwhelming & utterly unsustainable level if this proposed development were to be built. Local facilities - road system, public transport, schools, hospitals, doctors, dentists etc would be utterly overwhelmed by the magnitude of increase in population density.

6. Overall, this proposed development is totally inappropriate for the area. It is outrageous, audacious & possibly illegal that a proposal such as this even being considered.

7. I am not against appropriate & responsible developments in the area however, this proposed development is neither appropriate or responsible.

There is no social housing included, which in itself is a definite no go. It is just a money making scheme for the developers and they are the only ones to benefit from it. It does nothing to benefit the local area and it's community. The developer gets rich and the community suffer the damage. The council should keep the land and build their own homes (On a smaller scale) to help with the housing crisis and they will have an ongoing income from rent to cover any loans needed to fund this, (although I think the government should cover these costs) until it starts to generate profit once these are paid off

Comment: Planners and Planning Committee have a great responsibility to turn down this application to ensure a sustainable, attractive and community focused Cricklewood both in Brent and Barnet for generations to come.

Granting permission for such a huge, overbearing and financially motivated development will set a precedent that will ruin Cricklewood as other developers run their hands and follow suit.

This development is far too big in the height and size of the buildings.

The height is way above other buildings in the area so it is not suitable to the historic Victorian buildings in Cricklewood.

It is too dense in an area that already has major traffic, rubbish and pollution issues, and with other large scale developments that developers are proposing for Cricklewood.

On the point above, allowing this development will create a precedent for other developers who are trying to make a quick buck by building as high as possible on the Brent and Barnet sides of Cricklewood rather than thinking about the happiness, look and community feel of Cricklewood.

Please reject. Housing is needed, but not at the cost of ruining Cricklewood, both its history and it's future.

Thanks

Comment: The proposed plans are an overdevelopment for the area without any social housing or infrastructure in terms of usable outside green area/sufficient trees. The height and density are out of keeping with the local 2-3 storey area

The resultant increase in local traffic cannot be managed. Buses along Cricklewood Lane and towards Cricklewood Broadway are already too slowed/delayed by the density of traffic from the Lidl site down to Shoot up Hill, from Virgin Gym to St Gabriel's. The roads Cricklewood Lane and Cricklewood Broadway are already gridlocked at the weekends/extended rush hour and for much of the day. At almost all times they are slow roads and local side roads are heavily used rat runs. These go past local primary schools and increase local pollution due to the local traffic queues resulting from congestion around the Broadway and Cricklewood lane. eg Anson School, Hampstead School. Although we mostly cycle/motorcycle we sometimes need to use the car but do not do so at the weekends because you literally cannot get out of the area or back home because of the level of local congestion without a long wait and breathing a lot of fumes.

This level of extra traffic means an increase in the already high local levels of traffic pollution including under the bridge at Cricklewood which is a heavily used route for children and young people walking to Hampstead School. It is hard to see how the increased numbers of cars and motorbikes etc will get in and out if the development. It is hard to see how the increased pollution of building this type of development with large amounts of cement used can be justified in the context of pollution and global warming. This development needs to be thought about in conjunction with the development of the new Barnet waste facilities just up the road- the area cannot manage this huge increase in traffic from both sites without becoming unliveable- presumably not a concern because this is basically a pretty poor high BAME area.

Comment: That project is going to have many negative impacts that will far outweigh any possible positives if any.

-Possibility of loss of light because of the shadow these tall building will do to the neighbourhood and so increasing pollution and bills because more electricity will be use by these people.

-Possibility of loss of privacy for the same reason - the height of the building allowing people to see others who might not been seen otherwise; e.g. in their garden.

- The Scale, number and size of buildings are inappropriate for the area where there is no such building at all and is mainly composed of semi-terrace house or attached house.

- The impact on traffic is going to be HUGE! The main roads of Cricklewood are already blocked with traffic. As a consequence the pollution is going to increase as well as the noise, dust (microparticulates), smells and other pollution.

-Such a concentration of people will encourage and increase the risk of crime.

-The number of place in schools are already oversubscribed so how are they to cope with so many new potential pupils? Are they going to stay without education or will they have to travel miles to find a school, increasing again traffic and pollution.

-The same is tru for medical services: you already need days and weeks to see a GP!

-The local community is going to lose a very useful superstore: B&Q

-No social housing to decrease overcrowded place in cricklewood.

For all these reasons I am very strongly opposed to that project that is not going to bring any positive effects for the local people, for the environment, for the health, security or education.

The houses in this area are predominantly 2 and 3 storey buildings. Sky scrapers are overwhelming and do not fit with the character of the area. They will lead to loss of light and privacy. The design and appearance is almost scary and will be completely out of keeping. This sort of use is inappropriate for this area. If the site is to be redeveloped it can have a small number of low rise residential properties created within the same footprint.

Comment: While I approve of the redevelopment of what is largely a brownfield site, the current plans appear set to overwhelm the local area and to be in no way in keeping with what is a very low rise area. I am also concerned that, due to the size of the development, the increase in stress on local services will cause many to strain to the point of collapse. We are already painfully short of GP services (the two most local ones having merged, and the walk in centre going), and so any new development needs to take this into account. Also, coupled with the huge increase of traffic on the A5 that will be the result of the new waste hub, I do not see how the roads will be able to cope.

In summary, I object to the plans in their current form, and hope that they will be rethought in a way that benefits the local area and matches its feel, rather than maximises profit.

Your sincerely,

Andrew Benbow

They will dominate the skyline and block out the sunlight in the afternoons.

- They do not provide social or affordable housing that is desperately needed in Camden and Barnet. There are masses of luxury flat developments that do not provide the necessary housing for average income earning Londoners.

- This is an unnecessary development and is ill conceived for the time and the requirements of ordinary people.

The development will be overwhelming - the extraordinary high-density of the development would overwhelm the centre of Cricklewood, looming not only above its nearest neighbours in Barnet but all the Brent and Camden residents of Cricklewood too, and stress facilities to breaking point.

The development is out of keeping - the scale and height proposed are not in keeping with the local 2- and 3-storey buildings. Nothing in the Cricklewood area is as tall as this or as dense as this.

Barnet council has the opportunity here, to encourage and guide the developers to truly transform Cricklewood in a positive manner. Whilst I approve of creating more residential units, and developing the site, it should be in keeping with the surroundings and add to the beauty of the area, not be an eye sore. The development needs to work with the work already done on the high street, and the buildings that are currently being developed to create a truly cohesive town and benefit our community. The site is a great in terms of access into London and the high street. But the A5 is already at capacity and so something of this density is not appropriate or in keeping with the area. Also considering the air quality of the area, a low rise, green/high planted estate of homes and social units/community spaces/nurseries/GP surgeries would be far more beneficial. Please think of our community.

Comment: I object to the proposal of a mega B and Q store. The result is a huge eyesore for miles around in what is a residential site with some historical features. The historical features will be largely obscured by the new building. Such huge megastores have no place in residential areas. And belong exclusively in large industrial parks instead.

Comment: I object to this alien development in a neighbourhood dominated by 2/3 storey buildings.

I make an appeal to the local authority involved in this crucial decision making, that it will take into consideration landscape, highway access and the impact that these buildings will have on the environment and individuals.

This gigantic force fit goes against every single principle of a permission plan.

The epicentre of this controversial development, Cricklewood Lane and Edgware road are already mutilated arteries due to the railway tracks which cut them off from traffic flow, creating daily congestion as they are. Cricklewood is locked between three major highways: the North Circular Road, at the M1 merging point north; the A41 east, which again merge with the North Circular road and traffic from A1; the A5 (Edgware Rd) west which collect traffic directly from the M1 and the North circular roads to central London.

With a thousand more households and relative cars added to this precarious junction point, we will experience a total collapse, especially during the construction period, of the London North West/South viability with consequent long term congestion problems and severe delays for commuters. Not to mention, the financial loss in the local markets and serious health hazards deriving from the increasing level of air pollution.

The hydillic picture that the Montreaux firm is selling to the public is a 'colourful deceit' which clashes against the reality of the geographical features of the surroundings.

I expect that the future decision that it is to be taken will put the physical and social well being of residents and London citizens above the blind interests of insatiable money-makers.

Cricklewood and Willesden Green is a 2-3 storey primarily Victorian/Edwardian built cityscape. Willesden Green was essentially built as a village. These flats would dominate the area (the skyline, our visual amenity and, through overcrowding, with people) and provide a precedent for more future development.

Please refuse this development and anything like it. It will represent a transformation of the area - being so large - that has no democratic or planning mandate. The flats might be suitable for a high density urban area, but not for a suburban village like Willesden Green/Cricklewood.

Tower blocks of this size would be overbearing and overwhelming

The over development of this site would be disastrous for Cricklewood

They would dominate our skyline cutting daylight, creating an ugly 'concrete ' eyesore

The volume of traffic in Cricklewood Lane and Cricklewood Broadway is already horrendous.

Please do not add to an already congested area, we don't have the infrastructure to deal with the amount of units proposed.

Any new buildings should be in keeping with the current surroundings with no more than three storeys high.

Please seriously consider these concerns. Thank you..

Comment: This is an outrageous development cramming 1100 dwellings in to a residential area. The scale, number and size of buildings is inappropriate. The houses in this area are all 2 and 3 storey buildings, either original Victorian/Edwardian houses or very low rise developments. To replace the lovely B&Q with sky scrapers like is would be absurd and beyond ugly. They would completely overwhelm the area and the skyline and do not fit with the character of the area. They will lead to loss of light and privacy to those in it's shadow. The design and appearance is highly unattractive and will be completely out of keeping. This sort of use is inappropriate for this area. If the site is to be redeveloped it can have a small number low rise residential properties created within the same footprint.

Comment: My home faces north and overlooks the allotments. The clusters of very tall towers proposed by the developers will be seen from my home. Instead of a pleasant view, I will have ugly tower blocks to look at!

If approved towers will destroy the character and appearance of the Terraces and indeed fundamentally damage the character of Cricklewood itself.

I find the idea of the playground having tower blocks looming overhead and blocking sunlight, particularly upsetting. The playground is very popular with my grandchildren and with local children who come from all round the local area to play there. Children don't have much in this area! Why take away the playground's sense of openness and space by allowing a concrete jungle in the sky to be built next door?! That is so wrong. Children deserve better and so do the residents of the Terraces and the local area.

We need low rise housing with green areas that give people a decent place to live and QUALITY of life not high rises. I call on councillors to protect Cricklewood and it's character and refuse this application!

Comment: The plan is disproportionate and totally out of character with other buildings in Cricklewood. A series of buildings between 16 and 25 storeys high and housing over a thousand people is extremely impractical given the limited space in this built up area. As it is there is a huge problem with traffic and building in this confined spot will certainly exacerbate this. The buildings will over dominate and limit light in the immediate area as well as being a carbuncle and ugly blot on the landscape. To carry out a project of this enormity requires a much larger site and unfortunately the B&Q site chosen is not the appropriate one.

As a local resident I very much object to this unrealistic plan.

Along with fire risks in high rises makes this project objectionable and needs a rethink .

Think lower estate , housing fewer residents .

This would make more sense and be less objectionable to the local residents

It would seem that the shadow cast by the buildings would create a massive shadow that would be cast across local properties, depriving residents of sunlight. The area is already cramped with a high density of residents - I do not believe transport infrastructure would cope with further influx of residents. As I understand the plan, there is no intention to provide social housing. Finally, I believe the buildings would dominate the local area, and would feel incongruent with the street scene and context with Edwardian, Victorian and inter-war properties.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I personally object to the erecting of buildings of 25 storeys.

1100 residential units are far too many in one development, having all these additional people living in the area will worsen the quality of life for all.

I think the idea of flexible commercial and community floorspace is excellent and very much needed in the area, but the number of new builds should be small and low level.

Buses, train station, shops, doctors surgeries, traffic, parking, pubs, cafes and restaurants, etc. will all be overcrowded. Especially now that we know this virus will be part of our lives for the foreseeable future, the last thing we want to see is cramped Cricklewood.

Don't do it Barnet! Keep it sustainable.

Comment: The height of the towers will cast shadows for several hundred metres across the surrounding area taking away natural light and impacting on thousands of local residents including me. The development is insufficiently supported by the local infrastructure and will have a negative affect on local healthcare, education and transport resources - in all 3 boroughs.

The development does not add enough community facilities, nor does it provide affordable housing to meet the needs of Cricklewoods diverse community. Traffic and pollution will increase.

The traffic round Cricklewood Lane junction is already maxed out. Schools, doctors, public transport, supermarkets etc. already oversubscribed. It's unacceptable to foist this onto the local community. Stop building for outrageous profit and build for communities. Family homes, houses, low rise flats not monstrous towers. The shadow of Grenfell is still falling on the city, towers are last century

The traffic in particular is already very heavy without additional cars and disruption. The current climate the demand for housing in the area is reducing as moving out of cities becomes more popular and there is unlikely to be sufficient social and affordable housing by the time this project would be completed to benefit those who really need council housing and support. the current pandemic means decisions on such large developments should be held until the true way of life in the future becomes more evident.

3-25 storeys within a very suburban styled residential area which has nothing similar for it to compliment; this development would be better in Wembley where oversized high-rise have been built and where transport infrastructure is ready for an increased population.

Lack of social housing - why? Brent needs more social housing! As a property owner myself these types of developments make for undesirable homes for first-time buyers/property investors who are the developers only target market. I fail to see how this development benefits the local community or infrastructure-the developer needs to think again.

The traffic congestion, the open space we need for air to flow, with this high rise buildings all this is going to go away. When the government based on localism bill, decided to demolish all the "streets in the sky" which it was called due to people suffering mental health issues.

How is such a development being allowed ?

I strongly disagree to this development. Infact if they had space they should have used the site to for the new railway station rather than moving it a mile away and wasting the tax paying money on a new site.

Comment: I am shocked that this project is even being considered. Not only is it out of keeping with the area, the height of the tower blocks will dominate the skyline and block out light for surrounding houses, it is also adding hundreds more residents (and no council houses - I'll get to this point later) to an already overcrowded area.

The A5 is notorious for being congested at most points of the day and being the main route to the M1 in and out of London it baffles me how adding more residents, potentially all with cars, would make this any better.

The lack of council housing is also disastrous. It would most likely end up like so many similar projects - creating a distinct lack of diversity, with council housing residents being moved elsewhere. London, especially Cricklewood, does not need more privately owned stupidly built housing projects.

Where are the gardens or large green open spaces, people have been desperate to have during lockdown and have become so important? Why is there no mention of improving infrastructure - schools, GP surgeries, cycle lanes etc - the things people in this area actually really need. As a rental resident in this area I thoroughly oppose this shoddy building plan which has given little thought to the people it is supposedly building for. No one wants 1 bed flats, in tower blocks with no outdoor space anymore! Stop building them and actually build stuff people want to live in!

The blocks are too high, the flats are too small, and little consideration given to anything infrastructure related. The project should be shut down.

The height, scale and density of the entire development is grossly excessive and disproportionate, as well as being out of keeping with the character of the area. Comment Reasons:

Comment: I object: Firstly - there are currently no other tower blocks in the area - the nearest one, is almost half. Local housing is predominantly Victorian and two or three storey, so scale, design and appearance are completely at odds with surroundings.

Secondly, the extra number of households puts added pressure on local services, such as local schools and NHS-one of which recently closed.

And thirdly, is the increase of traffic - people and vehicles. Right now, without new homes, the area is unsafe and stressful to walk or drive: it's not unusual for people to be walking in the road as footpaths are narrow and congested. These paths are the centre of Cricklewood' - the place where we shop at outside stalls for groceries. One buggy and there's a pavement jam: it isn't safe even now. Pallet deliveries and busy bus stops add to the chaos. The introduction of more people and their need to mobilise will only put increased pressure on these roads and paths. Work is about to start on the Cricklewood Lane and A5 junction , so traffic is to become a bigger presence over people and pedestrians. Placing tower blocks next to a widened junction further destroys the centre of Cricklewood and its Victorian aesthetic. It's overbearing, will block light and turn the area into a high-rise neighbourhood. Today, Cricklewood centre's "saving grace" is that there is airspace - the ability to look up from the chaos to light and sky above. The proposed development will prevent this - looming oppressively and reducing access to light and space for Cricklewood's centre and people. If it goes ahead, the efforts of the local community to unite the area with a town square will be dominated by a series of massive towers, (alongside a new junction), which will cast shade - literally - over the last section of community space. Bringing the development down to two or three storeys would be preferable, along with further maximising green spaces that can be accessed by the whole community.

The development will feel overbearing - blocks of 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 25 storeys tall are far too tall

The development will be overwhelming - the extraordinary high-density of the development would overwhelm the centre of Cricklewood, looming not only above its nearest neighbours in Barnet but all the Brent and Camden residents of Cricklewood too, and stress facilities to breaking point.

The development is out of keeping - the scale and height proposed are not in keeping with the local 2- and 3-storey buildings. Nothing in the Cricklewood area is as tall as this or as dense as this.

Willesden Green and Kilburn Station are already too busy also. Not to mention the added traffic causing congestion and air pollution to already overcrowded roads.

Properties nearest the development will decrease in value, some of these people have owned these properties for years, maintaining and adding value to the Cricklewood area.

By building these homes, more people moving to the area will naturally create more issues for the local area. Litter and fly tipping is already an issue in Cricklewood, let alone the added waste disposal from these properties.

Schools in Cricklewood and the local areas are already overcrowded, where will all the children go to school.

Comment: This planned development is completely out of keeping with Cricklewood where almost all buildings are 2-3 stories high. Where newer flats have been built (for example above the tesco express) these have managed to stay in keeping with the height of the area and have been sensitive to the style, this approach to new builds should continue. This planned development would completely ruin the character of the area and would be very imposing. It's not seeking to integrate with the local area at all.

The Barnet Tall Buildings Update 2019 set out areas where tall buildings may be appropriate - rightly so, Cricklewood was not named as one. Barnet Council should stick to this policy.

This development will be overbearing and out of keep, dominating the skyline while cutting out light for local properties.

Cricklewood has two and three story properties on the whole and this monstrosity will be a death nail to the area.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This proposed development is completely out of character for Cricklewood. The developers and Barnet are trying to link the area with the Brent Cross South development and the 2 areas are completely different. One is a brand new brown field development and the other established inner London area where existing buildings are no more than 3 or 4 storeys. Proposed new developments albeit in Brent but next door to the Montreaux site are limited to 8-9 storeys. This proposal for 25 is just laughable. If you look at page 31 of Barnet's Tall Buildings Policy written in 2019 it limits buildings in the Cricklewood to between 6 and 14 storeys, which is just under half the proposed maximum height of 25. You also need to take into account that the proposed site is well above ground level so the eyesore will tower over the area, casting a huge area into shadow at various times of the day.

No thought has been given to the infrastructure; how will schools, GPs, public transport and even sewers cope with this increase in population.

Finally in the original proposal Montreaux had included provision of 30% of housing units being for social housing. This has disappeared from the application.

This is an ill thought out plan on the very outside edge of Barnet's boundary which will cause untold disruption to residents in Camden and Brent.

You should be ashamed of yourselves

Honestly, why can this not be a high quality development that is also sympathetic to the neighbourhood in design and fits right in like so many other sites in Brent, ie around Queens Park? This looks really really bad and I would be very upset if you'd allow this one to be built .

The area is already struggling to cope with the traffic (road/pedestrian), local infrastructure (lack of doctors/dentists/hospitals/schools/police etc) and will have a detrimental affect on the local area.

I understand that housing is needed but to house 1100 people in an already overly populous neighbourhood makes no sense whatsoever.

Comment: The buildings are way too high and to be quiet frankly horrendous.

While it may look good in areas such as King Cross Bank Waterloo City areas etc... It will be too overwhelming for a small area such as Cricklewood.

Social housing needs to be allocated on any builds, affordable housing.

Be better if the build was more in keeping with the area and not New York style scrapers.

Comment: I have lived in Barnet since 1992 as a child and I am appalled by the overdevelopment and lack of care provided to residents. Barnet is the highest populated London Borough- this isn't a good thing. I have watched Barnet approve the worst developments over the years to the detriment of the local community.

This development is a nonsense. What quality of life will existing and new residents have? Where is the infrastructure? Where are the GP surgeries, schools, hospitals and other amenities needed for this increase in population. Why does Barnet insist on over populating it's borough?

The scheme is too densely packed, the high is out of kilter with the surroundings and the area has a seriously high drug, alcohol and crime rate. Adding more people does not solve this problem.

There are too many unresolved social issues in the area that need addressing. This development is detrimental to our local area, will increase pollution and will increase crime.

Barnet neglect its constituents and constantly look for ways to avoid and neglect our feelings, lives and wellbeing. There is only one park in the area for everyone to go to. Why not make it into a green space? Oh I forgot- you squandered all our money in the financial crash and have never been held accountable. Disgraceful borough. If I could leave I would however you've approved thousands of unsafe cladded buildings which many are stuck in. Listen to the public, listen to our concerns and for once put people before profits.

The area cannot handle it. Has anyone who's proposing this development driven around Cricklewood between 8am and 9am or between 5pm and 6pm? Actually, add 2.45pm-4pm there too (and 7.30am for school). It's already extremely congested. The area won't be able to handle the addition of people, of that I'm convinced.

There is no compensation such as new green spaces.

The developer must know the proposed buildings are too big, too tall, and too dense to be acceptable.

The impact on the environment will be completely negative.

With each new family comes another car, another boiler etc. B&Q has the only small bit of grass and few trees which people can currently enjoy, with this development it will be gone for months if not forever. The noise pollution levels are currently very high due to few smaller developments going ahead in the area, road traffic etc, I can't begin to imagine the levels when this development would start!

The size and shape is entirely overbearing and would dominate the local landscape in multiple directions. This is an area with primarily traditional brick properties and this monstrous set of blocks would do nothing to enhance the area visually. The 16-25 story height proposed is again entirely out of keeping with the neighbourhood. The lack of social housing proposed means that the eyesore the development would create does not sufficiently help the local community. Additionally The pressure this would put on local services , and roads has not been sufficiently addrsssed in the latest plans.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I object on the grounds that the proposed massive development fails to comply with Barnet's Tall Towers policy document. The cross section on page 31 and the subsequent table shows that B & Q Cricklewood site was only intended to have 8 storeys when the policy was written in 2019 (ie last year!) .

On page 11 of the document note this table:

Proposals for tall buildings will need to demonstrate:

- i. an active street frontage where appropriate
- ii. successful integration into the existing urban fabric
- iii. a regard to topography and no adverse impact on Local Viewing Corridors, local views and the skyline
- iv. not cause harm to heritage assets and their setting
- v. that the potential microclimatic effect does not adversely affect existing levels of comfort in the public realm.

All of which Montreaux development contravenes thus:

- i street frontage set back on embankment
- ii integration? In what way will these 25 and 17 storey buildings be integrated?

iii 25 storeys will be seen from miles away. The topography of the site is raised above ambient ground level which makes things worse.

iv the heritage is all low rise. The site was originally a railway siding, then a factory. The nearby shops are three or four storeys. The corner Co-Op site is to be nine storeys but measured from the lower ground level which only takes it to about two storeys above the current B & Q building.

v wind turbulence will increase. An experiment that we conducted by flying balloons was difficult in the lee of the B and Q, so 17 and 25 storey towers will make turbulence worse in even the lightest wind.

All of the example photos in the Barnet document do not exceed 15 storeys and some of the newer versions are considerably less. 1255 High Road Whetstone was always considered an aberration when it was built.

Nearby development in Brent (Ashford Road) is 9 storeys.

There has not been an integrated approach between Brent, Barnet and Camden council on this massive structure and plans.

They live in mansions surrounded by parkland and leave us to have our daily lives blighted by the sight of these ugly buildings, far too dense, far too tall, completely out of keeping with the neighbourhood. Cricklewood is in need of development because the housing stock is old and tired but this looks like it has been designed to maximise profits for the developers without any thought about the disastrous impact on the environment, in terms of pollution and over crowding. Services (GPs, schools) will be overstretched and traffic will be even worse than it already is near the Cricklewood station junction. Shame on Barnet for granting planning permission.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The development needs to be reconsidered after looking at the plans the building is not in keeping with the area the development will look totally out of place as it is too high it will tower high above the area

The development will impact on the local area due to the amount of traffic it will create in an area that is already flooded with traffic

It will also put increased pressure on local services already there are not enough in the area to support the current populace

Cricklewood is already a gridlock. This will make the roads impossible. There is so much building work going on, who are renting and buying these flats.

The visual and ethical banality of this project underscore its central motive of providing a hefty profit to the developer, site owner Montreux - and possibly the local authority.

It provides no social/affordable housing for local inhabitants in a relatively low income neighbourhood and with a proposed 1100 new C3 flats will give high density, high rise - and probably cramped accommodation for up to 6000 people. It would be a disaster for the area and will be seen as the slums of the future as were/are many housing blocks from the 60's/70's/80's and the Banlieue in Paris.

Redevelopment of the area is fine - but for the better please not for the worse and certainly not just for profit

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I object on the grounds that the proposed massive development fails to comply with Barnet's Tall Towers policy document. The cross section on page 31 and the subsequent table shows that B & Q Cricklewood site was only intended to have 8 storeys when the policy was written in 2019 (ie last year!) .

On page 11 of the document note this table:

Proposals for tall buildings will need to demonstrate:

- i. an active street frontage where appropriate
- ii. successful integration into the existing urban fabric
- iii. a regard to topography and no adverse impact on Local Viewing Corridors, local views and the skyline
- iv. not cause harm to heritage assets and their setting
- v. that the potential microclimatic effect does not adversely affect existing levels of comfort in the public realm.

All of which Montreaux development contravenes thus:

- i street frontage set back on embankment
- ii integration? In what way will these 25 and 17 storey buildings be integrated?

iii 25 storeys will be seen from miles away. The topography of the site is raised above ambient ground level which makes things worse.

iv the heritage is all low rise. The site was originally a railway siding, then a factory. The nearby shops are three or four storeys. The corner Co-Op site is to be nine storeys but measured from the lower ground level which only takes it to about two storeys above the current B & Q building.

v wind turbulence will increase. An experiment that we conducted by flying balloons was difficult in the lee of the B and Q, so 17 and 25 storey towers will make turbulence worse in even the lightest wind.

All of the example photos in the Barnet document do not exceed 15 storeys and some of the newer versions are considerably less. 1255 High Road Whetstone was always considered an aberration when it was built.

Nearby development in Brent (Ashford Road) is 9 storeys.

Secondly the traffic in the area is already extremely heavy. the prospect of builders/suppliers lorries etc in the area for the next two or three years will place extra strain on a single carriageway road.

The extra cars coming onto the road once the development is complete, and parking in the area which is already very limited will make this whole area a no-go area.

I think it's an absolute disaster for all in Cricklewood.

The height of the towers and number of units Projected would not only overwhelm the logistics of Cricklewood, It would destroy any aesthetic value or view for the area. This can be seen from miles away . This will also have direct impact on the privacy of the neighbouring flats and houses , blocking any view of the skyline . The facilities in the area , being roads, transportation, shops and GPs would absolutely collapse under this level increased population density. This project will solely benefit the investors with no value added to anyone else. I would like to object to this Project unless it's significantly scaled down to match the common theme in the area with the highest building being 3 stories max .

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The proposed development is wholly incompatible with the surrounding neighbourhood by virtue of its size and style. The neighbourhood consists almost entirely of low-rise Victorian, Edwardian or 1920s / 1930s buildings; modern blocks of 16 to 25 storeys will completely dominate the skyline, not merely from nearby but also when viewed from streets hundreds of metres away, and will overshadow everything around them. While I have no problem with well-designed modern buildings in principle - indeed there are many around London which I admire - these blocks will clash badly with the local style of building, particularly at the massive size proposed.

The number of new occupancies will mean extra strain on local roads and public transport, which are already under pressure. Local parking is pretty much full already, so all the extra vehicles brought in by this development will seriously overload the area.

I therefore object to this development because it will be obtrusive and out of character with the existing streetscene, will have an adverse effect on local transport and parking for existing residents, and will spoil my visual amenity and consequent wellbeing through its intimidating, oppressive size.

The height of the proposed development is ridiculous and will tower above existing buildings, overlooking many nearby homes.

I can hardly ever drive up here or take buses as it is so slow and even dangerous for me to cycle due to the concentration of traffic. B and Q is very useful for me to collect DIY stuff and it would be very inconvenient if it was closed down, like everything else. People want to move out of London, stop trying to overpopulate it with yet more High density projects. The infrastructure can't take it anymore. Pollution and air quality, lack of green spaces, quality of life, feeling of over whelming populated cities where there is a lack of community integration. Enough said . I vehemently do not support this.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Not only the residential buildings will be too tall and not in line with the height of the buildings in Cricklewood but it will also increase dramatically the number of people living in the area. This is already a very congested zone with a big amount of traffic and queues that would find hard to accommodate the increase in population numbers. The addition of the proposed plans would be detrimental to the neighbours making not only commuting and accessing transport and services such as school places and GP surgeries appointments more difficult but also compromising the air quality and increasing the noise pollution. As a resident in the area I do not see benefits that outweighs the disadvantages that the plans would bring to the residents and it seems to me this will only be beneficial to those making money from the development.

We, as a community, are trying to preserve the traditional character of the place. We don't want looking outside our windows and the only thing we could see to be cement and bricks.

We won't be able to even see the sky, the sun, the moon because those tall buildings would be our view instead.

We want our children to still be able looking outside the window and seeing the sky. You cannot take this away from them just for profit.

Enough with the profit.

While understanding extra housing is being insisted upon by Government what about the existing residents?

The road closures all over the area are causing upset and concern with the extra pollution already being felt.

With the stress of the Covid infection being so high and the stress of all the building going on in the area is it sensible to put the residents under so much mental strain? The NHS is under tremendous pressure and coping at the moment, but where is the care and face to face consultations and when you get another 1100 families in such a small area the consequences will be dire.

One risks one's life crossing on the east junction of Edgware Road and Cricklewood lane and the area looks dismal, despite its elegant late Victorian boulevard and a grand hotel. Barnet now has the effrontery of foisting this hideously disproportionate building, an eyesore for generations to come with the developer's profits long gone.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I object the named development for a number of reasons: the scale, number and size of buildings is excessive and completely out of synch with the neighbourhood.

This overdevelopment also, wouldn't provide satisfactory living conditions for future occupants as the amenity areas are too small, inadequate for future occupiers. I object because of the lack of outdoors amenity and play space (already minimal in the area), no contribution to off-site amenity and play space. I have serious concerns that plans do not provide the maximum viable amount of affordable housing.

However, my biggest concern is to do with traffic levels in Cricklewood; the area has seen a clear increase in traffic in the past few years which will now be exacerbated by the closure of Oaklands passage and other roads around Mora, Temple etc. Having such increase in number of inhabitants will completely congest the area to unliveable levels. This includes also concerns about traffic safety, including for pedestrians. Parking and access to public transport are also issues.

Obviously the developer has started with an outrageous proposal in the hope the building is granted permission at half the height, but even half would be x6 the average local building height. So I object to the height, eye saw, the fact it's not in keeping, it doesn't seem to offer any community value - nursery, education facilities, GP etc.

They're also ugly and cheap looking and don't bring any aesthetic value to the area.

In the broader context does London really need yet more flats that Londoners neither want, need nor can afford?

Yet again it's a classic case of making developers wealthy at the expense of the local community and offers no real benefit in the short or long term for those that most need it in Cricklewood.

It is on this basis that I strongly object to this development.

The info structure of the roads in the area are already at capacity with the traffic build up of the M1 and A41 this would add pollution and more toxins to an area already over populated and that lacks schools, hospitals and GP centres. It would be a complete lack of respect to our community !

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The plans I have seen are not suitable for this site.

- The proposed maximum height of 25 stories far exceeds anything that would be considered to be commensurate with the rest of the buildings in the local area. The towers, along with the large footprint of the total development is unduly obtrusive and detrimental to the the entire area.
- The height would involve privacy issues with views directly down into neighbourhood gardens within a very large area.
- The number of flats could mean around 3,000 extra residents and I don't believe that local services (e.g Doctor) are sufficient to handle that. Can the proposal contain what will be done to offset these increased impacts/needs?
- The buses that pass through Cricklewood are already often overcrowded. The intersection there is already a pinch point for bus commuters. How will the increased demand on busses be addressed?
- I am concerned about the roads there. There is no provision for the extra traffic that this will cause but also, and more importantly, it is near a very busy intersection that already has issues with pedestrians crossing (because the pedestrian lights for the two halves of the road don't sync and people rush across the whole road rather than stop halfway). This safety issue is only going to be exacerbated with so many new residents right next to the problem area.

Comment: The proposed development brings too many people in the area which is already extremely densely populated and the facilities to meet such demand are simply not here: there aren't enough GPs surgeries, Primary Schools, Secondary Schools, trains, buses, etc.

Despite the recent improvements to the junction near Cricklewood Station, the traffic in that area is terrible and introducing a development that large would make the area unliveable.

The proposed development is an eye-sore and is out of character in this area whose architecture is predominantly Victorian to 1930s and where the majority of surrounding buildings are no taller than two or three storeys.

The developer makes no commitment to social housing and no real commitment to affordable housing, bringing no benefit to this community or the rest of London.

The size of the proposed development is monstrous and overbearing and will scar the landscape for miles around.

Living in such a development with such small living units would be detrimental to the mental health of anyone living there.

This development cannot go ahead!

B & q will go, this is a popular super store with everyone, I'm & it's very convenient to get there and get what I need.

Cricklewood already has a major traffic problem, with streets closing due to schools, for a cleaner polluted area.. This impact will cause more congestion.

There is a Coronavirus in this day and age.

I beg you to think your actions again.

There is a building site laying empty with shops knocked down nearly 18 months ago opposite the Beacon bingo Hall in Cricklewood, what's going on there??? More flats or a new B & q.....

The project is too high, many years ago high rise builds were knocked down.. Look what happened AT GRENFELL... RIP.

Comment: Sat 19 Sep 2020

I object on the grounds that the proposed massive development fails to comply with Barnet's Tall Towers policy document. The cross section on page 31 and the subsequent table shows that B & Q Cricklewood site was only intended to have 8 storeys when the policy was written in 2019 (ie last year!) .

On page 11 of the document note this table:

Proposals for tall buildings will need to demonstrate:

- i. an active street frontage where appropriate
- ii. successful integration into the existing urban fabric
- iii. a regard to topography and no adverse impact on Local Viewing Corridors, local views and the skyline
- iv. not cause harm to heritage assets and their setting
- v. that the potential microclimatic effect does not adversely affect existing levels of comfort in the public realm.

All of which Montreaux development contravenes thus:

- i street frontage set back on embankment

ii integration? In what way will these 25 and 17 storey buildings be integrated?

iii 25 storeys will be seen from miles away. The topography of the site is raised above ambient ground level which makes things worse.

iv the heritage is all low rise. The site was originally a railway siding, then a factory. The nearby shops are three or four storeys. The corner Co-Op site is to be nine storeys but measured from the lower ground level which only takes it to about two storeys above the current B & Q building.

v wind turbulence will increase. An experiment that we conducted by flying balloons was difficult in the lee of the B and Q, so 17 and 25 storey towers will make turbulence worse in even the lightest wind.

All of the example photos in the Barnet document do not exceed 15 storeys and some of the newer versions are considerably less. 1255 High Road Whetstone was always considered an aberration when it was built.

Nearby development in Brent (Ashford Road) is 9 storeys

Buildings this height will dominate the landscape and change the character of the area in a negative way.

The design is completely out of place with the Edwardian/Victorian housing stock around it and will lower the value of the surrounding houses and the area in general

We need imaginative solutions which will enhance the lives of community. This development will purely be oppressive, bringing nothing to the area in terms of resources, wildlife or cultural improvement.

There are already flats near Virgin Active and that takes up loads of space. Furthermore these proposed flats will not include social housing or be available to be a council flat. They will massively reduce sunlight and areas like Kent Hall / B and Q play park / Westcroft park will be massively affected. I completely object the building of something that is so tall. I understand the need for housing however you should build something that is in keeping with the 3 floor housing in Cricklewood. Massive tower blocks like these will completely change Cricklewood

Comment: I've lived in Cricklewood since 1978 and have witnessed many problems relating to increased traffic and parking problems. This development is completely inappropriate both in terms of its scale with associated impact on local infrastructure which won't be able to support it and also height and appearance which has no precedent in an area largely made up of 2 or 3 story buildings. The proposal also needs to be viewed in the context of the other developments around Brent Cross which will also create traffic management problems. There simply isn't the infrastructure to support these massive schemes. Living on the edge of three boroughs makes the area vulnerable to developments that would not be allowed elsewhere. Any potential benefits are outweighed by considerable problems that won't have any solutions.

The style of the proposed buildings is insensitive and out of character for the area. The proposal is for an overbearing development and constitutes overdevelopment of an already hard-pressed area.

The scale of development would place insupportable pressure on services and produce major worsening of existing traffic problems, ie congestion and lack of parking.

The increase in traffic would exacerbate pollution problems which the Council has a duty to ameliorate.

Far from making a contribution to community life it would make this significantly worse. It is greatly concerning that the council are considering a proposal that is so weak on community values. The council has a duty to protect community interests in the face of threats from the profit interests of private investors.

Where are the new amenities to support upwards of 2500 new residents? Where are the school places? The doctors surgeries? The access to green space? The traffic levels in this part of Cricklewood are already off the scale. Just try getting from Mapesbury to Child's Hill any afternoon in a vehicle with four wheels. And this development does nothing to encourage more cycling or sustainable transportation. Imagine the number of new delivery vans that will now be trying to service those 2500 new residents. Since they can't park there themselves, many will have home grocery deliveries. It's going to be an utter nightmare. And what about the look of the thing? It is so out of keeping with our two and three storey housing stock that it's laughable. 25 storeys? The people living to the north of the development might as well pave over their gardens now, given the amount of shadow this will cast.

The plot does need development, sure - that car park was always underused - but it does not need something on this massive scale. This is just greed on the part of the developer.

And there is not one single unit given over to social housing. The 'affordable housing units' are the bare minimum. It's utterly shocking, and not what Cricklewood needs right now. I strongly, vehemently object.

Comment: In principle it's a good development but as per usual it's putting too much on the one site to cram as many people in as possible and raise as much revenue as possible without adequate consideration for increase in traffic etc. In an already grid-locked area.

Finally; why don't these architects be more imaginative and create an iconic building that will be admired for generations instead of building more boring flats like all the other cliches in London??!

Comment: Who thought this was a good idea? I'm actually in shock looking at the developer's application and can only assume they put this forward in the assumed knowledge that it would be rejected, expecting to have some revised, equally unacceptable, application accepted. Towers like this in our area are so out of keeping with the rest of the stock as to be ridiculous. However what is really unacceptable is the lack of affordable housing in what is not an affluent area. The B&Q site is currently a waste of much needed space, but space which imho should predominantly be given over to affordable housing. This plan, if only for the lack of affordable housing, should be rejected out of hand

Comment: I object this development. This would be terrible for our town, we do not have the infrastructure for this many new homes. Our roads are already too busy and we have limited school spaces and GPs are already too full in the area. This new development would cripple our current health, education and local services. It would also destroy the town's aesthetics, and destroy our skyline. Not to mention the concerns it will bring around extra pollution. I would suggest you rethink this development and make a more modest plan to increase some housing and additional services within the site.

Comment: I object this development & feel that this will destroy our Cricklewood community.

It is completely out of keeping with existing properties nearby due to its height & sheer number of towers. It is massively out of character with our neighborhood & an excessive overdevelopment. This area does not need 1100 flats in gigantic towers.

Due to the excessive heights of the towers, especially the tallest tower, the development will cause loss of light to neighbouring buildings & overlook other homes causing loss of privacy.

A great concern for me & my family is that this development will impact on highway safety & further restrict road access. Cricklewood lane is a single lane road either way which is already jam packed 830am - 10 & 15:00 - 18/1900. Emergency service vehicles already struggle to access these streets when responding to emergencies. Adding additional traffic to these already stretched highways will undoubtedly impact upon highway safety & restrict road access to nearby arterial roads.

This development proposal is excessive, overdeveloped & a danger to our neighborhood, community & our children.

I highly object to this proposal.

I am concerned that the local area doesn't have the space, amenities and facilities to accommodate such a large addition of traffic, Cricklewood Broadway, Claremont Road and Cricklewood Lane are already gridlocked for several hours every day and as a pedestrian I worry about safety on the roads and for school children.

The development will block the light and outlook of nearby streets, Lichfield Road and Ash Grove in particular.

I appreciate that housing is a better use of space than the current car park, however the buildings do not need to be as large and dense as is proposed, not to mention the fact that there is no social housing planned.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I strongly object to this building proposal for the following reasons; The number of homes proposed are too many for local infrastructure and amenities to cope with e.g doctor's surgeries, schools, libraries, baby clinics.

The height of the blocks is not in keeping with the area and will dominate the skyline for miles and oppress the nearby surrounds.

Nearby shopping streets ie. Cricklewood Broadway and Lane, will become dark and windy.

There would be a significant reduction in natural light to a large number of people's homes and gardens, including my own, damaging mental health, wildlife and nature.

There is no social housing which the area badly needs.

The units are small and cramped and each block is too close to each other.

The proposed green spaces between blocks and the areas around them will become wind tunnels and be heavily shaded and therefore cold.

Traffic levels are already very high locally and this will increase, causing even more congestion and pollution.

The area is already about to undergo significant building works which disrupts lives and this scheme will be going on for ten years which is far too long.

Drains will not cope with the number of new homes.

There will be a significant reduction to parking facilities for shoppers, meaning fewer people will be able to shop here, affecting local businesses.

What if there's another train derailment on that side of the bridge?

What about the safety issues and standards of high rise buildings given the Grenfell Tower disaster and how will the Fire service access flats nearest the rail lines?

All in all this proposal smacks of greed by the developers and a complete lack of empathy for the residents and the character of the area.

We already have a high number of residents living here as it is so the fact that this huge development is even being considered boggles my mind. B&q, the coop and the other local stores that will be affected are great additions to our area and we will now be forced to go further afield for basic DIY or if we wanted to pop out to the shops. This is all money scheming with no thought or care about how it will affect those of us who have been living here our entire lives. In addition to this, the fact that not even one of these apartments is going to be for social tenants only further proves that this is solely for money purposes. It is sad and unfortunate to know that in these difficult times, adding more crowds to an already over crowded area, simply for the want of money, is what is being prioritised.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: London clearly needs more housing. And it needs more high-quality housing in mixed-use developments, especially with an increasing trend towards working from home. Anyone who has recently bought, or tried to buy, a property in northwest London knows that there is a shortage of good quality houses and a corresponding inflation in prices.

London also benefits from more people. More residents mean more viewpoints, more diversity, more ideas and more economic contribution to our society. All of this, while true of the city as a whole, is also true of its individual neighbourhoods.

I (and other family members) live nearby to this development and I believe it will be a welcome addition to the community. 1100 new properties will create more high quality living space for thousands of people. A more open and publicly accessible environment at street level will be a great improvement on the current private retail facility and the large car park taking up underutilised space.

Of course more people will mean more demand on local amenities, and so the council should be mindful of partnership with the private sector to attract such amenities; and should consider expedited approval of new commercial and public sector facilities to complement the new development.

I have no relationship to the developer or any direct interest except as a local resident who looks forward to seeing further investment and modernisation of our neighbourhood.

I have no general objection with housing in general and the plethora of apartments in the area as most are visually pretty but I have no words for this new development!! It is frankly going to be an eye soar and I'm shocked that this design concept has even been approved. It is understandable most residents are not happy as it is wayyyy too tall and really won't be a pleasant addition to the area. I urge you to reconsider this very bleak stark boring and huge building design. Surely your design team can come up with something that doesn't resemble Lego bricks? Way too tall and Terrible to look at to summarise.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This development is completely out of character with the whole neighbourhood; the scale and size of the buildings will tower over all others on the Broadway. 5 floors might work, 15 floors is not in keeping with the area and will change the perspective and outlook.

Traffic levels in the area are already high, this will bring even more in, clogging up the roads and creating danger to pedestrians.

The construction of these large buildings will be a nuisance in the area - the noise, the dust, the pollution, the construction vehicles. Cricklewood will be in disarray for years if this project goes ahead.

I've lived in Cricklewood for 40 years and so disappointed that this is what is going up. It was such a shame years ago when the dance hall was taken down and the site left empty. I had high hopes for a development that would be in keeping with the area.

This is a RESIDENTIAL AREA and we do not want high rise monstrosities as a blight on our area.

there has been a lot of new development but none have proposed to build high rises in our midst.

This is not the City of London, this is CRICKLEWOOD.

Developments should be suitable for the area they're built in and not just what an architect thinks looks good or right. It would make Cricklewood less attractive a place to live not more attractive. Why can't a development be built to suit the surrounding areas. It definitely shouldn't be more than twice the height of all the buildings in the area

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This would be a massive overdevelopment that potentially wouldn't provide satisfactory living conditions for future occupants due to density, lack of outdoor amenities, such as gardens and play spaces, and the strain on local services that an increase in population of this size would incur.

It would be damaging to the local character because the design doesn't fit the area and the bulk of the building would simply be overwhelming. The proposed height is ridiculous. A potential eyesore, visible from far and wide, it would be unduly obtrusive and detrimental, resulting in loss of outlook from many nearby properties.

It fails to provide the maximum viable amount of affordable housing.

The amenity areas would be too small and inadequate for future occupiers.

There would be inadequate parking and such a large increase in population in a small area would have a harmful impact on highway safety and free flow.

A huge increase on local transport services, not to mention the sewage system.

No undertaking re carbon off-setting or zero CO2 emissions.

Comment: I object to this planned development as I am of the view that:

- 1) the proposed tower blocks are not at all in keeping with the existing properties in the area, the sheer size of the proposed towers is overbearing and overwhelming
- 2) the development provides no social housing for a socially deprived area
- 3) the proposed tower blocks will dominate the sky line and limit daylight for homes already in the area - restricted day light can have a significant detrimental effect on peoples physical and emotional wellbeing
- 4) the development will add significant traffic and put huge strain on the roads and existing congestion in the area
- 5) the existing public transport system in the area is unable to support such a large increase in volume of people
- 6) there is little to no capacity for doctors and dentists in the area to support such a large increase in volume of people

I believe that this development will be detrimental to the health, wellbeing and functioning of the existing neighbours of NW2. The impact will be far and wide due to already congested roads and public transport systems, affecting people as far as Golders green and Brent cross. Public services in the area cannot cope with such a large influx of people to the area.

Comment: Dear planning team,

Whilst I am excited by the prospects of development in the Cricklewood area - including the B&Q site - I am concerned by the current plans.

First, a building of 25 stories on this site would be significantly taller than anything else in the area, it would be an eyesore, tower way above all buildings in the locality and cast shadows over the 3 boroughs in which the district lies and beyond.

Secondly, I am worried about the increased pressures on the local public transport infrastructure. Over 1000 new dwellings in the area would cause untold bottlenecks at Cricklewood station and on local bus routes, particularly during peak times.

Sophie

Comment: The proposed height of the towers and number of dwellings at the B&Q site are a huge concern to residents in the area. 25 storey towers with a total of 1,000 flats is totally out of place with the character of not only the Cricklewood neighbourhood but that of the whole of Barnet and surrounding boroughs.

Additionally the increase of homes in the neighbourhood will place a huge strain on public services such as trains, health care and traffic. How will the networks possibly cope?

The height of the towers and number of dwellings need to be revised significantly to ensure this development is viable with the infrastructure and character of Cricklewood.

Comment: Absolute monstrosity!!

Not in keeping with the rest of Cricklewood.

As a resident of Cricklewood I cannot fathom how there is any thought of building ANYTHING when Cricklewood is already over populated, over run and there is not enough amenities to cope with the people already living here.

Recently there was a burst water pipe practically on the site you wish to build on.... this caused absolute mayhem as there was temporary traffic lights so the work men could do their job. The queuing traffic was backed up in all 4 directions from this point (under the bridge) For the whole duration the men was there working, and a simply 5 minute journey was taking over an hour. As a resident of a small close, our "small close" became a rat run for this backed up traffic an our children was compromised. The speed limit for our road was totally ignored and cars was speeding through the close to try and beat the traffic on the main road just behind the houses. This will become the new normal if the build should go ahead, as Cricklewood Lane, Claremont road, Lichfield road, Edgware Road and Chichele road are THE MAIN ROADS INTO CRICKLEWOOD I cannot see how having this many new resident s is plausible when there is simply no room as it is! We have limited doctors surgeries, schools and not to mention there is nowhere to park in Cricklewood as it is never mind when there is a potential new influx of people and vehicles. There are no plans for social housing in this build. which leads me to think who would actually BUY a FLAT in Cricklewood. And to have this many built would be pure insanity.

I pray this build is thought about with the greatest detail

Regards

A terrified resident of Cricklewood

The height of the proposed towers is completely out of character with this neighbourhood and completely unprecedented. This area is already extremely busy, there is not enough education or medical provision and there are no parking spaces. In addition the proposed towers dominate the landscape. Please reconsider!!!

Comment: The proposed development will be an absolute disaster for the Cricklewood area. In such a built-up area, the open sky near Cricklewood Lane is a real godsend. The proposed development wouldn't provide satisfactory living conditions for future occupants and ruin the local character of the area.

With the high-density nature of the development, Cricklewood would be overwhelmed and facilities stressed to breaking point: there are no plans for additional shopping or leisure facilities or new schools. Demolishing the B and Q would also affect the area negatively. This retail centre brings much needed business to the area and provides jobs and income.

I also note that there are no plans for social housing in the development, so it is unclear who this development will benefit. Certainly, bringing this many people to the area will increase the risk of crime in the area.

In addition, the development is entirely out of character with the area. 2 or 3 level buildings are the normal in Cricklewood, with the proposed development. This would be detrimental to the character and appearance of the street scene and wider locality as well as causing a loss of light and privacy for all those beneath the tower blocks.

There would also be inadequate parking provided, with more traffic in the area and a harmful impact on highway safety and free flow. Cricklewood Lane is busy at the best of times; as acknowledged by your own planning officers when they widened the Cricklewood Lane crossroad by the train station. Traffic and pedestrian safety would also be far worse.

I would imagine that not consulting with Brent and Camden Councils is also illegal, as those boroughs and those residents will be affected.

In conclusion, it is clear that the proposed development is entirely inappropriate for the area and I object in the strongest manner possible.

Comment: I'm completely in favour of building new homes on the B&Q site as the need for housing, particularly social housing, in Barnet, is pressing, but to erect tower blocks in an area of low rise housing is not just out of keeping with the design and the nature of the area, but changes the outlook and the growth of the community in the area forever - this at a time when families are moving into Cricklewood and giving it a new lease of life. Clearly blocks are easier and more economical to build, but there is a large difference between blocks (as on Clitterhouse Road) and towers. Barnet Council, please reject this application and ask the developers to rethink the layout to fit with what is already there, rather than break it up with an unremitting and unmissably bleak series of tower blocks (look at Colindale - a weird and uneasy mix of ridiculously tall towers which are inwards looking with their own infrastructures, and an ignored and impoverished local community living in small houses).

Comment: I have studied the application and would wish to lodge an objection as I consider this would constitute a significant over development of the site which will have a detrimental effect on the local area. It proposes high rise blocks in an area of established low rise housing. The site is within a suburban residential area, but a central city site, The pressure on housing in the area is for family houses not for high rise apartments. This proposal does little if anything to address that requirement. The significantly increased density similarly is inappropriate and will generate additional strain on local facilities such as medical centres and transport services. The road junction immediately adjacent to the site often fails to cope with the level of traffic. Planners may also wish to take into account the additional housing which is being generated by the major Cricklewood/Brent Cross development which may negate the need for this scheme. Visually the proposal would be totally overbearing on the immediate vicinity. In summary it is the wrong type of development for the site in the area.

Comment: I object to this development for the following reasons:

I believe it will damage the local character of the area because the size, siting, bulk, density and design will be out of character and detrimental to the character and appearance of the streetscene and wider locality of Cricklewood.

I believe the noise and disturbance, loss of residential and visual amenity, the size and development the footprint, massing and width constitutes overdevelopment and will be unduly obtrusive and detrimental to the area.

The planned towers would appear overbearing and result in loss of outlook and privacy of existing residents.

The planning for parking is inadequate, the harmful impact on highway safety and the free flow of traffic will adversely impact on the already heavily congested A5, a main arterial route into London.

The plans do not provide the maximum viable amount of affordable housing.

There is inadequate outdoor amenity and play space for the residents, and no contribution to off-site amenity and play space instead.

Perhaps most importantly there is no undertaking re carbon off-setting or zero CO2 emissions in the size, scale and design of this development.

The Covid-19 pandemic will alter the way Londoners work, travel and where they choose to live. Many more people will be working from their homes and not travelling into the city or the west end to work and shop. Who will choose to live and raise a family in a high-rise, high-density tower block when they could have space and clean air outside London? Even if a vaccine is identified and taken up by sufficient numbers many employers, including the NHS and many companies in the city, have seen the efficacy and value of home-based working. This includes the reduction in commuting time and carbon emissions, financial savings on rented office space and the improvement in the work/life balance and productivity of their employees. Is the council confident that this plan is still what London needs post Covid-19?

Whoever thought putting skyscraper flats, densely packed together, in a residential area like Cricklewood, was a good idea? Where are the school places, where are the GP surgeries, where is all the additional infrastructure needed to come from? Quite apart from the fact that the appearance of these buildings is so unattractive. By all means, if B&Q is going, use the land for housing, but on a far more appealing, low rise, well spaced and reasonable basis. Who is going to buy these flats? I'd like to bet it will be landlords who don't care about their tenants as long as the rents keep rolling in.

Comment: As a property owner in Cricklewood I can attest that there are currently a glut of flats in the area overflowing with families as there are insufficient homes in the area suitable for families. Granting planning permission for yet another 1000 flats would be a poor commercial decision and would make Cricklewood less, not more desirable.

Coronavirus has demonstrated the invaluable role that greenspace plays in allowing a community to flourish. This proposal may have made some sense before Covid, however now it is clear that piling several thousand more residents into flats with scant greenspace will simply turn the heart of Cricklewood into a slum.

Moreover, 1000 new residential units would inevitably result in more need for schools, surgeries, busses and trains which are unlikely to materialise given the austerity this countries will likely face post-covid. This is to say nothing of the horrendous traffic jams which will result from enabling more residents to bring cars to the area.

I urge the council to consider the changing market demand for housing in light of Covid. We will most likely live with this disease for years to come so we should ensure our communities can adapt to this future and are not guided by the outmoded "growth for growth's sake" mindset which reached a tipping point before the virus struck.

I object furthermore on the grounds of traffic, which is already congesting during rush hour into the surrounding neighbourhoods and up to Hendon Way and Finchley Road.

Traffic safety will become even more of an issue with all the schools in the area (primary and secondary) as will noise and pollution levels especially when the traffic is moving very slowly.

Also, during rush hour it is difficult enough right now for emergency vehicles to get through and will be impossible if the traffic increases further - which effectively cuts us residents off from emergency response from police, fire brigade and ambulances.

The sheer scale of it dwarfs all the surrounding areas and looks overwhelming. No way do we need 25+storey buildings - they have been proved not to work anyway (causing mental health issues; horrible to live in; not enough access to the outside and very difficult to rear children in them)- They are being demolished all over London anyway. So why are we being subjected to this?? The whole area is regularly grid locked with too much traffic; schools, doctors etc will be overwhelmed. I most strongly object to this project.

Comment: I object to this planning application because of overdevelopment that wouldn't provide satisfactory living conditions for future occupants. Loss of a family house, damaging the local character. The size, siting, bulk and design is out of character with the surrounding area. It is detrimental to the character and appearance of the street scene and wider locality.

Due to noise and disturbance, loss of residential and visual amenity. Size, footprint, massing and width ... overdevelopment, unduly obtrusive and detrimental. It would appear overbearing and result in loss of outlook.

Existing amenity areas are too small, inadequate for future occupiers.

Comment: Cricklewood needs more houses not more flats. A 25 storey building will dwarf the surrounding area and reduce green space and light.

In addition 25+storey buildings - have been proved not to work anyway (causing mental health issues being and very difficult to rear children in them).

There is also nowhere near enough infrastructure in place to support this, we need more medical centres and schools as it is. This scheme is badly thought out and would damage the area.

This scheme should be rejected, Cricklewood needs family housing and social infrastructure like medical centres and schools, not a Grenfell style block of flats.

This will blight Barnet council and create additional problems for the borough by over-cramming and reducing the liveability of families in Cricklewood

Housing Requirement: over development of the site providing flats rather than family friendly housing, which is what is needed in the area. The area is mainly suburban residential. I note there is also no social housing in the proposal.

Traffic Levels: the junction at Cricklewood Lane and the A5 is already often unable to handle the volume of traffic, as is the wider area in general.

Design & Appearance: nothing in the area comes close to the size, bulk and footprint of these proposed buildings. They are totally inappropriate for the area, damaging the local character of the area.

Comment: I would like to object to this proposal.

The plan to build such high tower blocks is out of line with the surrounding area and with recent planning consent for 9 storeys which, for 1-13 Cricklewood Lane, was deemed by Barnet to be appropriate as a precedent for future developments.

It seems that this scheme is a dramatic overdevelopment and hence will dominate in a negative way the local area, both visually and potentially by putting a strain on local healthcare and public services.

There is nothing above 9 storeys in Cricklewood, which seems more appropriate given the local dominating lower level residential architecture.

The shadow of the buildings would have a detrimental effect on local areas.

I am of course not opposed in principle to developing this site and creating more housing. It would be good to see this reduced to a more in-keeping scale and to include social housing within the proposal.

Such high tower blocks are over development with nothing as high in the surrounding area. In addition the experience of people living in high tower blocks are generally poor. The recent pandemic has proved the importance of not having high density housing with little or no outside space.

Please do not approve this application. Decent housing is needed but this does not fit the bill. A maximum height of 9 or 10 storeys with greater square footage per flat with a dedicated, decent sized, private outdoor space for each flat.

Comment: The proposals are vast, the blocks far too high. 25 storeys is a sky scraper. Monstrous. Housing is already dense in this area, and more at this scale in this site a very poor idea. The roads around this area are already absolutely choc a block. The idea there would be thousands more people coming and going from here is overwhelming and almost frightening. A proposal of this scale cannot go ahead. I also wonder if in this climate, this scale of housing is actually needed. Once covid has settled, it may well be the case there are hundreds of flats in London that won't sell.

Comment: I object on the grounds that the proposed massive development fails to comply with Barnet's Tall Towers policy document. The cross section on page 31 and the subsequent table shows that B & Q Cricklewood site was only intended to have 8 storeys when the policy was written in 2019.

Should not the tall building have a successful integration into the existing urban fabric? The skyline? Will they fit in with the early 1900's style homes in the area?

Will these skyscrapers have an potential microclimate effect the existing levels of comfort in the public realm? Has wind turbulence been taken into account for such tall buildings?

Nearby development in Brent (Ashford/Temple Rd) is 9 storeys. The 25 storey buildings are not in keeping of the area, also the size, footprint, massing and width ... overdevelopment, unduly obtrusive and detrimental to the area. It is overbearing and in fact overwhelming, dominating the Cricklewood skyline and cutting daylight.

I do not see extra schools, GP's offices and infrastructure needed to support so many extra people living in the area.

There is inadequate parking which will have a harmful impact on highway safety and free flow.

Parking is already congested for the Barnet residents in the area. It will also have consequences on the neighbouring borough of Brent which will soon have shorter operational hours for parking. Their patrols are less rigorous than Barnet's and can see potential of poorly parked cars and blocked roads.

There is no social housing which is appalling for a build of this proportion not to have any. And with so many potential people moving in, there is concern about crime. And how much more can the neighbourhood take with the 1,000's of people living across the street with crime?

Concerns on traffic levels & increased pedestrian safety on the pavement as well as COVID-19 safety issues. The bus stops are already packed with people, how will it accommodate the 1000's who will be moving into the area?

Comment Reasons:

Comment: We cannot have more blocks of flats added to an already over populated area. The traffic is already ridiculous to the point where I cannot even access my driveway. I live on Chichele Road in Cricklewood and feel that this would impact my life negatively, I am worried about the air pollution and extra cars on the road. Safety of my children going to school. They have the right to breath fresh air. We have the right to be able to live peacefully in this area and not have to worry constantly about traffic and air quality

Comment: I object to this construction which will bring more traffic into the area. These buildings will dominate the community and spoil the overall look of what is such a small space.

At the moment the infrastructure within Cricklewood cannot cope, with burst water mains due to ageing Victorian pipework and sewage system and regular electricity blackouts.

With the new Brent Cross regeneration, additional train station and new flats this will bring more households with more traffic which Cricklewood currently is unable to sustain.

Boris Johnson has a commitment to developing the north of England and that is where housing is affordable and where people will go once there are jobs. These blocks will be white elephants in 20 years time and local people will be enduring the hideous disruption, noise and traffic of the building work, the overcrowding of roads, schools, medical practices all for nothing.

Barnet need to build a skatepark and allotments on the site to improve the quality of life for existing residents.

Comment: I strongly object to the proposed buildings that are earmarked for the new development. In particular, the height of the buildings are all completely unacceptable. The height beyond 8-9 stories maximum is just completely unmatched in recent times or compared to anything in the area. Additionally, the height then accentuates the overall facade which is also completely out of character for the area.

All the tall buildings will represent an eyesore and will adversely affect the neighbourhood as well as all domestic residential house values for miles around.

This whole development has absolutely NO social or local benefit and will only cause increases in traffic and congestion also.

The developer must be severely limited in its ambitions even if approved.

Comment: I wish to object to this planning application as the height of the building, 25 storeys, is out of keeping with what is currently in the area. A realistic 8-9 storey would be in line with other similar height buildings. We do not want another Grenfell.

100 parking spaces for 1000 people is concerning as it will impact the local neighbourhood and adjoining borough of Brent. I am concerned with traffic problems as they are now because on Sunday cars already block the roads parking on the single yellows blocking buses from coming through. I can only imagine what it would be like with 1000-3000 people living in the area who weren't lucky enough to get a parking place in their building. Utter chaos on the streets.

Same with the sidewalks with so many more people traversing it - where is the Covid -19 safety?

I am also concerned with the lack of infrastructure to support up to 3000 people in this area. Please rethink the height of the building in this project. 8-9 storey would be more manageable.

Comment: I live in the Railway Terraces Conservation Area and strongly object to this application.

- The important views in and out of the terraces to which the Railway Terraces Conservation Area Character Appraisal refers will be destroyed if the development is visible in the terraces. A 25 storey tower block and other very tall buildings of 15, 16, 17, 18 storeys looming over the terraces will destroy 'the great sense of perspective within the area created through a combination of strong horizontal building lines, uninterrupted views through open areas and from the gentle change in levels towards the north-west'.

- The 25 storey and other clusters of very tall tower blocks in the proposed development will be visible in the Railway Terraces Conservation Area where my family and I live, and will have a hugely detrimental impact upon the area.

- The clusters of tower blocks in the proposed development will be seen above the roofline of the terraces.

- The extremely tall towers will destroy the long views of the terraces.

- The cottages were built on a north south axis following the railway, not east to west. The side of the terraces that faces B&Q therefore gets only half a day of sunlight. A 20% loss of sunlight is very significant if your home/garden only gets sunshine for half a day.

- There will be loss of sunlight and skyline in Kara Way playground, which our young daughter uses.
- The architecture in Cricklewood is predominantly Victorian and Edwardian (2 to 4 storeys). The development proposes one block of 25 storeys and clusters of very tall buildings of 15, 16, 17 and 18 storeys. There are no very tall buildings in Cricklewood.
- 1,100 housing units will equate to some 3,000 or more new residents. This will put enormous pressure on local services, which are already stretched eg GP's, transport, leisure facilities, etc.
- There will be a huge increase in traffic in an already very polluted and congested area.

Comment: You'd be well advised to consider John B Calhoun's experiments between 1952 and 1962. His work has been used to illustrate societal collapse due to high density. It demonstrated the effects of high density on human behaviour.

I object to the above planning application on the following grounds:

I object on the grounds that the proposed massive development fails to comply with Barnet's Tall Towers policy document. The cross section on page 31 and the subsequent table shows that B & Q Cricklewood site was only intended to have 8 storeys.

Your plan to build 17, 19 and 25 story buildings at the B@Q site is, in my view, poorly thought out. Apart from being aesthetically unappealing, the proposed architecture is far removed from that of the residential neighbouring properties.

3)

Your plan would bring about higher traffic congestion and therefore greater pollution levels in the already highly polluted and congested area.

Currently, the area has inadequate educational provision for children, from local nurseries to schools. With additional 1100 residential units, where will the additional population of children attend nurseries and schools?

5)

Currently there is a shortage of GP surgeries in the area. Where will the additional families find GP surgeries to register with?

I strongly opposed this planning application.

The number of houses and families that will be brought into the area will make the crime far worse - just by statistics.

Traffic will be appalling - made worse by the recent changes to local traffic flow.

The already crowded public transport system will be stretched.

We will lose a valuable local DIY store meaning we'll increase the pollution, traffic, by having to drive to the next shop.

The development is so large that in the short term all the local residents will suffer with pollution (we already have asthma in the house), noise, traffic and I can see absolutely no gain once it has been completed.

Where is this report published? Is there any or it was agreed to increase such additional footfall of residents in the area without ascertaining the impact on the existing infrastructure and community?

I think all local residents would want to know the answer to this point.

Comment: It's a massive high density tower block in an area which already has huge congestion problems and a lack of infrastructure.

It will completely change the character of the area, overshadowing homes for miles around.

It's clearly an "ask for something ridiculous, then compromise on something also ridiculous like you're being reasonable" tactic, so also don't let them get away with then proposing a mere 10 story tall tower or something. This whole project needs to be gutted in size or rejected.

Comment: I TOTALLY OBJECT to Tower Blocks being built on this site.... it will clog up the whole of Cricklewood Lane and Willesden Green and will make living here a HORRIBLE nightmare. The traffic will be horrendous - the building work will take years and cause chaos and the air quality in the area will be even worse than it is now with huge traffic jams caused all around the area, not just when they are being built but once they are occupied. We can't possibly deal with that amount of properties in this area.

Tower blocks should not be allowed to be built anywhere much less in an area that is already over crowded. It will make living here unbearable and awful and the whole area is just starting to get much better.

My family has used the shops which will be destroyed for many years and we continue to use them to this day - we will need to drive much further to find shops similar to B&Q which is very useful and always busy. Since the development is not planned to include social housing it cannot be said to contribute to the greater good in any way.

The local infrastructure as far as schools and doctors cannot support such high density population.

The buildings proposed are ugly, unimaginative and with not enough green space or trees or play areas for children.

All in all the development is completely out of keeping with well-designed and well thought-out planning. Added to that, there is not enough social housing in the plans.

A thoroughly rotten money-making scheme which will only benefit the developers and offer nothing but a huge blot on the local landscape and to the local people.

Comment: The site plainly needs to be developed and currently represents a poor use of valuable inner suburban London land.

The current proposal has two significant flaws:

1. The proposed height at up to 25 Storeys is so vastly disproportionate to the surrounding architecture that the site will radically change the character of an area which is predominately low rise (less than 5 storeys). There are no tower blocks in the Cricklewood area (there are in Brent Cross, near the North Circular) the tallest nearby building being no more than 6 storeys. The proposed height of this building is more than 3 times that of anything else in the neighbourhood. It is completely inappropriate in terms of scale.
2. Cricklewood Lane & A5 already represent a traffic bottleneck that this scheme of 1000 units does nothing to address. Any residential development to the site should include a further or increased access to Claremont Road to reduce bottlenecking.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I am extremely worried about this proposed development and lodge my objections in the strongest terms, as follows:

- The proposed 25 storey and other tall towers in the development will destroy the views within the Railway Terraces where I live and dominate the skyline.
- The tall towers would cause a loss of 20% sunlight in the houses directly facing the development; this is significant as these houses already only receive half a day of sunlight.
- The 25 storey tower would loom right over the Terraces and the rest of Cricklewood and would be completely out of character and inappropriate in this area, where the majority of buildings are 2-3 storeys high.
- The development would set a dangerous precedent for future developments in Cricklewood if it is allowed to go ahead as proposed.
- 1,100 new flats would mean approx. 3,000 new residents: Cricklewood's schools, GP surgeries and dentists are already over-subscribed. What kind of strain will the additional demand from c.3,000 new residents put on the already stretched existing services?
- This development as proposed would lead to a huge increase in traffic and pollution in an already congested and polluted area; I note that there is no parking proposed for residents on the site (apart from disabled).

This development has not been properly thought through in terms of the detrimental impact it will have on the quality of life of Cricklewood's residents and the future health of our children, and the long-term damage it will do to our communities and already stretched public services. Or to look at it with a cynical eye, these matters are of no interest at all to developers. The question is whether they are of any interest to Barnet Council.

As residents, many of whom have lived here for generations, we are strongly opposed to this proposal and will do all we can to ensure the height of these towers is reduced to a level in keeping with the rest of Cricklewood.

Comment: Cricklewood is already busy and with this number of proposed apartments it will be overwhelmed- losing the village atmosphere that it enjoys now.

The proposed buildings are far too tall and totally out of keeping with the rest of the neighbourhood. At present Cricklewood has low houses of 2/4 storeys and the proposed apartment blocks will be overwhelming, and will dominate the whole area.

There are a proposed 1100 new flats but no social housing.

Are these flats for rent or to be purchased?

Where is the demand for all these apartments? Is it for local people or for foreign investors?

How will the area cope with the demand on services, local amenities and schools?

How will the area cope with this number of new inhabitants and the traffic that this will produce. the traffic is already congested and this will obviously only make it worse.

So although I can appreciate that some apartments on the site of the car park could be positive the scale of this proposal is way, way too big..... and is totally out of keeping with the area.

I STRONGLY OBJECT TO THIS PROPOSAL.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I am strongly opposed to this planning application.

The plan to build such high density housing in an already overpopulated area is deeply concerning. The buildings will cast huge shadows over the entire area, will disrupt wind, negatively impact the protected views from Railway Terraces conservation area (where I live), and will put an unbearable strain on local amenities and transport.

There have already been several large scale planning applications put forward and some approved in this area, which have also been of concern. However, this application goes far beyond any prior applications in Cricklewood and will destroy the protected views from our conservation area. I am restricted from damaging these views by using the wrong roofing materials, but these developers could potentially be allowed to do something that has a far worse impact. It is a hugely offensive proposal - one rule for some (ie. rich developers) and another for the rest of us.

The buildings would also be completely out of character for the entire area. There are no equivalent buildings in the area and the local planning policies stated that such large towers are not permitted in Cricklewood. Page 31 of Barnett's Tall Buildings Update, states that buildings up to 14 stories could be appropriate in Cricklewood (which also seems excessively large to me); however, nowhere does it state that towers as large as the ones proposed would be appropriate in this area. The closest they are allowed is in Brent Cross South, which is over a mile away,

My primary concern though is the huge increase in population size in the area. With 1,100 new homes in the area, we could see a population increase of 3,000 people. However, our roads are already at breaking point and are frequently coming to a complete standstill, particularly on Saturdays. We don't have many options for transport here and are very dependent on buses, but these are already full.

Please reject this application in its entirety.

Who are the 1100 new flats for? Does this reflect the housing need in this area? Why has the requirement for social housing to be included not been upheld? If they are to be for rent, will these be affordable?

Additionally this development does not offer social housing in an area that needs this more than most. After the events of this year it is clear that housing developments need green space and room to move, and this is not taken into consideration in an already highly urbanised area.

Comment: I think this is a horrendous plan for a small, congested part of the area. The skyline will spread shade/darkness over the whole area and will not blend in or compliment what is already there. I am frankly shocked that Barnet would even consider this. The Brent Cross regeneration should not look monstrous but feed the community in many ways; cultural, financial, social. This plan fits in to none of the aforementioned.

The design and appearance are ugly and will cut daylight to all nearby.

The monstrosity will be seen for miles all over.

The traffic in the area is bad at the best of times. This development will make the area and surrounding area impossible to drive in. Buses struggle in the area as the roads are not big enough - they roads cannot accommodate any more traffic. Pollution is bad and this will make it worse.

With over 1000 new flats the local facilities will not be able to cope. They are already at breaking point.

It seems to go against everything the local conservation areas stand for.

There is no provision for any social housing which is desperately needed in the area. There are inadequate school places and not enough GP surgeries to service that number of dwellings. The A5 is already a congested traffic route and adding that density of building will bring chaos to the local area. Both during construction and also built with the extra traffic.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Although it is a shame that local shops will be going I support the owners of the site to development this in to housing. However I object to this on three grounds:

1. The height of the proposed buildings is completely ridiculous. The idea that these buildings should be higher than the surrounding areas is not right. Anything higher than probably 4-6 floors should be rejected. At these sorts of heights they will stick out for miles by themselves and are completely out of the keeping of the area
 2. Cricklewood Lane is a major bottleneck and continuously backs up. Developing this huge site on the Cricklewood Lane area will massively impact this. If as part of the development at the far side they built another connecting road on to Claremont Road then this could massively help the existing traffic and dramatically improve the impact of this development - and probably be a net benefit to the areas traffic
 3. I have not had time to read the documents but understand from others that this does not include significant council/ affordable housing. If this is the case this clearly needs to be looked at - as there is more than ample space to ringfence a part of the site
- Happy to discuss these through if anyone would like.

Comment: Although aware that more housing is needed in London, I fail to understand why such huge apartment blocks are being considered in the area presently occupied by B&Q. Cricklewood area is already 'swamped' by traffic, and the roads around the area can hardly be considered wide, the traffic along Claremont Road and Cricklewood Lane is already atrocious and has become worse since I purchased my apartment 21 years ago. If these blocks of apartments are approved the situation will be diabolical and that whole area will likely become a nightmare for people trying to get to work. We know there will be extra station(s) but more people will undoubtedly use their own transport for getting to work. Wouldn't it be more appropriate to get people OUT of the London area rather than entice them INTO London? Some time ago builders and Councils were apparently making an effort to encourage people to leave London, has this exercise already been discarded? Think again!

This high density would overwhelm not only Cricklewood but it's near neighbour Camden, Brent... The Cricklewood Broadway area is constantly traffic jammed, this will create more chaos, more noise and air pollution, more people therefore more cars! and more people! Comment Reasons:

Comment: I STRONGLY OBJECT to this development on the following grounds.

1. Density: It's too dense for such a small site. I understand the need for housing, but building up is not the answer. 1100 on this site is overbearing for the fabric and community of Cricklewood and would be a huge strain on our currently limited resources and facilities.
2. Overdevelopment: Again, we need housing, but in this little corner of Cricklewood you have already approved 1-13 Cricklewood lane which will be 9 storeys, plus the Matalan site will be housing and work is already underway opp the Bingo hall. It's too much all at once!
3. Height: the towers are way too tall! High buildings should be closer to the town centre and face the high street, not residential housing. These are getting taller away from the centre of Cricklewood. These buildings will be seen from green spaces as far away as Gladstone park and the Fortune Green Cemetery. Too tall!
4. Not in keeping with the local area: Cricklewood is made up of low rise 2-3 storey housing. There is nothing of this height or size for miles and miles. It would stand out like a sore thumb, looming over the landscape and damage the local character of our town centre.
5. No social housing: A development of this size should include a large number of social housing units as well as many more affordable units than currently suggested. Without this, it will not provide any housing benefit, particularly in the current climate.
6. Traffic: 1100 more people, even if they don't have any cars, will bring a large increase in traffic with all the online deliveries! I would also hope that any development like this would have restrictions on the parking permits residents are allowed as parking is already an issue in the area.

7. Shadow my garden: I live 0.5 miles from the site, these towers will be visible from my front room and will block my evening light for half year!

I reiterate, I STRONGLY OBJECT to this development.

There is not enough social or affordable housing, or other beneficial trade off for the community in the development to justify the break with council precedent to limit height of blocks to 9 stories. The buildings are out of keeping with the low rise nature of the surrounding landscape; they will dominate the area. The large nature of the development will mean disruption for the area for years.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I am writing to object to the above application in my capacity as Councillor for Fortune Green ward in the LB Camden. Fortune Green ward (the extreme north-west of Camden) covers part of Cricklewood and is next door to this development and, as such will be significantly affected by it.

I have been in touch with many local residents who are deeply concerned both by the overall principle of the development, but also by the immediate effect it will have on their local neighbourhood and my objections reflect these concerns.

Overall, we consider this a totally unacceptable overdevelopment of a comparatively small site. In order to provide 1,100 units, the development requires the building of a number of tower blocks - the largest of these being a massive 25- storey high building. This is completely unsuitable for a neighbourhood which is largely comprised of residential terraced housing of 2 or 3 storeys. It will overshadow streets, houses and gardens, dominate the skyline for miles around and change the aspect of NW London for ever.

This excessively dense development (which does not even comply with Barnet's own policies with its lamentably low level of affordable housing) will put huge strain on the already stretched local infrastructure and services both in Camden as well as Barnet.

In particular, our residents are concerned about the effects on local traffic and transport. Our local roads will be seriously affected by the extra traffic this development will generate and local bus routes will be unable to cope with additional demand.

Therefore, as Councillor for Camden's Fortune Green Ward, I object to this neighbouring application on the grounds that it is overdevelopment, unsuitable for the Cricklewood area, includes too little affordable housing and is likely to produce unacceptable demands on our shared local infrastructure and services.

Flick Rea

Liberal Democrat Councillor

Comment: Looking at the plans, the primary motivation behind the proposed development appears to be maximising profit through over developing the site rather than providing a well balanced, sympathetically designed living environment for the inhabitants. The proposed buildings are over sized in height, scale and density and will be out of keeping with the character of other residential buildings. The development will be detrimental to both the light and character of the area.

Local amenities will be unable to cope with the increased population and both traffic congestion and pollution will be significantly increased. This will pose a danger to both pedestrians and cyclists and goes against government undertakings to reduce pollution and promote healthier living.

I object to the development proposals for this site on the grounds of over-development (too many units) and scale and massing (far too tall and obtrusive). I am writing as a retired Architect with considerable experience of large projects.

The site is variously described as being in the Cricklewood/Brent Cross & West Hendon Regeneration Area and the Brent Cross - Cricklewood Opportunity Area. The site certainly was in the 2005 designated Regeneration Area, but the 2014 revised Outline permission excluded the area of Cricklewood bounded by the railway line, Cricklewood Lane and the Broadway. The B&Q site sits within this excluded area. The Opportunity area appears to be the same as the Regeneration Area, as shown on the AECOM section of the application - Planning Policy Context (Chapter2 Page6). Again the B&Q site is excluded.

The current planning legislation against which planning applications should be judged are the London Plan 2016, and the Barnet Local Plan 2012. Both are in the course of being updated but the new Plans have yet to be ratified. The Barnet Plan is not expected to be adopted until Spring 2022.

Currently the suitable housing density for a site is calculated using a matrix based on the setting of the site and its proximity to good public transport (Table 3.2 of the 2016 London Plan). The new London Plan will no longer include this matrix but seek instead to Optimise Site Capacity through a design-led approach. This is clarified in Clause 3.3.4 which explains "designating appropriate development capacities through site allocations enables boroughs to proactively optimise the capacity of strategic sites through a consultative design-led approach that allows for meaningful engagement and collaboration with local communities, organisations and businesses".

Barnet appear to have tried to use this, as yet, unadopted procedure, but allowed the design proposal to be a long way down the road through private discussions with the developer before any consultations with the community. Included in Barnet's New Plan, their Preferred Approach document will designate the residential capacity of all medium and large sites they consider suitable for residential development; their draft document includes the B&Q site as having a 'Central' Location with an indicated residential capacity of 1007 units +10% mixed uses, with a very good Public Transport Access Level (PTAL) of 5.

The location type 'Central' is incorrect for Cricklewood, because that rating is for the most densely built-up areas like the City or West End. The correct location rating is 'Urban' for a town centre like Cricklewood, as the third alternative 'Suburban' would give much too low a density.

My view is supported by the 2019 Barnet Planning Officer's Assessment and Recommendation for 1-13 Cricklewood Lane (Co-op site next to B&Q) which referred to the Urban category of 200-700 habitable rooms/hectare as the benchmark for their decision. In that instance they allowed a final density of 816 habitable rooms/hectare, which many may think was too much.

There is no reason why the density allowed for the B&Q site should be higher than that approved last year for the adjoining Co-op site, which has the same PTAL rating. Even applying the approved density pro-rata would only allow a maximum of 755 units on the B&Q site rather than 1007 as suggested by Barnet or 1100 proposed by Montreaux. While acknowledging the need to optimise housing densities, a new scheme should be designed that is more in keeping with the character and scale of Cricklewood, with blocks no more than 9 storeys high, regardless of whether the total units it includes reaches a total of 755 units.

a. an overdevelopment of the site

b. completely out of keeping with adjacent and neighbouring buildings - both residential and commercial being far higher than the existing 2/3 storey buildings and more cumbersome. It will therefore dominate the skyline and cut daylight and outlook from nearby units

c. provides no easily avoidable housing.

Overall, the impact of this development is surely detrimental to the existing neighbourhood .

Barnet held at least three meetings (May-Aug 2019) with Montreaux developing the proposals before meeting any members of the community. Irrespective of the location rating, it should have been obvious to all Barnet Officers present at their first meeting that the buildings proposed were far too tall for Cricklewood, and completely out of scale with the town centre. Instead the building layouts and heights were tweaked in a way that made no material difference to the massing and bulk. All the Resident Associations consultations made strong adverse comments on the height and density, as did the visitors to the only fully public consultation held in Ashford Place in Feb 2020, by which time the design had been finalised. Even at that stage, there were no drawings showing the full height of the buildings from street level. What a travesty of "listening to the community".

I gave my comments at the public consultation both in person to Montreaux's senior representative and in writing. This was the first time I had become aware of the proposal and assumed that the volume of clear public concern over the height and bulk would encourage Barnet to insist on substantial design changes.

The height issue is strange, as Barnet's own 2019 Tall Buildings Update clearly recommends a maximum height of 14 storeys for Cricklewood. That document makes a clear distinction between Cricklewood and Brent Cross where taller buildings are considered acceptable. And the Barnet Recommendation Report for the adjoining Co-op site opined that the 9 storey tower "would represent an appropriate height barometer for future development of the neighbouring site".

Barnet classify buildings more than 8 storeys as Tall Buildings, and buildings more than 14 storeys as Very Tall Buildings. All four parcels of buildings proposed are therefore Very Tall Buildings. I do not agree with the tallest building, whatever its height, being on the Cricklewood Lane frontage - a lower building in front would lessen its impact. I do not believe in the gateway or waymark building concept - I think that is just an excuse for a very tall tower. The wireline illustrations in the application seem to me to show just how big the proposed buildings would be - the massing from the Cricklewood Lane/Claremont Road junction is truly shocking.

One last plea - the 'Town Square' needs to serve all residents, not be up the hill located in the walkway through the new development. The best place to be at the heart of the community would be at a half level above Cricklewood Lane, located partly on the current access road and partly on the Green. This could give good access to the re-opened entrance on the west side of Cricklewood station, surely a necessary requirement for any redevelopment of the site, to avoid so many passengers having to walk under the road bridge.

I urge Barnet to take note of the strength of public opinion and tell Montreaux to redesign this proposal. It would be terrible to allow an outline permission to permit Montreaux, or others they might sell on to, to build these bulky and Very Tall Buildings.

Increased burden on public transport

Inadequacy of parking and loading

Traffic generation, compromised roads access and highway safety

Increased pollution

Increased burden on our sewage and water systems

Increased noise and disturbance resulting from use

In addition, such development if approved will create a precedent which in turn would pave a way for further approvals to build even taller buildings in our neighbourhood.

Why can't the housing development be on a human scale and not more than 9 storeys high, as us, the residents, have been assured by the Barnet Council for years. The Council's policy was to allow buildings not over 9 storeys high. What had happened since and so suddenly with it?

It will put pressure on the local resources and will block out light from its neighbours. There is no parking locally and traffic is already very dense because it is close to the junction between Cricklewood Lane and Cricklewood Broadway, a severe bottleneck. The project would be better if the maximum number of storeys were 4 per building.

Whilst the documents state that 35% of the properties are "affordable", more information needs to be provided to explain what this means in practice (is it affordable for the local community?) There also needs to be an allotted number of units reserved social housing. The Cricklewood area contains a significant proportion of the population living below the property line and in order to best support these residents, social housing must be required in any new development.

Thank you.

They will loom over the whole area which has a low rise character, this is not Canary Wharf! Also the numbers of new residents estimated to be around 3000 in such a tiny area will not give quality of life. The tiny scraps of land between the blocks will be in deep shadow. The pop up park playground opposite is rammed on sunny days as it is. The inevitable increase in cars will worsen the grid locked Broadway and Cricklewood Lane. To allow planning permission for this kind of development would suggest that Barnet has no regard for their existing residents let alone future ones. Thank you

1/The height of the buildings is vastly out of keeping with the surrounding area.

2/Increased population density will put pressure on the local area infrastructure, bus stops, pavements, doctors, shops etc.

3/Increased traffic, the roads in this area are constantly grid locked.

Lots of people mean lots cars despite what the developers say.

4/Lack of community development, Cricklewood desperately needs community centres to assist cohesion.

5/The development overshadows our house.

6/The way that this scheme has been presented is blatantly in favour of the profit of the developer and in housing terms is retrogressive, putting people in small flats piled one on top of another was a mistake in the 60s and it is still a mistake.

For this objection, I have included the local area to be a two mile radius of the A5/A407 junction .

1) The scale and height of this development is out of keeping of the area:

- Indeed the tallest building is on Ashford road in Brent and is 9 stories high (and was built in the 1930s).

- South of area, none of the new builds in Camden or Westminster approach the scale of this plan

- Barnet has recently built in neighbouring areas of Cricklewood, Childs Hill Golders Green, but not to the bulk and density of this proposal.

2) The loss of privacy and light will impact the majority of the residences in the surrounding area as they are low level.

3) The proposal indicates that about 10% of the units have parking spaces. This will impact traffic levels and the safety of pedestrians.

- Currently 10 bus routes cross this intersection with 2,268 bus movements across the A5/A407 junction every week day (according to moovit.com). Public transport will have to cater for the increased density of people in the area. More buses, taxis, food deliveries to the flats, Veolia trucks to service these flats.

- The air quality of this intersection is very poor for pedestrians right now and I speak as a pedestrian.

Comment: We as long-standing residents of the Golders Green estate object to the demolition of BandQ and Poundstretcher. Please consider the needs of residents and not the increased wealth of the construction company. The roads are already congested. Such tall buildings are not in keeping with the area and will reduce light. Please preserve the shops. We do not need such high buildings. Thanks

Comment:Objection to Size

Public consultation on the scheme has been poor, with the first sessions not held until Feb 2020 after the scheme had been agreed in outline with LBB; there were no drawings or visualisations from ground level showing the tops of the very tall towers.

However, pictures now provided with the Visual Assessment statements (HTVIA Pt 2) confirm just how enormous and out of scale the development is with the surroundings of the site. View 5 (Lichfield Rd/Cricklewood Lane) is shocking, yet the magnitude of the effect is described in the report as 'Medium, and the likely effect is Minor/Moderate beneficial' as it will be 'signalling the location of the station', even though the building is further away than the station entrance on the nearside of the bridge. View 7 (Elm Grove) is very telling as the existing B & Q building - already substantial and on top the bank that is Cricklewood Green - looks tiny and shows just how gross the new towers will be. The report says 'The magnitude of the effect is judged to be High' yet the significance of the effect is overall only 'Moderate Adverse'.

The Assessors point out that the final effects on the locality will be affected by the quality of the detailed design of the towers because: good design could mitigate some of the adverse effects, and bad could increase the adversity rating. How do we know what 'good design' looks like? Does anything in the application illustrate examples of the good design the architects have in mind? Also what guarantee is there that the design details to be covered by the Reserve Matters - ie to be agreed at a later date - will be of a standard to minimise the scheme - and indeed who will be judging? And if Montreaux were to sell the scheme on, can we be sure that the buyers will have a strong commitment to, and view of, what makes good design? And will the local community be consulted?

The best outcome for the local community would be for the size of the towers to be reduced

Lack of Benefits to Cricklewood

- Affordable residential rents are being offered, but these don't appear to include social rents.
- Many recent planning documents stress the importance of including opportunities for employment in areas being redeveloped, and these being needed in the Childs Hill Ward (Health issues). More business and commercial activities providing employment locally would also help to reduce journeys to work and support the healthy streets initiatives. The amount of space to be given to commercial uses on the development site is thus disappointing - a tiny 1,200sq m. This is despite the application supporting the principle (6.11) of optimising residential and mixed-use development on the site and it appears to be well below the 10% (for retail and community use) that is mentioned as being deliverable.
- The town square is described as happening at a later date. When?
- No indication given on drawings that the subway to the train station will be re-opened. The station already has a tunnel under the tracks. Has this re-opening been explored? A route to the station from proposed the town square that avoids the damp and narrow pavement under the railway bridge would be a considerable advantage.
- B & Q will be missed, as will its car park, and the wonderful wide and windy views of the sky as you walk across. This route through will presumably be cut off completely for years while any development is in progress - (environmental impact assessments made on the basis of the development work taking 5 years).

- Traffic congestion in the Broadway will increase during building work as all construction traffic will be coming in and out at the junction by Beacon Bingo, alongside the planned supermarket/shops development in the Broadway (which has already taken over one pavement in Depot Road).

Comment: As a local resident who will be directly affected by this development, I would like to object to it going ahead. My reasons include:

1. The buildings' heights breach Barnet's planning frameworks and policies, from the Cricklewood Brent Cross and West Hendon Development Framework to last year's Tall Buildings Update and the policies referenced therein.
2. the extraordinarily high-density would overwhelm the centre of Cricklewood, looming not only above its nearest neighbours in Barnet but all the Brent and Camden residents of Cricklewood too
3. its size and density and population will stress already insufficient facilities to breaking point - parking is already terribly difficult for residents and businesses, free flow of traffic will be further reduced and access to the area will be worse, PLAY AREAS FOR CHILDREN are MINIMAL, INSUFFICIENT SCHOOLS, Road Safety will be compromised - for pedestrians as well, Public Transport will suffer, RAT RUNS will increase all over the neighbourhood
4. The scale and height proposed are OUT OF KEEPING with the local 2- and 3-storey buildings. Nothing in the Cricklewood area is as tall as this or as dense as this.
5. this massive, oversized development will make money for developers - and living conditions for residents will be poor in future: GRENFELL has taught everyone this. Here they have no proper play space, no proper parking, no proper amenities, are crowded into small living areas as possible
6. Its an immoral proposal given the history of high-rise exploitation and deleterious impact of huge developments on local residents. Its massive footprint is detrimental to the local area including local businesses

7. the development does not even make an undertaking regarding carbon off-setting or zero CO2 emissions and also does not provide the maximum viable amount of affordable housing

8. the water and sewage as well as Internet access in this area are all not great and will be overwhelmed by a huge increase in demand

Thank you.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: To Barnet Council,

As a resident who drives through Cricklewood Lane nearly every morning and evening, and who is frequently visiting the area for shopping, and recreational purposes, I am writing to object to the revised plans on the following bases:

Cricklewood Lane, Elm Grove, Oak Grove as well as the A5 are already congested with traffic every morning and early evening on weekdays as well as weekends.

The average recorded level of PM2.5 in the area is 11.15 g/m³, already exceeds the WHO limit! (The WHO annual limit for PM2.5 is 10 g/m³). This does not take roadside concentration into account, as such it can experience much higher levels! The building works would result in additional traffic, increased stress levels for commuters and increased pollution, detrimental to locals' physical and mental health.

There is already a minimal amount of affordable housing in London and building 145 flats of which only 9(!) would be affordable is a joke! The priority for any new housing in the area should be to increase the availability of genuinely affordable housing at least to 40% in any new development!

The use of public transport from an additional 145 residential units would be far higher than the developers are suggesting. The hypothesis that there would be only 7 additional people travelling by train/tube each day clearly indicates that the developers expect most of the flats to remain unoccupied.

The development plans look horrific, out of character considering the surrounding buildings and aesthetically would ruin the area.

Looking at the Barnet Housing Strategy 2019-2024, following the SHMA of housing needs in Barnet, 76,500 new homes are needed in Barnet by 2041, including 17,600 affordable homes for rent and for sale, which equates to 3,060 new homes a year with 704 being affordable.

According to statistical data acquired from the UK Government's website, between April 2019 - March 2020 only 247 affordable homes were completed in Barnet in total, the number between April 2018 - March 2019 being a mere 150. Looking at these figures I am skeptical that 704 affordable homes would be completed in 2021, only 9 of which would be located in the new development. The residents are tired of promises and greedy developers who do not put the interests of the local community in the forefront.

For all these reasons I ask the council to reject this application.

Kind regards,
Agnes Bobvos

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Cricklewood Lane and this area has already seen considerable residential building in recent years. There may be pressure on housing in London (although less with the impact of the COVID-19 crisis) but any further residential building must be done in a way that does not impact negatively on the lives of those already resident in and using this area.

This planning application will adversely affect the area and the lives of residents and others in it. It is on this basis that, as a resident, I object strongly to the proposal as it currently stands.

Among the many concerns that I have, which are not resolved by the planning application, are the facts that:

- Cricklewood is already overcrowded, with considerable pressure on ALL public (and private) services in this area. Adding an extra 1100 residential units at the very heart of this area will bring the pressure to breaking point. The application fails entirely to address those concerns satisfactorily.
- Cricklewood Lane AND the junctions onto it are often gridlocked with traffic, even without the roadworks that seem frequently to be needed, with long delays and tailbacks all the way up these roads. The application does not satisfactorily address the issue that additional cars from 1100 extra units (residents' cars, deliveries etc) will bring the traffic in this area to a standstill, as well as adding to existing pollution levels.

- As commuters into central London, my wife and I know that, normally, trains from Cricklewood station at work hours are so overcrowded that one is forced to wait for the next train. Even then, there is hardly room to squeeze inside. How the people from 1100 extra units will add to this problem is not satisfactorily addressed by the application.

- The planned skyscrapers are a genuine eyesore, aversely affecting the area's feel. Even if permission to build were given, any units should be no higher than 3 or 4-storey, consistent with the new build flats on other side of Cricklewood Lane.

Comment: To be blunt, anybody who's lived in the area would never have even countenanced this proposal.

Traffic congestion in this area is already intense with frequent traffic jams. There is no capacity in the local road system to cope with building disruption or indeed the additional vehicles on completion. I would not trust the motives of anybody who tries to argue otherwise, so blatant is this issue.

As a local resident I do not commute using Cricklewood Rail Station because overcrowding means that it is already close to impossible to board a train during peak hours. Nor do I get the bus on this part of the A5 during peak hours: it's often faster to walk than sit in the traffic. Adding thousands of additional residents will only exacerbate these problems.

The plot and the area could benefit from redevelopment but the density and scale proposed is absolutely ludicrous. It is out of keeping with other buildings in the area, will place extra strain on way overstretched amenities and further poison an already polluted pocket of London.

1. The proposal will put unacceptable strain on already over-stretched public infrastructure, railways and roads.
2. There will also be an unacceptable strain on public services, shops, schools and recreational facilities.
2. The height of 25 storeys is unacceptable for this area and will be a blot on the landscape. It will block views and reduce light and vitamin D to existing tenants.
3. Cricklewood and West Hampstead is desperately in need of green and recreational space. Any building development should include substantial green space for environmental, recreational and health and well-being.
4. The proposal is far too-densely packed for a suburban district.
5. The proposal is completely out-of-keeping with an area of historic 2-3 storey housing and should be in sympathy with existing housing and with the conservation area.
6. The extent of the building with its overall size and height of the proposed blocks will create long-term disruption, noise and dust which will create unacceptable stress and pollution to the people of Cricklewood, Barnet and West Hampstead.
6. The proposal does not meet the requirement for social housing.
7. It has far too many studio and 1-bedroom flats, making it unsuitable for families.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I am a consultant in public health medicine and a local resident.

I have major concerns about the impact of this development on physical and mental health. First, the planning application highlights the significant adverse effect on residents' health due to the increase in already oversubscribed GP lists, without any mitigating measures (e.g. inclusion of a GP surgery within the housing complex). Health outcomes in the surrounding wards are some of the worst in the country, as has been made clear by COVID-19. Any development that worsens access to healthcare risks widening health inequalities further, which would be against Barnet Council's commitment to improving equity. Second, the current health impact assessment does not address the poorer mental health outcomes of residents of high-rise buildings. In this case, given the lack of design sensitivity to the local landscape, this mental health impact is likely to extend to residents of surrounding buildings affected by light reduction.

In the Statement of Community Engagement, the project team notes that the most common concerns from the public included (1) the height of the proposed development and (2) the impact of social infrastructure, including access to healthcare. According to Barnet Council's guidelines, the Statement of Community Engagement should set out the main issues raised and how the proposals have addressed them. The response of the project team to this consistent feedback from community representatives is wholly inadequate, as there has been no modification of the proposals to address these valid concerns. This violates Barnet Council's vision of enabling more local residents to get involved in shaping plans and planning decisions.

The required increase in health service provision and the optimal number of storeys needs to be clearly addressed by both Barnet Council and the developers to reassure local residents that this planning application has been responsive to public consultation.

Comment: I would like to register my objection to the proposed development on the existing B&Q and other shops and car park site. I live in Childs Hill at the top of Cricklewood lane. I come to Cricklewood Broadway regularly to do my shopping. I strongly object to the building of very tall tower blocks. 14, 16 or 25 storey high.

The height of existing buildings is only 2-3 storey with Travelodge on Cricklewood Broadway being 5 storey.

I understand some accommodation needs to be built but it should not be more than 5 storey. It is completely out of character of the area.

The provision of numerous habitation will result in an influx of people. The area cannot cope.

relating to cars, traffic, parking, schools, recreation, community centres, schools, public transport, doctors etc

There should be the provision of large Green Space and a community centre.

There should be affordable and social housing. Cricklewood is a very multicultural and diverse area. Throughout the decades it has welcomed people from all backgrounds particularly immigrant communities.

There should be the building of housing for refugees and those needing accommodation. I saw on the news an ex-marine in Bristol who has built good quality accommodation for homeless people in former shipping containers to help them get their life on the right track. He has built a small community with extra support, helping with jobs etc.

The tall tower blocks will be very imposing and intimidating.

i strongly urge for the plans to be rejected and redesigned to be more in keeping with the area and to help the community and people who are in a difficult situation.

Comment: This overdevelopment of site contrary to UDP policy which will turn the whole of Cricklewood Lane into one giant housing estate. Buildings too tall (another Grenfell Tower skyscraper) must be scaled back - an eyesore - blocking sunlight - visually obtrusive ruining victorian character. Burden on transport and traffic. Cricklewood is a poor area with social problems. Lack of medical facilities GP services eg local Chichele Road surgery is dated, run down and struggling. No provision has been made for Walk in Centre/GP surgery/dental services plus new pharmacy needed when building high density housing. This should be made a CONDITION if this goes ahead. I would like the B & Q and poundstretcher shops to be reinstated once this is built as they are needed. We also need a budget supermarket to cater for poorer people as well as some sort of community hall. Too much residential flats at the expense of shops and community facilities. This plan needs to be scaled down and redesigned as it profits the developers but gives little back to the local community eg medical services. High rise blocks attract drugs and crime no mention of policing and security. This development will ruin the whole of Cricklewood both visually and socially with its bulk. It will be of detriment to the local neighbourhood. The green space will be lost and will not be replaced.

Comment: I object strongly to the very tall tower proposed for this site. It is huge compared to the local vernacular and will radically change the look and feel of Cricklewood.

As a resident of the railway terraces we are supposed to be protected by a conservation zone; this strictly limits how high we can extend our own properties to conserve the character of the neighbourhood, so it is unfathomable how 25 stories looming over us could be allowed.

Whilst the B&Q site is not currently very lovely, and I appreciate the need for new homes in London and the inevitable redevelopment, I would like to see a maximum of 8 stories allowed in order to maintain the low-rise, family friendly character of Cricklewood.

I also have concerns about such a large increase in the population of Cricklewood at a time when we are already losing essential services such as GP surgery and walk-in clinic, and local schools and roads are largely at capacity. Even without parking for residents there will be increased deliveries (Amazon, DPD, groceries, Deliveroo etc) to serve all the new inhabitants, adding to traffic levels and local air pollution.

Please reconsider the high-rise nature of this development and instead give permission to a lower rise scheme more suited to our neighbourly community. Many thanks for listening.

No social housing provision.

Road network already clogged and overstretched, 1100 new flats equals an almost equivalent number of new vehicles on the local roads, not built to cope with that increase in activity.

Loss of the B&Q a pity, the only local easily accessible DIY store.

This proposal is clearly an overdevelopment of the site.

Cricklewood could be developed into a very desirable area if appropriate developments, in keeping with existing buildings are constructed. Large tower blocks like these will have a highly negative effect on the 'feel' of the area and will also dominate the skyline.

Additionally this is also likely to create considerable traffic issues.

The idea of buildings up to 25 storeys in an area where the general maximum height is 3 storeys mean this development would dominate Cricklewood and the surrounding areas and be unbelievably overbearing.

As a resident of the railway cottages which adjoin this development I am also concerned that buildings of this height will dominate the skyline from my property and effect the daylight we receive.

Comment Reasons:

Comment:- Cricklewood is already a heavily populated area and with an additional 1,100 homes (incorporating some thousands of people) in its heart, it will be overloaded, when brownfield sites "such as the Toys 4 Us site at Brent Cross" lie vacant. It is misguided to consider a major development at the centre of this population hub.

- Since Covid-19, more and more jobs are home based and no longer require a commute into London. Such a large number of homes close to the centre are no longer needed, as they may have been pre-Covid. There will probably be a lot of empty buildings in London that could be readily converted into apartments.
- Wider pavements, cycle lanes and pedestrianisation should be accelerated to meet the additional number of people, however, this will not be possible in Cricklewood.
- It is widely acknowledged and accepted now that working patterns and trends are evolving e.g. use of technology rather than centralised offices, so the demand for London properties is lessened. The virus will speed up, making cities greener, with fewer cars and space given over to trees, not clusters of tower blocks, as was the case in the 1960's.
- The Infrastructure in the area is at capacity now; schools, police, GP surgeries, hospitals/A&E depts., transport etc. will all be affected by this development, which will cause stress to the current facilities to the point of breaking.
- The size of the buildings is totally out of keeping and against LB Barnet policies.
- Sewage/water pipes are very old and unable to cope now, and will need a lot of government money to bring them up to current standards. Has there been an acknowledgement/commitment to this?

- There are no plans for any social housing as part of this development, and surely should be.
- The size and magnitude of the buildings will cause extreme loss of light and/or privacy to surrounding areas, affecting private residential and commercial properties.
- I appreciate the importance of extra 'social' housing needed in London, but any new buildings should remain under the Council's guidance of a maximum of 9 storeys high.
- Height, massing, siting, scale and density constitutes an overdevelopment and is detrimental to the character of the area.
- Brent and Barnet were badly hit by Corvid-19 due to the density of housing clusters like this, which cause safeguarding and public health issues.

Comment Reasons:

Comment:- Since the Grenfell disaster it seems questionable that any resident would willingly choose to live many floors above ground level, least of all 25 floors high. Apartments of this height are bound to become an area of difficulty for the developer. An example of this is in the social/private redevelopment blocks in Gospel Oak, which Camden is struggling to fill.

- Cricklewood Broadway is already a busy and vibrant shopping and social hub, but will be overshadowed and dominated by such a brutal and massive development, which will inevitably change the character of the area.

- Councils should use up brownfield sites first and restore empty properties/ commercial units. There are many examples of these on the A5 between Burnt Oak and Cricklewood Broadway.

- In the post Covid world many businesses will inevitably fail. The properties they will vacate will offer ample scope for conversions to residential accommodation, without the need for such heavy handed new developments as the Cricklewood plans.

- Infrastructure for schooling and hospital/health care is already stretched. This development will see demand from thousands of additional residents in the area.

- Some new residents are bound to run their own car, and regardless of the policy of only issuing 100+ permits, roads are already overstretched and at times cannot cope. Barnet/Camden have already imposed a 20 mph limit on their roads to try and prevent health and safety risks. This will exacerbate them.

- 25 storey buildings are massively too high and will dominate the area for many miles. This will have added implications for those living in conservation areas locally. Many now question the social and psychological merits of placing people in such high rise units.

- Highways and transport matters such as; Traffic levels, noise, safety (including that of pedestrians), congestion, parking, access and public transport will all be adversely affected.
- Loss of trees and effects on nature conservation in general will be affected, and totally detrimental to the climate change policies (green spaces/pollution levels) we should be working to achieve.
- Loss of light, privacy or outlook to residents and shop keepers in the surrounding roads and boroughs will adversely affect public health.
- Crime levels in the area will be likely to increase. Has there been a commitment to extra policing to the 3 boroughs affected?
- We appreciate the importance of the extra [social] housing needed in London, but buildings should remain under the Council's guidance of a maximum of 9 storeys high.

Comment:- This is an era in which the importance of ecological issues is just beginning to be widely recognised. A huge development with a vast concrete footprint is badly out of sync with what will become popular thinking and eventual policy.

- Such a large and imposing development has the hallmarks of becoming a "white elephant" which will either never be inhabited, or will become a hotbed of social problems. It is a "dinosaur development" which harks back to the mid-20th Century and ignores current trends and thinking.

- With the increasing levels of online shopping (pre/post Covid), and only approx. 100+ parking permits issued, it will see a huge increase in delivery vehicles servicing these apartments i.e. Amazon/Groceries etc.

Amazon/Groceries etc.

- There is also a proposed Lorry Depot planned in Cricklewood which will increase the traffic/noise/pollution levels in the area in any event.

- It is surprising that, post Grenfell Tower, a residential block of 25 storeys is even being considered in light of the obvious risks.

- A recent Sky News report by the renowned Architect Norman Foster (28/9/20) stated how Coronavirus will change and shape the planning of our cities, emphasising the move away from centralised living and the increase of green space - "It is cheaper to plant trees than to lay tarmac". Developments such as that proposed fly in the face of such innovative thinking.

- This development does not provide the maximum viable amount of affordable/social housing.

- Crime in the local boroughs is high now and is likely to increase with the new cohort of residents.

- With additional cars, delivery vehicles/lorries and narrow roads in the area, there will be a detrimental affect not only on pollution levels, but on existing residents' current parking availability, all of which will affect the free flow of traffic.

- Availability of public transport would need to increase e.g. more buses on the road, to facilitate the extra demand. Also, pedestrians, cyclists and people with disabilities will have greater need for space and support.

- Existing empty Brownfield sites should be considered before this development is even contemplated.

- Money for existing and additional public amenities such as schools, health facilities, hospitals, policing etc., in this area should be in place before developments of this magnitude are even considered.

Comment: I strongly object to this development. 619 objections so far and counting coming from Barnet, Brent and Camden residents. This says it all. The consensus is that no one wants this overbearing and bulky development and the problems it will cause in terms of traffic, being a burden on scarce resources. Cricklewood does not want or need such a high density development. It is a badly thought out plan. There is no infrastructure to support an extra 2000 plus residents. This is blatant overdevelopment of site when considering the other development in the corner of Cricklewood Lane next to it that has already been approved, I live in Elm Grove and will be a neighbour to this development. The size, bulk and style of this development does not respect the surrounding low level Victorian buildings in the Groves and the rest of Cricklewood being visually obtrusive. Skyscraper developments do not belong and are out of character with Victorian Cricklewood. These buildings would ruin the skyline and block daylight coming into properties in the Groves. If approved this would set a dangerous precedent and would encourage other similar developments across the area. Locally 5 storey buildings are problematic and overbearing eg the Crown Hotel and Cricklewood Heights block (5 storeys). This development is on a hill 25 storeys are in effect 28 storeys. The local neighbouring residents will lose residential amenity if this is approved ie increased traffic, noise, pollution, loss of daylight, loss of visual amenity, burden on local resources. This is land grabbing strategy too much being crammed into a small area. No mention of reinstating the GP/Walk in centre already lost This will be one giant ugly housing estate which goes against local public sentiment. There is lack of green space. Please reject this plan in its entirety. The developers need to scale it down drastically in terms of size and bulk to make it compatible with the local area. The plan is a non starter needs to be changed

Comment:1.The scale of the proposal in this application is not sustainable by either the local infrastructure or the local facilities. It is located in an already congested area with heavy demand on local schools, Health Care Services and post offices.

2. It sits on one of the busiest routes in and out of London, and local traffic is already extremely heavy, often gridlocking the junction between the A5 and Cricklewood Lane - often way behind normal rush hour.

3. The height of the buildings is not in keeping with the local area by any stretch. With the exception of the Holiday Inn at Staples Corner, there are no other tall buildings and that is not as close to housing. These buildings will cause significantly reduced daylight for 100s if not 1000s of homes.

4. One of the lessons of Covid has been the perils of living in such densely populated environments. How would people on higher stories stay safe.

Comment: The proposed development is far too large and will cause further over crowding to an already over populated area. I can't even begin to imagine the disastrous effect it will have on traffic in the surrounding areas in particular Cricklewood Lane and Cricklewood Broadway which are already at standstill most hours of the day.

Comment: As a Cricklewood resident of 40 years I strongly object to the current planned proposals for the site on the corner of Cricklewood Broadway and Lane. There are no high rise buildings in the vicinity and the area mainly consists of small shops and private or rented housing ; the houses date from around the turn of the nineteenth century. Whereas I have no objection to the change from commercial to residential use of land, particularly if more social housing is to be made available, these proposals offer no such change: flats would be crammed into obtrusively dominating tower blocks and all would be for private purchase. The community does need to maintain local shopping and local services which new development could include but these plans are not about regeneration or sustainable development. Cricklewood would be environmentally damaged, with more pollution, the need to travel further for accessing public services and absolutely blighted by tower blocks , entirely unsuited to the surroundings. All planning needs to take into account the impact on people's lives; access to open air, transport , play space, community engagement, happiness and well being but these plans do none of those things. There is a very great groundswell of opposition.

Amongst the 1100 new flats there are NO social housing. I believe that the developer lives in the Islands where there is a tax haven and no money will go back into the local area. This development is going to cause my traffic congestion and more pollution on already overcrowded roads.

Comment: This proposed development would put excessive strain on the existing local infrastructure including roads, pedestrian movement, schools and health care without making any contribution to alleviating these issues in the long term. It would be detrimental to the health and well being of the existing residents of the Cricklewood area during its construction and beyond. Inevitably there would be an enormous amount of heavy construction traffic on already congested roads and would have disastrous effects on the surrounding narrow residential streets.

The proposed blocks are out of scale and proportion with the immediate surroundings in what is essentially a two story residential area. No consideration appears to have been given to the magnitude of the impact on the local community and it does not conform with the pattern, scale or general massing of the existing buildings and in no-way does it contribute to the character of the area. As the commercial element of the proposal is not detailed it is impossible to assess what contribution to local employment the proposal brings but the lack of a social housing element suggests that development will be of no benefit to local residents.

Comment: I have lived in The Terraces for 26 years. I live at No 12 the middle block which from the plans seem to be very very adversely affected by this proposed development. As a Victorian railway cottage estate the houses are already packed closely together and we struggle for light generally. In particular Needham Terrace whose front sitting rooms and bedrooms face this development. The front part of my house downstairs is dark for most of the day because of the proximity of the cottage opposite. To have a 25storey tower block poking its head into the sky not far from my front door behind said opposite cottage will mean a life of near night darkness. I need I mention mental health SAD syndrome etc. The claustrophobic effect too could be catastrophic. also because of the sheer density of the development. If these plans were approved our lives would be totally ruined and everything that drew us to this peaceful heritage oasis destroyed.

Tower blocks of these proposed heights are nowhere else in the vicinity the nearest ones being Hendon set apart on the main road and therefore not invading a small community. The architecture of Cricklewood is Victorian and to build these very high rise flats would effectively change the area to a faceless Stevenage type suburbia not what is appropriate for a London suburb so near town. Also can you be sure that due to Covid and beyond there will be the appetite to buy small flats convenient for the City? Think those days are over. If these plans were to go ahead this conservation area so loved by the community and beyond would perish. Swamped. And as for the allotments so important in these terrible times a place of sanctuary and necessity would also be overtaken by the views and again loss of privacy up there would ensue. I utterly oppose these plans with every fibre of my being and urge you to do the same. A disaster for us and ICricklewood . More green space and lower building please. Stretched facilities already here as well.

Comment: As a resident of Cricklewood for 40 years I am very opposed to these tower blocks. Cricklewood has a village feel with small shops and businesses and a mixture of older houses and some more modern low rise buildings. It is on a human scale. The new blocks will be totally out of keeping with the character of the area and will dwarf surrounding buildings. They will be start of a long and painful deterioration of the area into a soulless concrete jungle.

We must remember and learn from the mistakes of the mid 20th century. We so often hear about how communities suffer because of a poorly planned urban environment.

We see 1960s high rise buildings being demolished to improve urban life and make way for less alien environments .

While not perfect, Cricklewood is already such an environment. Development in Cricklewood must enhance its present character rather than impose on it a built environment that elsewhere has proved a terrible mistake. High rise buildings in Cricklewood are a retrograde step and Barnet council will be held responsible for having not heeded past mistakes.

During construction the traffic and disruption in an area which is already congested will be a nightmare. Cricklewood will be a building site for years. The pollution, noise and bad roads caused by the vast amount of construction traffic will bring misery to Cricklewood residents for a very long time.

At the end of this horrendous development Cricklewood will be blighted by incongruous and characterless high rise buildings that in no time will become shabby and run down.

Transport and social services will be stretched even further by the increase in population.

Traffic will increase with more congestion, noise and pollution.

Comment: I strongly object to this development. The proposed height of the blocks is far too high, there are no other tower blocks in this predominantly low rise, often two story, area.

The infrastructure of Cricklewood will struggle to cope with so many extra people and cars in an already over used area. Local roads are already congested & cannot cope with the current volume of traffic. Doctors surgeries, schools, hospitals will also be unable to cope with a huge extra volume of people. I suspect there will be very little real affordable housing for local people.

Barnet, be reasonable, don't allow this development to go ahead on such a large /tall scale.

It is said that people make a place. I have lived in Cricklewood for over 40 years and the majority of people in my street are long term residents. People like us have made Cricklewood the pleasant place it is today. We should not have a development such as this, which will have a huge impact on our lives, imposed on us by wealthy investors whose motive is profit for themselves and who probably don't even know or care about Cricklewood. They will not have to live with the consequences of this disastrous development.

By all means improve Cricklewood but please, not like this.

Comment: This development is utterly depressing: Cricklewood is already a bottleneck for traffic, and does not have enough essential facilities for the local population. To suggest adding this many additional residents to an area already struggling, is madness. Where are these people going to find a doctor's surgery, an NHS dentist, a large enough supermarket, enough school places for children in families who move into the neighbourhood: we need more schools locally, and more essential services, not more high priced housing.

The planned development is also completely out of keeping with the local area. It should absolutely not be given permission: the local buildings in surrounding streets are predominantly old, low rise buildings which are full of character. These tower blocks will loom over Cricklewood Ruining the skyline, and ruining the area for locals: they will have light irrevocably blocked, their views ruined.

This development is incredibly ugly, over-bearing and out of character with the local area. It absolutely should not be allowed and it is a scandal that the developer Has even been able to come up with these plans. Barnet will absolutely ruin this area irrevocably if they allow this development to go through and will anger the local population

It will overshadow the Railway Cottages to an unhealthy extent; and worst of all, it will set a precedent.

I strongly object to this development; it should be revised and the development company should be made aware of the nature and unique features of their proposed building site. While the site is not in the conservation area, its proximity and the building proposed, if approved, will forever change the Conservation area.

- Request to speak at committee

Comment: I have close links with the area. I am horrified at the proposed plans for Cricklewood Town Centre. It is not enough that they have built an ugly 5 storey residential building near Virgin gym very visible from the Broadway. They have also approved 9 storey bulky residential development (to replace co-op) along Cricklewood Lane. To top it all they want to dump 1100 flats next to it + 25 high block. That is an insult to the local area and sheer overdevelopment of site - ruining local residents' amenities and destroying the Victorian town centre. Too many residential units stuffed into an already congested under pressure neighbourhood which lacks the infrastructure. The tall tower blocks were originally intended for brownfield site near Brent Cross why are they now being stuffed into Cricklewood? In other areas 9 storeys is the max permitted but not in town centre.. This is in breach of planning guidelines. Residential and business properties will be blighted by the size/bulk of the buildings which will block daylight to the Groves, the railway Terraces, the Fairview estates as well as the small shops. History tells us that large high density structures cause trouble eg Chalkhill estate in Wembley- eventually demolished. This development will swamp Cricklewood with social problems and if approved will become a PRECEDENT. This will give the green light for similar structures to be built right across London. Nobody wants that. I sympathise with the locals as the area will become a bleak ugly concrete jungle but the land near Brent Cross is standing idle. Why not put some of the units there. Bad planning! It will be an eyesore that will dominate the skyline for several mile radius. Cricklewood is not Central London and therefore does not warrant bulky skyscrapers. There will be disproportionate ratio of residential to commercial use. The area needs more commercial/retail outlets/ GP health services to serve the local community. Please reject this awful application.

Comment: This development is totally out of keeping with Cricklewood and the Railway Terraces. It is too high and too dense.

- The architecture in Cricklewood is predominantly Victorian and Edwardian - small scale. Most 2 to 4 storeys high. The B & Q development is for four clusters of tower blocks of 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 storeys and one of 25 storeys. There are no very tall buildings in Cricklewood.
- Planning approved for the Coop site is for 9 storeys (reduced from 15). Matalan is also for 7 storeys (reduced from 9).
- Barnet's Tall Buildings Update 2019 states that 6 to 14 storeys is appropriate for buildings in Cricklewood. This is not Brent Cross South, which is a mile away and where residential buildings will only be up to 15 storeys. The nearest very tall building (27 storeys) is in west Hendon, nearly 2 miles from Cricklewood.
- 1,100 housing units represents overdevelopment of the site. It will equate to some 3,000 or more new residents, putting huge pressure on already over-stretched local services eg GP's, transport, leisure facilities, etc.
- The tower blocks will dominate the skyline and cut daylight and sunlight from Cricklewood and The Terraces, where cottages were built on a north south axis. We only get sun a few hours a day as it is. There will be a huge increase in traffic, even though there is limited parking on site. All vehicular access to and from the site (deliveries, services, visitors) will be via Depot Approach, increasing congestion and pollution on the A5, already one of the most polluted roads in London.

- Cricklewood Station is not a 'transport hub'. There is no tube station and bus travel is painfully slow and congested.
- The tall towers will be seen in The Terraces and destroy views in and out of the conservation area.
- The height of these clusters of very tall tower blocks could set a precedent for the development of the Jewson's site, expected in two or three years.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The plans for the former B and Q car park site are wholly unacceptable to many of us who live in and love our community.

Architecturally they are wholly out of keeping with the vernacular architectural style of the entire area...typically 2 and 3 story buildings, with a maximum of 5 storeys locally. The proposal for 16.17.18.19 and 25 storey blocks would damage the environment and the character immeasurably, as well as depriving residents of light and the right to enjoy the character of the area.

Furthermore, NO social housing is planned despite the intention to build 1100 new homes...a development which would irreversibly change the demographic of our ethnically and financially diverse community.

The development lacks any discernible aesthetic merit, and is purely another attempt by developers to extract the maximum profit from the minimum requirement.

Barnet Council must not allow this to go ahead, or it will show a flagrant disregard for the people of the borough who they are privileged to represent.

It will totally overwhelm our resources and cause enormous road congestion and the associated additional pollution that services, deliveries and residential traffic would cause. The strain on public transports and service caused by 1100 new homes (a sudden influx of 3000 people) would break an already fragile eco-system.

Please reject this application.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I am writing to object to the application for permission to build on the B&Q site in Cricklewood.

I have had the benefit of looking at the plans submitted to the Local Authority.

The proposal to build a series of tower blocks of up to 25 storeys high is outrageous and should be rejected. The heights alone will be overbearing and will adversely affect the enjoyment of privacy local residents are entitled to. Added to that: the very presence of these flats as proposed will be overwhelming: both dominating the skyline and reducing daylight. The sense of quiet and privacy the residents of the Terraces, have come to enjoy will be impacted in a way that will be intolerable due to their nearness to the site.

The Plans demonstrate that the tower blocks will be out of keeping with existing properties in the vicinity. You will be aware that the Terraces are in a Conservation Area. You ought to know something of the history of Cricklewood. The proposed tower blocks will clearly dwarf the Terraces and all local buildings - traditionally 2-3 storeys high. It is difficult to imagine how it could be suggested that these plans are indeed in keeping with their neighbours. Little or no respect is being shown to the full implication of this fact.

Finally, I have seen the plans as I noted above. I was struck by the lack of diversity evident in the artist's drawings of imagined future residents. The absence of black and brown representations would make Trump's Proud Boys smile. But this is my point: considering the impact that COVID has had on people's jobs and the threat of massive unemployment; secondly, mortgagors' reluctance to offer mortgages on flats (see BBC Radio 4 'You and Yours', 23/9/20); and mortgagors' traditional reluctance to lend on new builds - I must ask the question : For whom are these flats being built? Investors? It is that why no reference has been made to social housing?

Thank you for your consideration. I would recommend this objection to you.

Comment: The plan for such high buildings is wrong in this situation as buildings are lower in this area and these high rise buildings will be an eye sore and cut out daylight in surrounding streets. The density of the development is too high and the fact there is no social housing in an area which very seriously needs it is disgraceful. At a time when the economy is in serious trouble this is a very poor idea. People on low incomes need decent homes.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This development is totally out of keeping with Cricklewood and the Railway Terraces. It is too high and too dense.

The architecture in Cricklewood is predominantly Victorian and Edwardian - small scale. Most 2 to 4 storeys high. The B & Q development is for four clusters of tower blocks of 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 storeys and one of 25 storeys.

There are no very tall buildings in Cricklewood.

Planning approved for the Coop site is for 9 storeys (reduced from 15). Matalan is also for 7 storeys (reduced from 9).

Barnet's Tall Buildings Update 2019 states that 6 to 14 storeys is appropriate for buildings in Cricklewood.

This is not Brent Cross South, which is a mile away and where residential buildings will only be up to 15 storeys.

The nearest very tall building (27 storeys) is in west Hendon, nearly 2 miles from Cricklewood.

1,100 housing units represents overdevelopment of the site. It will equate to some 3,000 or more new residents, putting huge pressure on already over-stretched local services.

The tower blocks will dominate the skyline and cut daylight and sunlight from Cricklewood and The Terraces, where cottages were built on a north south axis, not east to west. The side of The Terraces that faces B&Q therefore gets only half a day of sunlight.

There will be a huge increase in traffic, even though there is limited parking on site.

Cricklewood Station is not a 'transport hub'. There is no tube station and bus travel is painfully slow and congested.

The tall towers will be seen in The Terraces and destroy views in and out of the conservation area.

The height of these clusters of very tall tower blocks could set a precedent for the development of the Jewson's site.

The pandemic has changed people's way of working. Demand for one bedroom flats has already fallen.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I object to the proposed development as it will be extremely detrimental to the local neighbourhood and the residents of Cricklewood and surrounding areas.

The height and scale of the buildings are completely out of proportion with the area and will be oppressive and overbearing on an already busy place.

The proposal looks like a city of skyscrapers completely out of keeping with the nearby area of terraced brick Edwardian houses and shops and will tower over the skyline and be seen from miles away. This is not appropriate for a low rise mainly residential area .

The junction and Cricklewood Lane particularly by the bridge is very narrow and often extremely busy with terrible traffic jams. It has numerous bus routes and the High road is also one of the main arteries into London.

Both during construction and afterwards the development will cause a dangerous increase in traffic in an extremely small area .Hundreds of the nearby Hampstead School pupils and other families with young children overwhelm the area at certain times of the day. In addition a safe pedestrian route for them across the existing carpark will disappear so forcing them onto the main roads and narrow pavements.

The number of new residents will cause a huge number of problems for local infrastructure and services, schools, health and social care for example already overstretched. Many nearby Brent schools are always full already so how will they cope with increased numbers.? There are a large number of other housing developments happening at present both in Cricklewood and in the surrounding areas of Willesden Green, West Hampstead and Kilburn. This will all add to this pressure on services and infrastructure .

Cricklewood already suffers in many ways by being on the border of 3 boroughs and being so dominated by busy main roads .It has lots of deprivation and social issues , poor housing, no tube station and no large greenspace in the immediate area.

The development offers absolutely no improvement or opportunities for their lives in the way of cheap housing , amenities or open space and will be extremely damaging for the communities and harmful for the people who live and work there.

To Summarise:

Too high and extensive/Out of keeping with local area

DangerousTraffic increase

Pressure on services and infrastructure

No social housing

No Open space/environmental concerns

Cricklewood Station is not a 'transport hub'. Montreaux's public exhibition and consultation was a tick box exercise. Montreaux was told repeatedly by those attending, and by local groups, that the buildings were too tall and too dense but they have ignored the wishes of the local community. Comment: I object on the grounds that the proposed massive development fails to comply with Barnet's Tall Towers policy document. The cross section on page 31 and the subsequent table shows that B & Q Cricklewood site was only intended to have 8 storeys when the policy was written in 2019.

The tower blocks will dominate the skyline and cut daylight and sunlight. I have viewed the projected shadow fall representations and they show that these structures will mean a direct loss of sunlight across my property and garden, at key parts of the day.

The buildings are not in keeping with the 2-4 store Victorian and Edwardian architecture of the area.

We are already overrun with new developments, i.e. Brent Cross South regeneration, Co-Op, Matalan, The Broadway (Cricklewood Lane) and recent projects at the Childs Hill end of Cricklewood Lane. All of these, plus this projected development will place an unacceptable strain on traffic along Cricklewood Lane. Having lived at my property for 25 years, it has become almost impossible for me to exit my driveway efficiently due to the increase in traffic over that period. This development will only add to the congestion at the junction of Cricklewood Broadway (even taking into consideration the proposed widening of that junction). Quite often the current congestion from that junction backs all the way up to the Hendon Way junction and beyond towards Childs Hill.

Comment: Objection by Fortune Green and West Hampstead Neighbourhood Development Forum to the planning application for B & Q Broadway Retail Park at Cricklewood Lane London NW2 1ES

Ref: 20/3564/OUT

The Fortune Green and West Hampstead Neighbourhood Development Forum (NDF) was formed in 2012, recognised by LB Camden in May 2013, prepared a Neighbourhood Plan for its Area which was examined, subjected to referendum and made in May 2015.

One of the main threads in the plan has been to control over-tall buildings in otherwise low-rise areas and maintaining the character of local "town centres". This development cuts directly across those ideals.

The NDF's Area ends approximately 200 metres from the proposed development site and, given the proposed building heights (from 9 to 25 storeys) and the intensity of the development, the impact on the NDF Area will be significant.

The application uses the proposed Co-op development 1-13 Cricklewood Lane as a precedent for high rise development in the area stating it has 13 storeys. In fact, the proposal has been cut down to 9 storeys and still does not have planning permission. Should that be approved, the NDF believes that that nine storeys should be a maximum for Cricklewood Lane and Cricklewood Broadway, not the starting point from which developers negotiate upwards.

Section 2.8 Tall buildings, page 21 in the Masterplan Submission shows how few buildings over nine storeys exist in the area. It also shows that those that do exist are well spread out. The proposed development is also extremely dense, indeed, the plan in section 2.8 would be unable to show all four blocks within the area of the site. There will be resulting widespread and severe impact on traffic, transport and other infrastructure.

Given the changing nature of cities, particularly post Covid-19, this type of very high and intense development needs careful reconsideration.

There is a critical shortage of affordable housing in the local area and this proposal is not explicit in how much it will provide.

Why do you want to put such a monstrosity building in our neighbourhood. We have fought hard to create Cricklewood into a village & with the design proposal it's going to ruin the historic look of the area. First the developers are too greedy & don't consider the residents in their proposal. The area will lose its charm and become a concrete jungle, residents will lose the atmosphere and openness that is on offer right now. Everything is about more & more flats. How many are affordable. We have to put a stop to this ridiculous idea. Build something that will enhance the area not make it worse than it is.

Comment: This scheme is ill conceived from every angle;

Compared to the South Kilburn house scheme, it is too high (think of Grenfell Tower at 24 floors high) and lack of human resources to combat the fire created a human catastrophe.

These are the main points of my objection;

-The scale, lack of detailed design, shown in this scheme shows an amateur approach and the architects have no portfolio of finished projects to show.

- imposition on the skyline creating huge blocks of shadow on the near community

- underdeveloped infrastructure to support

access for parking, bike storage, and safe areas for children to play in

Environment;

Loss of tree scape and skyline.

Effects on listed buildings and conservation areas

Produces a precedent for other development like this, which are ugly inhuman and will cast a unacceptable example for planners in the future.

Risk of Crime;

High density living creates crime, unhealthy infection rates (think Covid-19) and spread of disease. Without security this size of estate would soon become a sink development for crime.

There is an inherent loss of family homes, which were so successful in the Victorian era, terraced housing with gardens may be impossible now in suburban London, but making a prison in the sky is not conducive for family life

Sustainable and affordable housing

This is the worst example of simplistic, under detailed design for living in the future. There is no philosophy, no art, no thought in this proposal.

The whole design should be scrapped and rethought with careful detail to what sustains human life, not what destroys it.

More residents with cars using the streets will cause delays, loss of business because of inadequate parking provision and increased pollution. There are already plans in place for other buildings and business along the A5. These will stress capacity beyond a reasonable limit and these current proposals do not seem to take other plans into account
3. Overcrowding and pollution are detrimental to physical and mental health and these plans will exacerbate a situation already difficult for those with health problems.

Comment: I strongly object to this proposal as it is overdevelopment of site in breach of the Council's 2019 guidelines on tall buildings. 6 Tower blocks (16-25 storeys high) are proposed for a small area in Cricklewood Town Centre in addition to a 9 storey development already approved. If approved this will be similar to putting 6 big elephants into a field of small mice. It is a material change of use from commercial to residential with large increase in usable space. Cricklewood does not need any more residential units as the infrastructure will not allow for it. Too many have already been approved.

With reference to the Barnet 2019 tall buildings update these buildings fall into the 'very tall category'. According to pg 46 re very tall buildings they must respect the 'character and context' of the surrounding areas as well as transport and effect on conservation areas. This proposal already fails on 3 counts.

1 Too tall, bulky overbearing, modern looking in comparison to existing Victorian 2 storey houses. It will stick out like a sore thumb.

2 Existing transport facilities too poor to cater for this proposal. Buses already overcrowded plus traffic gridlock in the area.

3 Proximity to CONSERVATION area nearby. This will be built right next to the historical Railway terraces. These ugly modern tower blocks will dominate the skyline will ruin the historical appearance of delightful cottages. You CANNOT have historical conservation properties against a backdrop of ugly modern blocks of flats. This goes against council policy for conservation areas. Other problems will arise ie loss of daylight, sunlight, traffic congestion, lack of GPs. The historical fabric of Victorian Cricklewood will be ruined by a very ugly modern structure that does not blend in with the existing historical architecture. The heritage of the area must be preserved .This plan is to the detriment of the local community with no benefits. Large tower blocks cannot REGENERATE any area. Please REJECT this.

Comment: I object to a development: the scale and size is completely out of character with the area. In addition, this size and scale puts increased pressure on local services such as GPs.

The health impact report itself states that existing healthcare facilities are already overstretched: 2,177 patients per GP versus the target which is 1,800 (without the development). So with current facilities already over the limit, an additional 2,132 residents will only stress the impact on our NHS even more. This is unacceptable.

Additionally, what this health report does not take into consideration is that it is only evaluating the impact of the additional residents this new development would bring in, but there are already additional developments that have been given approval on the 194 Cricklewood Broadway / Galtymore site (94 residential units) and 1-13 Cricklewood Lane (145 residential units). There is no additional capacity for 4 blocks including one which is 25 storeys high. The local height limit for flats in the area is 9 storeys as per Ashford Court. Any new developments must remain in keeping with the local size and scale.

Extract from the health report.

GPs

Chapter 5 of the health impact report identifies the following: "existing healthcare services within accessible distance of the Site. There are currently seven GP surgeries within 1km of the Proposed Development, with 22.3 FTE GPs and an average patient list size of 6,923. There are on average 2,177 Patients per FTE GP, WELL ABOVE THE 1,800 TARGET SET by the Royal College of General Practitioners.

The additional 2,132 residents estimated to reside at the Proposed Development WILL PLACE ADDITIONAL DEMAND UPON THE LOCAL HEALTH FACILITIES.

Taking a 'worst-case scenario' in which all new residents register with a local GP practices, THE ADDITIONAL RESIDENTS WOULD INCREASE THE OVERALL PRACTICE LIST SIZE TO 2,269 PATIENTS PER GP, WHICH IS ABOVE THE 1,800 TARGET SET by the Royal College of General Practitioners.

This will change the look of the area which is completely residential with only 2/3 floor houses.

This will change the feel of this zone 2-3 area - such high rise buildings should not be part of the open space in this area.

Comment: The proposed heights are deplorable, the size and massing far removed from anything in Cricklewood existing or recently approved by way of new development. It's certainly not in keeping but will be very much detrimental to the local street scene but because of the size, design and massing would be a discordant form of development which would fail to enhance or preserve Cricklewood or the immediately adjacent Railway Terraces conservation area.

The blocks pose a serious dominant, overbearing outlook from homes, gardens and amenity spaces not just nearby but for considerable distances across Cricklewood.

There will be a loss of privacy with overlooking due to the height of the towers to surrounding homes taking away peoples enjoyment of their private gardens and communal garden spaces, prominent within the nearby Railway Terraces conservation area.

It provides a far too aggressive dominant backdrop against historically listed buildings such as the Crown Hotel and the Railways Terraces conservation area detracting from these local landmarks. Proposals do not satisfy the Cricklewood Railway Terraces Character Appraisal report.

Daylight and overshadowing will be adversely affected across parts of Cricklewood for longer periods of time than now currently enjoyed.

The number of units being proposed creates a density and scale of development which would create a population far exceeding road and local transport infrastructure serving the area.

There is little in the way of soft landscaping or external amenity space in comparison to the total number of residential units proposed.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I object to the application. It is also clear from the other comments that the overwhelming majority of respondents, most of whom are local residents, also object.

My reasons for objecting are:

1. The size, scale and number of buildings are totally out of keeping with the character of the area. I fully support the principle of increasing the available housing stock, but development must be proportionate and respectful. This proposal is the opposite.
2. Even a significantly reduced version of this proposed development would overwhelm local services and transport links. There is a striking lack of consideration in the proposal for how to accommodate increased demands on local shops, GPs and schools, not to mention the increased traffic levels on already busy local roads. Cricklewood station (which has only four trains an hour in peak time) would be unable to cope.
3. There would be a loss of privacy for local residents who would be overlooked in their flats, houses and gardens.
4. There would be a detrimental impact on local conservation areas, including the adjacent railway terraces, which have great local heritage value.

5. The proposal includes insufficient provision for affordable housing.

I would support a smaller-scale development with sympathetic housing of up to four or five storeys.

But I think the only option for the Council is to reject this application in its entirety. Even a less extreme version of the proposal would still cause the all of these problems.

I suspect the developer, in making such an extreme proposal, does not really expect it to be approved in its current form but thinks that a watered-down proposal might be accepted. But even a watered-down proposal would cause the problems that almost all of the commenters have identified.

Residents do not want every space filled with concrete we want open space green parks trees and leisure facilities

The roads around the area are already congested

For mental health we need houses with gardens! Not a concrete block rented out to a transient population who do not own the environment

The tower block is out of proportion with the traditional low rise building in the immediate area. Unsympathetic to the local area. As planners you should take these points into consideration. Don't be bribed or bullied by the Councillors, think of the community.

B&Q is an extremely important and useful resource for household goods. The loss of the shop will be very inconvenient and result in longer car journeys to get to the next B&Q. This causes more pollution. Items bought at B&Q need a motorised transport so will end up with more traffic!

To demolish and build 1100 homes and commercial premises in buildings ranging from 3 to 25 storeys will create a strain on local infrastructure . The traffic around Cricklewood Broadway is already horrendous and more people and traffic will make the areas even more overcrowded and congested. This is a high density area already and allowing this development will make the situation worse.

It also appears that there is only 35% affordable housing , insufficient car parking spaces so it will make it even more difficult for existing residents to park in the neighbouring streets, and only 1 Club car space for, at a conservative calculation, at least 2,000 people .

Already the trains are packed, the traffic in the area is constantly at a standstill, and I worry that there will not be enough schools, doctors surgeries, etc to support this volume of extra demand. The volume of traffic this proposal will generate will also undoubtedly lead to greater Levels of air pollution. I do accept that there is a need for more housing and some could be put here, but the sheer volume in this proposal is not workable and will overwhelm the area.

Comment: I live very close to this development. I strongly object as this development will not have any positive impact for the local community. It will cause more harm than good. We will be losing a walk in centre/GP, B&Q and poundstretcher and get even more residential units more burden on traffic, transport, schools etc. Cricklewood does NOT need more housing. Too much has been added already. To improve the economic prospects of the area commercial units should be added in. B&Q and GP Walk in centre should be reinstated. Extra housing is a burden on scarce resources.

Myself and others living in the 2 storey Victorian Groves will be heavily negatively impacted by the 4 skyscrapers planned. These will dominate the skyline and will block much daylight to the properties ruining the view for many. We already are surrounded by the bulky Crown hotel buildings which results in loss of daylight and noise pollution. To have even higher buildings in the vicinity is an insult. The ugly tall modern buildings will clash with the grade II listed building The Crown pub as well as the conservation area railway terraces and the Victorian Groves. This will ruin the historical appearance of the area. Properties in the Groves will be overlooked causing loss of privacy issues.

The area has much crime already more housing units will only exacerbate crime.

Re GP services take note that GPs have catchment areas. We have lost the local GP. The 2 other Barnet practices the cut off point is Claremont Rd and for the Camden practices the cut off point is Richborough Rd. Chichele Rd 2 doctor GP is run down, struggling with poor CQC rating. Which surgery will take on these 3000 extra people? The new development needs a new GP surgery/walk in centre to replace the one lost.

Nothing positive about this development - not suited for Cricklewood. It is badly planned which disregards residential amenity. Please be kind to the Groves residents and reject this as the plans go against council 2019 guidelines.

Comment: I am objecting to the proposed scheme as it is clear from the planning application that the applicants have not considered the negative impact their 1100 new homes will have on air quality, natural daylight, public transport and the local community.

We already suffer from overwhelming numbers of cars and lorries using the Cricklewood section of the Edgware Road, we cannot possibly, be expected to live with the increase of pollutants from up to a thousand more cars in the local area.

Cricklewood is a low rise area. Tall towers and large blocks of flats will cast shadow over existing buildings making the surrounding streets gloomy.

The impact of the sheer numbers of people in a housing scheme this size will make public transport even more crowded than it is already in peak times.

The scheme has no social housing provision and will benefit landlords rather than residents. The transitional nature of renters will prevent ordinary people from putting down roots in Cricklewood. Whilst I am not objecting to new housing and new retail opportunities, I believe this huge development will be detrimental to the local area; an overwhelming imposition on the vibrant Cricklewood Broadway. There is a need to be more sympathetic, to use the opportunity to improve rather than cram Cricklewood with housing that will only benefit landlords.

I understand that development needs to take place, but I would appreciate a small amount of concern for the environment where this to take place. These plans would overwhelm my little terrace cottage and the unique beauty of the Railway terraces would be lost. Not only would the cottage be overloaded, but the whole area would struggle from over population in respect of health care and other facilities. These extra-ordinarily tall blocks of flats would be totally out of keeping in this area. I would have thought that after the disaster at Grenfell Tower a very short while ago, these tall blocks should be banned for safety reasons. Not only would these blocks be an eye-sore, but they would block out any light or open aspect that we might have.

I strongly object to this development.

Comment: The size and nature of this development is totally unsuitable for the area. The height of the proposed blocks is out of character with the surrounding area; the increase in population involved would overwhelm the infrastructure of already crowded and traffic-jammed Cricklewood; additional school numbers are not planned for; there is no provision for much needed genuine social housing and provision only for the bare minimum of 'affordable' housing. Comment: This is an oppressive, light depriving development, completely out of keeping with the character and height of buildings in the area. It will not be a positive contribution to a community that is already having to deal with new developments and the excessive amount of traffic and pollution they bring as well as the continuous stretching of our vital local infrastructure which cannot possibly cope with the potential influx of 3000 new residents.

No one wants tower blocks, not the people looking for homes nor those who have to live around them. There is compelling evidence from survey after survey on this fact and the consequences of building housing that causes more stress, more mental health problems. Children living in high rises suffer more behavioural problems. Vandalism and anti-social behaviour increase and all these outcomes inevitably spill over and need additional resources to deal with them. They deeply affect and change their surrounding area.

In a time of huge societal upheaval when a cohesive community and one's neighbours have meant so much to so many of us, and in some cases been literally lifesaving, surely no council in good conscience could agree to plans of this nature.

The B & Q development, for tower blocks of 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 storeys and one of 25 storeys, will dominate our skyline and cut daylight and sunlight from Cricklewood and The Terraces.

Comment: This development is completely out of scale for the neighbourhood and the location. The density of the development is far too great. There are to be 5 tall tower blocks, the highest being 25 storeys and they are each far too high. The worst block is the tallest block which looms over the adjacent residential area.

The sheer, outrageous scale is mind-boggling. These towers are being built in an area of low height buildings and are completely out of scale with the whole character of Cricklewood and with the neighbouring houses and shopping area.

The 'artistic drawings' are quite mischievous, in that they give a false impression by leaving out real comparisons with the neighbouring area in Cricklewood.

This is a development proposed out of profit, without even a 'fig leaf' to the surrounding. If this development is allowed, it will adversely affect the whole area for generations to come - we (the Council, the electorate and the neighbours) really cannot allow that to happen.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I strenuously object to this grossly overscaled proposed development which has no place in our community.

I have before me the newsletter for Brent Cross South and find it difficult to comprehend how incompatible this planning application is with what I am reading about Brent Cross South. As far as I can see, the largest block on that development is of nine storeys, here we are faced with blocks of 16 and more up to 25. Unbelievable. Surely there should be a coherent overall plan that links Brent Cross South with the Cricklewood Infrastructure. No such coherence is evident.

The proposed development is too big, it is totally out of line with what can be found around it. To use the words of Prince Charles in a different circumstance,

"In 1984 Charles, Prince of Wales, described the proposed Sainsbury Wing extension to the National Gallery in London as a "monstrous carbuncle on the face of a much-loved and elegant friend", a term he has used since to describe other pieces of architecture."

This proposal is monstrous, the density and the height are far too great for the amount of space available. They are out of keeping with the current two and three storey locality. The proposals are totally against Barnet's stated policies on tall buildings and regeneration. Can we but hope that Barnet will apply these policies and not ignore citizens who feel, at times, that being at the far edge of the Borough leaves them open to a less strict interpretation of policies applied elsewhere in the Borough.

I also bemoan the loss of the shops/stores on the site. Poundstretcher provides a welcome lower cost shopping unit for many local residents while B&Q is a handy place to obtain a wide range of household goods including for the garden.

There are many other reasons to reject this application out of hand but there seems no great point in repeating the cogent arguments already set out in the numerous objections that have already been submitted.

Comment: Objection on behalf of The Fordwych Residents Association, which represents people living on Fordwych Road & adjoining streets in the Fortune Green Ward, London borough of Camden, NW2/6.

Fordwych Residents Association objects to the scheme on the grounds of over-development in such a small site, and the height of the towers and does not include enough affordable housing. Our residents living in Cricklewood are next door to this development and, as such will be significantly affected by it. The proposal is far too tall and dense - there will be five tower blocks, with the highest being 25-storeys, which are way too high. The tallest block in this scheme, should not be any higher than the scheme approved for 1-13 Cricklewood Lane, which includes a 9-storey tower. The tallest 25-storey tower is sited next to Cricklewood Lane and the railway bridge, instead of at the back of the site. This scheme is not in keeping with the character and scale of the Victorian buildings in Cricklewood town centre, which range in height from 2-3 storeys. The developer's drawings are misleading, as they give a false impression by leaving out real comparisons with the neighbouring area, with the towers looming over Cricklewood and the wider area in North West London. The huge towers will obscure daylight and overshadow large areas of Cricklewood and beyond. Our residents are extremely worried and concerned about the effects this proposal will have on traffic in Fordwych Road, Westbere Road and other local roads in the Camden Borough. This scheme will produce high demands on local infrastructure and services, which are already over-stretched. Local bus routes and Cricklewood Thameslink station will be unable to cope with additional demand with present infrastructure. Traffic on Cricklewood Lane will be grid-locked. This scheme, if approved will harm the nearby Grade II listed building The Crown public house, as well as the conservation area railway terraces and the Victorian Groves.

Comment: The scale and massive size of the development is out of character with the surrounding area and will completely overwhelm the nearby buildings which are generally two and three storeys. It will be detrimental to the character and appearance of the area.

It will certainly result in a loss of privacy and visual amenity for many local residents and is out of keeping with the local conservation areas.

The high density of dwellings and increase in population will overwhelm local services. It will increase traffic levels on surrounding roads which are already congested and put a strain on public transport. The traffic junctions nearby are already very difficult for car users and pedestrians trying to cross at the present time, such a large development will only have a detrimental impact.

More housing is needed but any development should respect the local character of the area and be proportionate with the existing buildings. This scheme offers neither and does not include any provision for affordable housing.

The drawings which the developers have submitted are misleading as they do not give a true picture of the scale of the development and do not allow a proper comparison with the surrounding area.

This already populous, relatively less wealthy area will experience further pressure on space, local services including transport links, healthcare and schools with no associated plans to plan ahead for these issues.

The total lack of provision of affordable housing is unconscionable given the current state of the housing market and waiting lists for council accommodation. Given the current economic environment it is implausible that this situation is likely to improve in the next 20 years without support from local authority planning departments.

It is completely unacceptable for one development to dominate our community.

This development will be seen for miles around and will block light to the groves, the railway terraces, Cricklewood Lane and surrounding residences.

No social housing is completely unacceptable, and Barnet's appalling record on holding developers to account when it comes to delivering affordable housing should be noted. There is no real commitment of affordable housing in the plan and Barnet has a record of forgiving developers when they don't meet the already low affordable targets.

Four adults live in our house in Gratton Terrace and we all object to this planning application.

The Terraces and neighbouring properties in Cricklewood will be adversely affected by the proposed 15 to 25 storey Tower blocks. Loss of light: some Terraces in our Conservation area currently only enjoyed 50% sunlight and these proposed building would cast a long shadow over these and surrounding residences in Cricklewood.

A blot on the landscape: Barnet approved a 7 storey building on the Co-Op site. Whilst we feel this height is not in keeping with the predominantly Victorian and Edwardian area this 25 storey planning proposal is totally unacceptable. Visually obtrusive to the whole of Cricklewood and for miles around.

1,100 dwellings with potentially >3000 additional residents with no proposed infrastructure?

No additional Green spaces.

No parking facilities does not mean no additional cars owned by tenants.

GP surgeries within the area have no additional capacity to cater for such numbers.

Walk in Medical Center in Cricklewood Lane facing closure: no replacement to the detriment of existing residents.

This area of Barnet has no A&E facilities.

Clearly local schools will not have catered for an unknown number of possible students.

Cricklewood has one train station, no tube and buses which are frequently stuck in traffic on the A5.

A5 is a very heavily trafficked road causing high levels of pollution, a high concentration of tall buildings will not aid in the disposal of car, bus and lorry fumes.

What studies have been undertaken on the "wind tunnel" effect these buildings may cause to our neighbourhood.

The developers of this site clearly disregarded local views during the consultation period. We hope that Barnet Council will reject this planning application in its entirety in support of local residents objections.

Comment: It is very important to get the plan for this site right. As a key town centre site, what happens here will shape Cricklewood for decades to come. This aggressive plan is not suitable and would overwhelm the area. It is a monster and I urge the committee to reject it.

My objections are as follows:

Density-

1,100 flats on the site is far too many. I am concerned about the quality of life for those who would live in this development. Cricklewood Lane has poor air quality and building at height above it would mean approx. 3000 people living above a badly polluted road. This density ahead of the pandemic would not be acceptable but it is especially not acceptable now. The recent changes to urban life necessitates careful consideration of this very dense style of housing.

Loss of light-

I object to the loss of light to ward residents in the Railway Terraces conservation area, Cricklewood Lane, Dairyman Close, Claremont Road and the Groves. Approval of this scheme would also harm the Grade II listed Crown pub on the Cricklewood Broadway.

Out of character of the area-

These buildings would blight the landscape of the town centre and far beyond, forever changing the skyline and the area. The large buildings would be overbearing and change the character of the area. I note that the 25 storey tower in West Hendon can be clearly seen from the Clitterhouse Playing Fields which is a full 2 miles away.

There is simply nothing in the area with anything like the proposed heights and scale. The development would be out of place and dominate the community.

No social housing-

Any development of this size should be an inclusive one, a development of this size without social housing is appalling. We have an acute need for social housing and to not include any is a clear missed opportunity.

The affordable housing element is non-committal. The developer's aspiration of 35% affordable is the legal minimum.

Objection continues as I ran out of characters.

Public realm-

Whilst I am pleased to see an increase in green space, I am concerned that this green space is be on private land. When I asked the developers who would pay for litter picking and maintenance, I was told the service charge of residents would pay for the cost. This is likely problematic for future residents. The number of fast food restaurants, together with poor enforcement of litter dropping in Barnet, means our town centre always has a lot of litter every day. I worry that this ongoing cost to residents will put pressure on the freeholder to limit public access. Assurances that this space will remain open to the public need to be made.

Barnet's Tall Buildings Policy-

This plan goes against Barnet's own policy on tall buildings which highlights Cricklewood as being inappropriate for very tall buildings. The collection of towers makes for a very dense cluster of buildings.

Pre-planning engagement

I would like it noted that I attended 4 pre-planning meetings with residents and the developer's agent. During all of these meetings, concerns about height and density were raised and were clearly unacceptable to local residents. I am deeply disappointed that the developer made no alteration to the plans following input from residents. Rather than listening to residents and adjusting the plans, the developer wasted everyone's time and charged ahead with this plan. It is plainly unacceptable to residents as illustrated by the number and the quality of objections.

For all of the reasons above, plus the many excellent objections on the planning portal, this plan should be rejected.

Tower blocks of 15-25 storeys are being proposed for no one's benefit bar the developer.

Cricklewood needs more family homes and social housing, not luxury one and two bedroom flats that only rich, buy-to-let investors will buy. There is no social housing included in these plans.

The blocks are completely out of keeping with the area and they are too high in density. This will put further strain on our already creaking infrastructure - Thameslink trains are already packed in rush hour, and the surrounding roads are gridlocked every evening with traffic.

It will be good to see more green space though - this is something Cricklewood desperately needs.

Comment: Dear planning team,

We are very concerned after reviewing the planning application for the new development in Cricklewood. Initially, the outlook of a redevelopment sounded exciting, but the current plans are disturbing for the following reasons:

1) The height of the tower blocks is completely out of place with the neighbourhood and the entire area. They will dominate the the skyline, cut daylight and their presence will overshadow the lively highstreet and residential streets with mostly 2-3 storey houses. Any development above 5-8 storeys would destroy the character of Cricklewood. How could the current plans even come forward to this stage without any serious adjustments?

2) The number of flats and corresponding number of cars and people will overwhelm the current infrastructure even with future improvements planned. 1100 flats equal 500-1000 additional cars committing in/out of the area during rush hour. What evidence did the developer provide to prove that the infrastructure in the area can cope with this extreme additional load?

3) There are currently 1100 new flats planned but NO social housing! How is this in line with ensuring that Cricklewood stays a diverse neighbourhood that enables all people to lead a happy life with a safe home?

Best regards,
Andrea Harpprecht

Comment: I object to this proposal based on the height of the buildings which are totally out of keeping in the area. The proposed block would tower over the area around it and dominate visibility from neighbouring properties from every angle.

There is no plan for social housing and there is no clear plan for an amount of "affordable housing".

A development of this size will add to overcrowding on local transport and nearby roads, which are already extremely congested at nearby junctions to the proposed site.

This over-development would add no benefit to the area, in fact it would only harm the neighbourhood.

Comment:- The scale and bulk of the development is overbearing and obtrusive- the proposed heights of the towers are all too high at 15 - 25 storeys. It is out-of-character for the local area and its surrounds. It also goes against Barnet Council's Tall Building policy.

- This is also an overdevelopment of the site - it is too dense for the size of the site - there is not enough proposed outdoor space and play space for the number of residential units.

- There will be a loss of outlook due to the imposing design and towers looming over the neighbourhood and beyond - the towers will cast imposing shadows and loss of natural light.

- The surrounding areas are already being overdeveloped and the proposed development will increase the burden of local roads with increased traffic levels. The local transport system is insufficient to deal with an increase in the number of residents living within a small footprint.

- The development does not provide the maximum viable amount of affordable housing, only the legal minimum requirement - and this is not guaranteed in the final build. There is no inclusion of social housing.

- The design should consider local existing residents' needs such as improved/increased green space and amenities - improved access to the rail station, and safe walk-ways/cycle-ways as access through the site to local roads.

Comment: The proposed development is utterly out of keeping with the area, with the proposals comprising of buildings of a minimum of 16 up to 25 stories.

Similar developments in the surrounding area are no more than 10 stories tall, and this should be the maximum allowed in this development too.

Any taller than this would be an absolute overdevelopment of the site, and would have a domino effect in bringing down the character and general living conditions for residents already lining in the area.

The vast majority of buildings in the cricklewood area are of Victorian to early 20th century construction, and the proposed development would completely dominate all other building around it, blocking natural light. The designs are also out of keeping with the area.

Furthermore, numerous studies have shown the adverse effects of living in high rise tower blocks for those who live in them.

Also the development proposed would not allow enough access for emergency vehicles should they be required, And in the event of a fire, there could be another Grenfell style tragedy.

There are also only about 100 parking spaces proposed for over 1000 flats which is clearly grossly inappropriate, and would cause residents of the proposed development to park on surrounding roads without parking restrictions. This would also result in increased traffic congestion in the area.

The proposed influx in housing would also provide a huge strain on local services, with little provision made in the proposals for helping with this. For example the medical centre...

The development is also estimated to take 8-10 years, which would mean a decade of traffic congestion, extra pollution, noise, and general daily disruption for everyone in the area.

There is also not enough social housing, and more 'affordable housing' should be included.

There is no back to normal the new normal is a migration from London people are working from home; the owners of the gigantic office blocks in Canary wharf are telling their staff they can work at home in perpetuity. Before we go ahead and build the eyesores that will be for the rich and will be built for greed not need. This development will not address how to convert the thousand of square meters of empty office blocks in Canary Wharf to desperately needed social housing. Say no to this development which looks like a dystopian nightmare. Where is the impact assessment for the area doctors, schools and desperately needed green open spaces. Please reject this development the future will not be the normal we once knew that is forever gone. Plan new for the new reality

- The scale of the development is overbearing. The proposed towers are all too high and grossly out of character for the local area and its surrounds.
- The proposed development is too dense for the size of the site and there is not enough proposed outdoor space for the proposed number of units.
- There will be a loss of outlook due to the imposing design and towers looming over the neighbourhood and beyond - the towers will cast imposing shadows and loss of natural light.
- The proposed development is contrary to Barnet Council's own, published policies on tall buildings and regeneration.
- Local health facilities and transport are already under stress and adding this number of residential units would further increase the pressure on such amenities.
- Roads in the area are already far too congested. The proposed development would only add to this and also cause increased pollution.
- There is already a lack of amenities in the Cricklewood area. Adding this number of residential units would only add to this problem. We need more open space and amenities; not huge, unsustainable numbers of residential units.

There are not enough car parking spaces planned in the development. This will lead to increased parking on local streets, where parking space is already at a premium, and will cause further congestion and pollution in the area.

No consideration to impact on existing residents and public services. Will there be more trains stopping at Cricklewood station? Will they introduce new GPs, dentist, schools, etc.

Considering the recent works at the junction of Claremont Road & Cricklewood Lane did nothing to improve the safety of existing pedestrians or cyclists I don't trust the council to insist the developer makes provision for the safety of all the additional residents this development will attract.

Comment: The proposed development is out of keeping with the largely Victorian and early 20th century buildings in the area which have 2-4 stories on average. Buildings of 16 to 25 stories would dominate the skyline and cut out daylight. The prospect of several 16- 25 story buildings raises worrying and dangerous issues in light of the terrible disaster at Grenfell. The buildings around it would also be too close in the event of a fire or deliberate manmade disaster.

1,000 + homes would put a tremendous strain on local facilities and make parking impossible for present and future residents. The design and appearance would be detrimental to the area - too large, out of keeping - basically monstrosities. Traffic would be affected detrimentally both during building and after by the disproportionate no of new residents/vehicles. No thought has been given to how this would affect local residents. It's a case of cramming as many dwellings as possible into an unsuitably small area. It would appear the single motive for this hideous piece of overdevelopment could only be profit for the developers themselves who have apparently not consulted all the relevant local boroughs.

Comment: I am objecting to the B&Q development proposal.

The proposal to build such large (and high) blocks of flats is so incongruous to the area - there is nothing around this part of NW London that can compare to this overbearing proposal (a 25 storey block is ridiculous). When developers proposed a 10 storey block opposite Willesden Green tube on Walm lane - it was quite rightly refused on the grounds of it being overbearing.

The area is already at breaking point with the amount of traffic / there's always traffic queues (I live on Chichele Road - a main road through Cricklewood - and there is constant congestion on the road and therefore so much pollution) and also the local services struggle to cope with the amount of residents at doctor's surgeries etc.

Also, why have no provisions for social housing been made? There is no justification for this and I think it's shameful if Barnet agree to this development on that factor alone.

Comment: I have lived in this area. I often travel to this area to visit friends and am too familiar with Cricklewood's social problems. Like most of the 600+ comments I object to this ugly gargantuan development

Many people on this portal have been screaming for 'social housing'. The main issue here is the size and scale of the development and its location. ALL INAPPROPRIATE. 4 massive tower blocks with 1100 flats 25 storeys high is sheer overdevelopment of site (whether there is social housing or not!). This size contravenes council guidelines.

It is NOT appropriate to place this type of structure slap bang in the middle of residential areas with 2 storey. Victorian properties such as the Railway Terraces, the Groves, the Fairview developments and Victorian Crown Terrace. This will impact these communities HARD in terms of loss of daylight, privacy issues, traffic congestion, roads being used as rat runs, pressure on GP healthcare services. The plans are FLAWED as TOO MUCH will be put into close proximity of residential areas.

The design of these blocks is modern and not in keeping with the Victorian architecture of the conservation area of the Terraces and the Groves. The view of the Grade 2 listed building Crown pub will be ruined by having 4 modern tower blocks dominating the skyline.

These TALL structures are suited for other areas eg Brownfield sites and NOT town centres. No reason to dump them in the middle of residential Cricklewood where they will cause more harm than good for the Cricklewood community with its own social problems. These blocks will make the developers richer and the community poorer in terms of loss of amenity and pressure on resources. No infrastructure to support this.

Housing projects are springing up over London. In Cricklewood 4 housing projects have been built/approved. The area does NOT need more housing whether social or not! If approved Cricklewood Lane will be turned into one massive ugly housing estate. No one wants this. Reject

Comment: I wholly object to the application.

These are my reasons for objecting:

1. The sheer size, scale and number of buildings are totally out of keeping with the character of the area. Many surrounding residential streets are made up of Victorian/Edwardian housing.
2. The increase in traffic, already congested on Cricklewood Lane, especially during peak times. The pollution under the railway bridge produced by stationary traffic must breach the World Health Organisation's safety limits. Introducing more traffic, will clearly not improve the air quality.
3. The overwhelming demands that would be placed on the surrounding infrastructure: schools, GP Surgeries, local hospitals, the buses and Cricklewood station.
4. There would be a huge loss of privacy for local residents who would be overlooked and overshadowed with the loss of daylight and sunlight by the monstrous size and scale of this development and as a consequence, have an impact on local people's mental health and well-being. It would also breach the Human Rights Act, Protocol 1, Article 1; one's right to enjoy one's property peacefully.

5. There would be a detrimental impact on local conservation areas, including the adjacent railway terraces, which have great local heritage value.
6. The proposal includes insufficient provision for affordable housing.
7. The impact of the Covid-19 pandemic and how this has dramatically changed people's way of looking at high-rise and high-density living over the last 6 months. People are looking to opt out of living in congested areas where there is little green space and fresh air. The question is, who would now want to live in such a development never mind its dominance?

The correct moral and ethical decision for the Council, is to reject this application in its entirety. It is by rejecting this grotesque development, it would show that it is acting in the interest of the people of Cricklewood.

Comment: As a local resident I completely object to this development.

These heights breach Barnet's planning frameworks and policies.

It's extraordinarily high-density and it would overwhelm the centre of Cricklewood. There are no coherent plans for additional services, GPs, dentists, etc.

There are no plans for any social housing as part of this development. Barnet council should never allow a development with no social housing even be considered. This is appalling.

The scale and height proposed are not in keeping with the local 2- and 3-storey buildings. Nothing in the Cricklewood area is as tall as this or as dense as this. This building would negatively impact the ability for local residents to absorb this development. This is not in keeping with the local environment in any way and is a blight on the landscape.

The artist's impressions that don't show their plans alongside the shops and homes of Cricklewood. It's hard to accept a visualisation that's not based in reality. The artist's impressions downplay the overwhelming size and height of these proposed buildings.

This proposal is too big, too dense and does not fit in with the local area.

Comment Reasons:

- Request to speak at committee

Comment: Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to you as a neighbouring ward councillor from Fortune Green in Camden to object to this planning application.

Height and density

My first concern is about the height and density of the proposed towers. The tallest towers would tower over Cricklewood and lead to a considerable loss of light for local residents.

There are no towers anywhere near this size within the local area, and I am very concerned that granting planning permission for this development would set a dangerous precedent for more sky scrapers to be built in the vicinity.

I also note that these towers all breach Barnet's planning frameworks and policies, from the Cricklewood Brent Cross and West Hendon Development Framework to last year's Tall Buildings Update and the policies referenced there.

Affordable housing

The development would build 1,100 new flats, yet its provisions for affordable housing is severely lacking. It is untenable that a proposal of this size does not include any social housing, and that its aspiration of affordable housing only meets the legal minimum requirements.

Impact on local services

Bringing over 1,000 addition new families into the area will have a huge impact on our already creaking local services - from GP surgeries, schools and community facilities, to transport services like the Thameslink.

I am extremely disappointed that a proposed development of this size has not considered the large impact that it would have on such local services, let alone suggested any measures to mitigate this.

Increased traffic

The construction of the towers would significantly increase the amount of traffic building up in the Cricklewood area. I am very concerned that this would push more cars onto Camden roads, like Fordwych Road, Westbere Road and Shoot Up Hill.

This would increase air pollution and noise in these areas, having a net negative impact on Camden residents.

Kind regards,

Cllr Lorna Russell

Labour/Co-op Councillor for Fortune Green

Comment: I find the plans not in keeping with the area of Cricklewood. It's overbearing and overlooking, the congestion around the area is already at capacity and to have more people with their cars will make it worst. We have issues in the area with crime such as drugs, robberies, and anti social behaviour. This will add to the issue with more people hanging around your common area dealing drugs and breaking into cars and homes. The building itself is too high and covers the skyline. Your flats are not family friendly as they only cater for young professionals. I don't believe it will be affordable as London prices for flats like yours are unaffordable for the average earners.

I feel the project should cater for more family affordable living such as houses with 3 bedrooms and a garden. This is in keeping with the area of Cricklewood not high rises for single professionals. It should cater to private house buyers as well as social housing. It should be affordable and not luxury.

A scale down of this project to match the housing already around Cricklewood would be ideal. To invite families to the area to make it more family oriented and to get rid of the crime around the area. We have many local primary schools that can cater for this.

I hope you can see the future of Cricklewood from the locals point of view and not for you to fill your pockets with millions of pounds which I'm sure you already have but to be aware not many families can't afford housing and to help make Cricklewood more a family friendly area to live in.

There is insufficient road infrastructure for the cars that would be generated. This area is already congested for the majority of every day including weekends.

Visually the height would be an eyesore and completely out of sync with any other buildings in the area and for a significant radius. The loss of the retail amenity replaced by residential will have a detriment effect on employment in the area.

The density of the development would be a major detriment to the area.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I live in close proximity to this development. Handley close (just off Claremont Rd) is set lower than the rest of the Fairview developments. We already have reduced daylight. The 4 tower blocks located south west will block the rest of sunlight to all the flats, will dominate the skyline and will cause issues with loss of privacy and overlooking. The 4 tower blocks will be a horrible eyesore. It is too tall and modern looking to blend in and does not respect the scale and character of neighboring buildings and conservation area of the Terraces.

This is a bad design as it is too biased towards residential use. A good development should provide a balance between residential, commercial, community and healthcare. In this case there is no balance. The community will not gain from this development because of the strain on local resources eg transport, traffic, schools. A walk in centre/GP practice has been closed. Local GPs is already overwhelmed unwilling to take on new patients.

Cricklewood is a socially deprived and overpopulated area. It has issues with crime, street drinking, begging and drug dealing fly tipping compounded by lack of policing and neglect by council services. Tower blocks will only exacerbate the crime.

Nearby areas have buildings of 9 storeys high max in areas away from residential property. There cannot be any justification to have buildings taller than 3 storeys as they will not blend in architecturally or aesthetically with neighbouring 2-3 storey buildings.

It is obvious that most nearby residents object to this 4 tower monstrosity and are concerned about the negative impacts of this development on the local community. The infrastructure is not there to support this type of bulky overdevelopment.

Barnet council please have some respect for local communities and residents and reject this development outright. Not enough effort has been put into liaising with the local community. The local community will lose out if this is approved.

1. Too high

The reason for 25 stories as the highest block as a design focal point fail to hold up. The station building should be listed and developed as a historic focal point instead.

2. Too dense (too many units for that plot of land)

3. The developer seems to be looking for as many permissions and units so they can maybe sell on? we need developers that care about developing areas in Barnet for the long term and not short term gains .(Argent seem much better they are developing Brent Cross)

4. Local infrastructure such as roads, waste/sewage systems (they flow up stream to Hendon) and electrical (support generators already being used) seem to be at breaking point currently adding to this will not help and will cause issues to current residence s.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I support the idea of more housing for London and Cricklewood in principle. However I strongly object as a resident.

There is absolutely not enough social housing being proposed in this building. It is also very unclear how much actual affordable housing will be ring fenced without a change of plan. 35% minimum alone feels like a bad deal for residents in the area, if it will even meet.

Cricklewood is also a neglected area, as it has bare minimum services already stretched, particularly NHS/ GP surgeries and has already lost a walk-in health centre in Cricklewood.

Build-up roads such as Cricklewood Lane and Claremont Road are already struggling in mornings and evenings with congestion, and noise pollution. This is not even taking into consideration other future planned housing developments and the new waste transfer site.

18-25 storeys in housing, which looks out of character, and very overwhelming especially in Lichfield Road and on Claremont Road. It also seems detrimental to the look of the area.

There is also a terrible balance in over-development of housing unit quantity and far too dense in comparison to other neighbouring wards in the Barnet borough. Areas such as Golders Green and Hampstead Garden Suburb, yet Cricklewood is bearing the full brunt of over-development.

The volume of new residents in such a massive development will surely have a negative impact on the limited transit service to the area, bring greater congestion to the roadways and pavements, overshadow hundreds of homes and over-burden local healthcare and schooling. It is especially galling that a development this gargantuan should offer nothing in the way of desperately needed affordable housing. Approving this application as currently proposed is unconscionable.

Comment:- This structure is way too high and imposing. Dominates the skyline and blocks off light to many surrounding properties.

- Cricklewood's infrastructure is already under a huge strain without all the extra waste, energy and water demands

- How will the demographic of tenants be considered to accommodate the need for extra school places?

- No social housing available....

- Yet these structures go against Barnet's guidance of maximum property height. If this amount of extra housing is needed how can Barnet justify breaching their own guidance without making extra living space available to those in social housing.

Just like Willesden Green, all these proposals for housing/flats yet nowhere for them to spend their money on local community... the residents will spend their money elsewhere like West Hampstead or Queens Park. So much disruption will be caused by this for so long! We've just had all the disruption from the widening of the roads on Cricklewood lane! I am really against this!!!

Comment Reasons:

Comment: No no no no no! I object on the grounds of the traffic already being horrendous on Edgware Road. This development will increase the amount of vehicles and in turn will increase pollution in an already overly polluted area. Please think of children's lungs and people's health. Poor people suffer worse from bad pollution, any development will hinder them even more. There is no room for more schools, surgeries and amenities which more housing will demand. School classes are too big already and GP surgeries are difficult to get a quick appointment. Yes Cricklewood needs a coat of paint, but why would middle and high income earners (low earners will never own property) want to live in Cricklewood? The shops are generally run down, offering cheap shit, leave rubbish on the pavements. It's impoverished and needs funds pumped into it but NOT in a new development and an eyesore of a building!!!!

Tower blocks of 16 to 25 storeys right in the middle of Cricklewood would be completely out of scale with the surrounding area, which consists of mainly 2-3 storey buildings. It would completely dominate the existing housing that surrounds the proposed development. In addition to the visual aspect there is also the number of proposed flats in the development. Without a major improvement in infrastructure the increased density is far too great and will negatively affect the local community in lots of ways including schools, medical facilities, transport and parking.

Comment: This proposed development breaches the guidelines of many documents.

Document : Tall Buildings Update 2019

Nowhere else in the vicinity is there a Very Tall Building.

Ashford Court flats on Ashford Road, are 9 storeys. Just within the Tall Building category, but this is the nearest and already at this height seems out of keeping with its neighbours.

To suddenly have four incredibly bulky Very Tall Buildings in our neighbourhood shows a huge disregard for the local environment and its residents. None of the proposed Montreaux buildings are of a slim profile, all are extremely bulky and would create an overwhelming impact on the small residential streets. Totally out of keeping with the local environment. The impact on the skyline for miles around means our views and sight lines will never be the same again.

The transient overshadowing these huge structures will create is also devastating for the local residents. Whole rows of houses will have their gardens cast into shadows for a part of the day because of the height and bulk of these Towers.

Document ; Daylight Sunlight and Overshadowing clearly displays the many people that will be affected by loss of light and loss of skyline. The new residential development at Cricklewood Lane next to Virgin Active took away a considerable amount of skyline and is only "medium" in height. The Montreaux Towers will impact these same residents, now losing skyline to the East and South/ South/West. It is totally unacceptable that a whole neighbourhood be impacted so severely by overdevelopment within a small suburb. Montreaux want to build to three times the height of anything else we have local. It will be absolutely an eyesore for miles around. Degrading to the area. Local residents will suffer with increased traffic and increased pollution. Loss of daylight and skyline which is of paramount importance for good mental and physical health.

Final note - I sincerely hope all blocks will be portered.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Myself and neighbours strongly object to this development. It is not suited for the centre of cricklewood an already congested and socially deprived area already lacking residential amenity. 1100 extra flats, plus the bdwy development will bring 4000+ extra residents + cars to the area putting pressure on scarce resources. Cricklewood gets little support from the council. It is generally neglected. Streets are packed full of drunks, drug dealers and beggars. Transport overloaded, traffic gridlock , gps turning away patients.

To regenerate a deprived area it is vital to bring business units to the area and not more housing. Too much already. Businesses bring vitality and stimulate economic growth. Housing strains local resources.

The 4 tower blocks are too tall, dense, bulky and there is lack of green space. They will dominate the skyline being highly visible in Somerton Rd as well as well as a 3 mile radius around NW London and beyond. This will be an ugly landmark for London.

The height and modern design will be of detriment to the character of conservation area railway cottages as well as the grade II Crown pub.

This is a key development which could set a precedent for the whole of London. It is strange that out of all the 31 consultee organisations consulted not one has bothered to react/comment on this proposal (exception being 1 labour cllr). It seems that once again Cricklewood seems to be neglected by Barnet council, Lib Dems, Tory cllrs and all heritage, utilities, enviro etc who do not appear interested. This is seen as a residents' battle. Shame on these organisations who are supposed to help the local community but show no interest in this case this includes cllrs. Until these consultees provide some feedback this case should be put on hold pending further consultation. There has been inadequate consultation.

As stated by others this proposal as it stands will not regenerate the area. Local residents will lose out as a result through loss of amenity.

the height of the proposed height of the development is totally out of sync with the general area, will overpower local residences and will be a blot on the landscape for hundreds of dwellings.

it will place enormous stresses on the surrounding roads which are extremely busy and already almost at standstill at many times of the day the proposed development is far too dense.

I believe there is a lack of social housing.

The whole project smacks of developer greed. Incidentally, for whatever development is built, I recommend that developers are prevented from marketing the properties outside the UK to people not resident in the UK: I understand that new properties in West Hampstead have been marketed in India and China, which makes a nonsense of developers saying they need a high density to provide for Londoners.

- Apparently the impact on local traffic has not been taken into account. What car parking provision would there be for so many residents?

- For the density of population/area proposed, there seems to be no associated green space. This would seem to be an essential feature of any modern development taking into consideration the health of its residents and neighbours.

- No guarantee of affordable housing and no social housing at all.

I was surprised to see no mention of this development on the Barnet Council website. Is this because Cricklewood is seen as an area peripheral to its main interests?

The size of the buildings is way too high for the local area and totally out of keeping with the neighbourhood. The proposed density of 1000+ households (none of which I understand are due to be social housing or affordable housing) without any provision for adequate green space, parking, increased public transport, GPs and other vital services for day to day living and wellbeing is completely untenable. Such a development should not be considered by the council without such infrastructure and its costs being borne and guaranteed by the developers but I fear they only have short-term profit in mind and not the integrity and viability of their development and surrounding area.

If the site is to be developed why would any development be allowed that was higher than the development on the opposite side of the railway lines (Dairyman Close and Handley Grove)? That is the height that has always been deemed as appropriate for this area of Cricklewood and in context with the existing residential housing. Many of these properties have been sunk - built from a base below the surrounding ground level in order to preserve the nature of the low-rise area. Abandoning this care for the surrounding context now would be detrimental to all of Cricklewood's residents.

The B&Q site is already higher than the land/houses surrounding it. It is on a hill, so the height of any development on this site should be reduced to allow for this fact. The Co-Op site (1-13 Cricklewood Lane) has approval for 9 storeys - against the wishes of the community, but at least it is set back from the road with only 6 storeys at the roadside. Still too many for this area. The abhorrent development adjacent to Virgin Gym is 8 storeys high immediately adjacent to the road and it is on a hill - it sticks out like a very ugly sore thumb. It should never have been approved.

This site should be limited to buildings of no more than 5 storeys set within plenty of green space - something seriously lacking in the centre of Cricklewood. Barnet Council must put the needs of current Cricklewood residents over and above the profits of greedy developers or the short-term gain from S106 contributions.

Reject this application. Do not collaborate with this developer, and then accept a slightly reduced version of this application. This development is absurdly out of proportion with the surrounding area and the opposite of what Cricklewood and its residents need.

The PTAL rating is not fit for purpose as it does not take into account the ability (or lack therefore) to board services (trains and buses are already overcrowded) nor does it take into account the continuing traffic jams which buses get stuck in.

Post the Covid outbreak there is more traffic on the road - as people use private cars in preference to public transport (and public transport has far less capacity) and many more people shop online creating quadruple the amount of delivery vehicles. Car ownership is increasing not decreasing, people often have two vehicles - one used for their job in the gig economy (including delivery drivers), the other for family use. The loss of the local B&Q will also lead to more car ownership and car journeys as people will have to travel to garden centres further away.

Given that pandemics are increasing in both frequency and virulence (SARS, MERS, Swine Flu, Zika, Covid-19) and there is no guarantee of an effective vaccine being developed, it is unconscionable that any development of such high density would be considered in such an already densely populated area.

I object to this application in the strongest possible terms as it is a gross over development of the site and of the centre of Cricklewood.

Essentially, the developer wants to add the equivalent of ten streets' worth of residents, between 3,500 and 5,500 additional people, right slap bang in the centre of Cricklewood - an already densely populated area. As the site is so small, they propose to build these streets vertically: the height, bulk and massing of these proposed buildings will dwarf the prevalent Victorian and Edwardian residential architecture. It will overshadow the homes of thousands of current Cricklewood residents removing their light and their skyline, and will be hugely detrimental to the visual amenity for miles around. As a Lichfield Road resident for over thirty years, I do not want to exchange the sight of beautiful sunsets from my living room window for a view of nothing but these monstrous tower blocks.

Cricklewood Broadway and Cricklewood Lane are already seriously congested with traffic, often to the point of standstill, and peak time trains cannot be boarded due to overcrowding. This is before the, already approved but yet to be built Asda and Co-op site developments add around 1000 residents to the centre of Cricklewood. The new Brent Cross West station will add many more passengers to the already overcrowded slow train service, with no capacity to increase the number of carriages or the frequency of the service.

The pavement in front of Cricklewood Station has recently been narrowed by Barnet Council - who have prioritised junction widening to allow HGVs to go through Cricklewood to Brent Cross South, above pedestrian safety. Unfortunately, widening the junction has done nothing to reduce traffic congestion or traffic pollution, it has merely encouraged more use of residential roads as rat runs.

They should do a real render from all angles from varying distances to show this monster. I imagine no one from Montreaux lives within 10 miles of this so wouldn't be affected by the looming shadow of doom that stretches that distance on a summers day. Comment: There is far too much building in such an already condensed area. The councils are destroying any green land or wildlife areas. I understand that new developments are required but 25 storey high is insane and ludicrous - we are going back to the 1970's. Why don't you spend our money more wisely by renovating the thousands of derelict houses and homes that are already in existence rather than increase pollution even further.

Comment: This proposal includes a 25 storey building which is ridiculously out of keeping with the area. The site is already on a hill and any development above 10 storeys will totally dominate the skyline. It is also clearly overdevelopment in an area with limited public facilities. There are very few shops, schools, playgrounds, cafe in the area and only one train station which gets extremely busy. The local buses are also very full. There simply aren't enough facilities and transport options to accommodate a large housing project.

Comment: The fact they are even dared to submit such a horrific planning application shows how little they expect the council to protect Cricklewood. This monstrosity is not only visually out of keeping with the area, to put it mildly, but it is literally dangerous. 1100 new units. Without any supporting infrastructure. Where are the GPs and nursery places to match this increase in population? The developers might say that's not their problem, but IT IS the council's problem. Or at least it should be. The council must account for the fact the extra pressure on local services will lower quality of life for those already resident in Cricklewood. Those people are essentially having a developer extract financial value from them. The number of car parking spaces is stupid. About 10% with no allowance for parking on the surrounding streets. Cricklewood Lane is already extremely congested. The car fumes piling up there harm those living on the street. The solution offered here? Add thousands more people to the street whilst removing a slip road out of that traffic. Honestly not a single impact on services like the train station or the buses seems to have been thought through. Or perhaps they just don't care. They thought yeah Barnet council don't care about cricklewood we can push through a half baked series of tower blocks till they are choking on the fumes and we'll saunter off with millions. If Barnet approves this I will lose respect for all their counsellors and personally get out into the streets to make sure people know of this insult come election time. I will protest this being built on site and happily bring people with me to make it as absolutely difficult as possible to break ground on this disgraceful project. Putting any quality of life three steps below developers interests. I wonder what backhands and deals those at the council have been offered to even consider this.

It will bring an immense strain on all the local services, such as GP, dentists, transport and schools. Cricklewood Lane and the A5 The Broadway are already very busy traffic routes, serving both the local people as well as intercity travellers.

This project must be reduced in size and height, and include facilities and accommodation for clinics and other services. It can not impede the existing roads.

- a) The impact of the number and height of the tall buildings is completely out of keeping with Cricklewood which is Edwardian/Victorian in character.
- b) The density of the units is inappropriate in a suburban environment and will destroy the human scale of the area.
- c) The loss of light to the terraces will severely decrease the quality of life.
- d) The visual dominance of the proposed height and number of the tall towers and buildings will destroy the character of this part of London.
- e) the increase pressure on local resources, increase to traffic (already at breaking point) will make life unbearable for local residents.

While the principle of redevelopment to provide housing, community facilities and amenities is acceptable and welcome, the scope, scale, density, heights and massing of the proposed development are totally inappropriate, grotesquely out of scale and constitute a shameful attempt to brutalise the physical and social fabric of this community with off-the-scale overdevelopment.

What makes this proposal exceptionally deplorable is the missed, in fact deliberately ignored, opportunity to use the regeneration of a major brownfield site in Cricklewood to provide facilities and infrastructure for the wider community, such as green spaces, sustainable transport long-distance routes and connections, schools, play areas, and much needed genuine social housing.

What is immediately apparent is that the scale and range of amenity proposed, while it may meet the minimum standards, is clearly insufficient and inadequate for the needs of a new community of more than 1,000 residential units. The proposed development offers close to nothing to the surrounding area, while offloading outside its boundaries most of the new residents' needs for public services and amenities, and burdening the surrounding neighbourhood with all the extra pressures that this scale of development creates.

It is ironic that the Design & Access Statement can include in the summary a bullet point stating that the proposed development "contribute[s] positively to the local townscape adding legibility of the district centre and Cricklewood station" when what it actually proposes is an implausible group of overbearing blocks, looming large on their surrounding area, and severely detrimental to the character of the area.

A final point worth highlighting - and in no small part cause of the exceptional level of negative feedback this proposal will receive from the local community - is the lack of real, meaningful consultation. That is a consultation that starts with listening to the local community, before drafting the development brief, rather than the box-ticking exercise too often adopted of showing the proposed plans when they are 90% complete and only days away from being submitted.

As a resident of NW2 and a user of the local amenities, I strongly object to the scope, massing, density, and quantum of the proposed development. I urge the Local Authority to reject the proposal in its current form, and to take a more proactive role in the development and improvement of the urban environment for the benefit of the residents community through robust policy and quantifiable objectives set for major development opportunities such as the B&Q site in Cricklewood.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Introduction - Gondar and Agamemnon Residents' Association (GARA) is a formally constituted organisation of c100 members principally in Gondar Gardens and Agamemnon Road in Camden. Our aims are to protect and enhance our environment and surrounding neighbourhood. While we have appeared as a 'Rule 6' party at public inquiries, we only object to planning applications which would cause significant detriment to our environment and community. We object to this application as follows:

Scale and Impact - the proposed development of 1,100 homes in tower blocks of 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 and 25 storeys is simply too large for the site and the area. It would dominate the skyline, create unnecessarily dense housing and be completely out of keeping with both the immediate surrounding areas.

It is notable that the Design & Access Statement has almost no images of the tower blocks showing their full height or massing. The developer is clearly embarrassed to display the full extent of their proposals.

Affordable Housing - The 'Design & Access Statement' section 5.1 claims "the potential to deliver ... Up to 1,100 new homes (of which at least 35% will be affordable)". Not only is that below LB Barnet's target of 40%, but the claimed 35% conflicts with the developer's own assessment of affordable housing provision in their 'Socio Economic' report (Environmental Statement Chapter 14 sections 14.6.23 and 14.6.34), which gives under 30% affordable units and also explicitly states they would not achieve LB Barnet's target of 60% of those to be socially rented.

Loss of Amenity - the existing site provides valuable retail facilities and is well used by residents in the surrounding area, including our area of Camden. The loss of retail, particularly a large DIY store, would be detrimental to many people, would reduce employment and reduce associated visits to other shops in the local area.

Comment: This is an unsuitable development for Cricklewood. The scale of the proposed new buildings and the existence of tower blocks in an area characterised by 2/3 storey buildings is wrong. As I understand there is no provision for social housing and given the likely price of homes the scheme will not be helping the local area with its chronic shortage of homes for those on low income.

Cricklewood is already struggling from an inadequate infrastructure in terms of transport levels of congestion and pollution. To permit the construction of enough new housing which would bring thousands of new residents without planning for increasing schooling and medical provision as well as many more vehicles along confined roads is short-sighted and undesirable for the residents of this part of NW London.

Although the proposed development is within the boundary of Barnet, the area of Cricklewood is shared with two other Boroughs - Brent and Camden. Residents here will also be affected. Only a joint scheme is advisable and worthy of consideration, not an arbitrary decision by only one party.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I strongly object to this proposal which would cause very significant harm to the local community and wider area with no benefits addressing the local needs.

1. Detrimental impact on the character of the area. These 'very tall buildings' completely fail to respect the character and context of the surrounding area. Nothing for miles around is as tall or as dense as these 6 ugly, massive tower blocks of 25-17, 18 and 19 storeys. They are too tall, too bulky and overbearing and neither the materials or the overall design concept can in any way be said respect the context of very small Victorian 2 storey houses and the nearby conservation area. This degree of massing, scale and the density of 1100 units would also have a dominating and character-changing impact across a much wider area.

2. Adverse impact on local infrastructure

This is an area where traffic congestion is endemic and buses are already overcrowded /frequently delayed. Schools are already at full capacity and local GP surgeries already have lists significantly above the Royal College's 1800 patients/GP target before account is taken of recent approvals. A potential 2132 new residents would represent a huge increase in local housing density adding to problems of providing appropriate levels of amenity for new residents and giving rise to further stress on infrastructure, congestion and disturbance across the local area.

3. Benefits are not responsive to Local need

The proposed mix does not meet local Housing need despite the huge scale of the development and change in use. It has not been shown how these massive blocks would contribute to regeneration but loss of retail would clearly be detrimental. The 35% figure for affordable units is below the Barnet policy and the 60% target for socially rented flats will not be met.

Comment:--Part 1 of 4--

I write on behalf of NorthWestTwo Residents Association, a thriving Cricklewood residents association with members in Barnet, Brent and Camden.

We strongly object to this planning application. Many of our reasons have already been well expressed by our fellow residents' associations, our individual members and many others; we won't repeat them all.

We note that much of the application is speculative, conditional and non-committal ("should be provided", "should be designed"). It avoids saying that things will be done in accordance with the application, and the only assurances are that the development will be a fine thing for Cricklewood. These assurances are not well-founded and only bolster the impression that this developer is not committed to the project.

The application seeks to justify excessive height, massing and density by claiming the proposal solves trivial or non-existent problems.

Repeatedly, the 25-storey tower is described as an aid to wayfinding and legibility. No evidence is presented that people are having trouble finding their way. Central Cricklewood is highly legible with one main road, the A5, and one significant crossroads leading to Cricklewood Station on one side and Willesden Green Station on the other. Finding the way from Cricklewood Station is helped by Legible London signage and if finding the station were a problem, more signs could be provided. They would be cheaper and far less obtrusive than a 25-storey tower block. All this self-serving justification does is emphasise how starkly visible the development would be from all around.

The application makes much of providing a public pedestrian and cycling route between Depot Approach and Cricklewood Lane.

- It would not serve pedestrians coming to or from the Railway Terraces via Kara Way; that route is already blocked at Kara Way.

- It would not serve cyclists travelling between Cricklewood Lane and the A5 junction with Depot Approach. The concept fails to meet Transport for London's London Cycling Design Standards. Diverting off straight roads to cycle up and down sharp inclines and in amongst pedestrians fails to satisfy the core outcomes of directness, comfort, coherence and adaptability to increasing volumes, and breaches the principle that bicycles must be treated as vehicles, not pedestrians.

- It would bring pedestrians and cyclists into conflict with each other.

- The traffic and transport sections of the application make no attempt to evaluate likely use or benefits of this feature.

A pedestrian route would have to be provided so residents of the development can move around it, and it cannot reasonably be gated. It's not a community benefit and declaring it a cycle route only benefits the applicant.

The application criticises Cricklewood for not having a library or a town hall, but does not say it will rectify this or offer any other community facilities, with the exception of public access to the spaces between building plots. It calls one of these spaces a Town Square, though it would sit apart from the roads, and shows it with a brightly lit cinema or advertising screen shining into the windows of the residents across Cricklewood Lane (no assessment of this impact is offered).

The developers have no clear ideas on how the ground-floor commercial spaces would be used, and no strategy for encouraging appropriate uses, let alone allocation to develop the community. There is no policy to ensure they are let and do not remain empty as at nearby Fellows Square.

No social housing is offered and there is only an "aspiration" to provide the minimum of 35% "affordable" units. This fails to meet London's needs and it fails to meet the needs of our community. The application should be rejected for this reason alone.

The statement of community engagement makes it clear that the developers have not consulted Cricklewood residents so that our views will be taken into account. The statement ends with a brief series of rejections of every criticism, and the plans have not been modified to take any concern into account. That was not engagement.

The open space in the development is not commensurate with the increase in population, which would increase demand on existing and prospective open spaces. The application avoids quantifying this.

The impact of the development on its surroundings would be significant and adverse, as the report from Montague Evans states repeatedly. That report hopes that good design might somewhat mitigate the significant adverse impacts. This does not address the fundamental problem.

Whether 15-storey or 25-storey, these blocks are not appropriate for this area. The tallest buildings around or in process of gaining approval are 9-storey, and they are the exception. Most of the entire neighbourhood is 2-storey or 3-storey. Not even the blocks of Brent Cross South, at some distance, are so high. These blocks would dominate the area. They would be overbearing, far too high and excessively massive. They would be detrimental to the neighbourhood and incoherent with it. Barnet, Brent and Camden still have no joint plan or co-ordinated approach to Cricklewood's development, but it is clear that there is no prospect of similar development in the Brent and Camden parts of central Cricklewood.

The application states "There will be significant changes to some local views as a result of the regeneration of the Site. These changes and the visibility of the tallest elements on the Site signal the regeneration of the Site and the positive changes brought to the neighbourhood in returning the Site back into active use." The current residents of Cricklewood and anyone that comes to live on the site would have to live with the permanent changes this development would make and their direct and lasting impact on our lives. These tower blocks cannot be justified by being called a "signal".

Comment: This is a high density scheme which will have a detrimental impact on the neighbourhood, creating a dense cluster of tall towers, casting shadow over its low rise neighbours and putting a blight on their properties, with increased traffic which will be felt throughout Cricklewood, and particularly in the immediate area around the new development. Councillors on the planning committee need to make decisions based on planning policy not political decisions. We've had the example of the recycling plant relocation at Staple corner which was strongly opposed by the residents but no notice of these complaints were taken and still the scheme went ahead!!! So do not make the same mistake!!!

This massively high building together with the lower level buildings, is clearly over-development, towering over the residential areas taking away privacy from people to include that within their garden areas. Road congestion would likely spread over a large area causing multiple chaos together with public transport affected.

Obvious ramifications from such density.

Comment: This application doesn't seem to have been well thought through. It's all very good to build new homes but the scale and transformation this would bring to the existing residents is completely unnecessary.

A looming, overbearing tower over the railway cottages and nearby playground would change this area forever and not for something better. There is nowhere in the proximity that resembles anything like this, and I don't really want Cricklewood to be used as a petri dish to pave the way for similar developments elsewhere.

There is no social housing planned and only 35% affordable. This is utterly wrong.

Any new development should be car-free (except Disabled bays provision, should be 5% of all dwellings not 10%). This is 2020, there is a climate emergency and a pandemic going on that badly affects our lungs.

I have fed back to a previous engagement opportunity and mentioned the need to also provide inclusive space for non-standard cycles which are used by Disabled and cycling families, this doesn't seem to have been taken onboard. 5% of all cycling parking facilities should be inclusive.

I am really concerned that no discussion seemed to have taken place with Brent and Camden, both boroughs will also be affected by such high density buildings, with implications on local services and schools.

Comment: I am writing to protest against the proposed B&Q massive development of a 25 storey building in Cricklewood. This development is not in my immediate neighbourhood but on the route to my home, especially affecting the Hendon Way, Finchley Road, West End Lane, the A406 going up through Cricklewood into Kilburn. My house is sandwiched between West Hampstead/Kilburn/Swiss Cottage/South Hampstead. We already suffer from terrible traffic on all of these roads and I can only imagine the additional traffic that would be caused to these already constantly clogged up routes.

The planned development in Swiss Cottage, cunningly now called Swiss Cottage 'town centre' has been a nightmare plan causing massive upset to residents, traffic, air quality and only abated by the problems within the 'Essential Living' organisation. This tower block would cause permanent damage to the Swiss Cottage area & also spilling out into the surrounding areas. So I am well acquainted with the issues involved in the B&Q proposed development.

Planned development should ENHANCE existing areas with low level housing, local amenities including for families, singles, elderly & the disabled, and creating green areas with outdoor play and encouraging community/social activities, both outdoors and inside.

This is particularly important to prioritise the quality of people's lives, promoting access to amenities like schools, medical facilities, sports, children's play areas, areas for teenagers, for the elderly and the disabled to have social opportunities, and not throwing up further cheap properties that are only for short term profit and not quality of people's lives, never more than now due to the pandemic and the damage caused to our environment and the resulting climate change and loss of green areas, nature including plant and animal life, people's physical and emotional well-being and family cohesion.

We should follow, if not lead, other countries like Denmark, Holland, Sweden and Norway

Comment: I am writing to object to the proposed development at the B&Q site.

- 1) The size, height and density of the proposed buildings for the site are out of character for the area where buildings are mainly of 2-3 storeys. A 25-storey building would have a negative impact on and damage the character of the area.
- 2) The proposed development contravenes Barnet Council's own policy on tall buildings.
- 3) Local services are currently under severe strain. GP surgeries within the area would not be able to accommodate the additional number of residents. Trains are usually packed (pre-Covid). Additional people will have an impact on these local services and affect existing residents negatively. The proposed development does not address these issues.
- 4) Roads in the area are already congested. Traffic at the A5-Cricklewood Lane junction is often at a standstill. The 226 bus to Golders Green often abandons its journey before the junction. Additional residents would add to the congestion and to pollution in the area, making life unbearable to existing residents.

Comment: Firstly, population - the proposed number of flats is just too many for the size of the area and will result in a vastly overcrowded and densely populated Cricklewood. This is going to cause increase in traffic, congested public transport. Careful consideration needs to be given to impact on enough school places in the nearby area and the inability of the community to meet the increase in demand from the rise in population.

Secondly, Design. The development does not fit within the design and keeping of the immediate areas including Kilburn, West Hampstead and Golders Green. They tower over everything else and will loo sorely out place particularly as 25 storeys. As per HM Government's National Planning Policy Framework , developments should be visually attractive as a result of good architecture, layout and appropriate and effective landscaping; They should also optimise the potential of the site to accommodate and sustain an appropriate amount and mix of development (including green and other public space) and support local facilities and transport networks. These development plans are not in line to this framework and in some cases are in direct contradiction to the guidance particularly on support of local facilities which will become overwhelmed.

Lastly, daylight will be significantly affected for residents on both sides of Cricklewood lane due to the enormity of the number of storeys proposed.

I support the need to provide sustainable housing and increase the number of affordable accommodations in the capital, but the developers must consider a vastly lower number of storeys in line with other similar new builds in the area.

At present the traffic is often locked at rush hour, and the addition of 3000+ people will bring it to a total standstill. In addition the main tower is too tall for the area. The plans need reserved key-worker homes, access to Cricklewood station, a local bus hub, and infrastructure in terms of small local shops, surgeries, a community centre, etc.

Comment: This development is totally out of scale and keeping with all the buildings around it. If it were 6 stories high that might have been acceptable. But this will dominate the skyline and be very oppressive to a wide area of surrounding housing, affecting the quiet enjoyment of our homes and gardens. From a long distance away this development will dominate the skyline looking totally out of character and out of proportion. It will totally alter the atmosphere, character and nature of the neighbourhood. This density of housing will swamp all the local facilities and increase the traffic problems on Kilburn High Road.

This proposal really must be stopped.

Comment: Object on the following grounds.

'Character' is one of the main material planning considerations. Character relates to the design of the proposal and how it fits in with the property and street scene'.

'An inconsistent roof form that would look awkward in the street scene'. 'Bulk' 'Size' & 'Overbearing' other reasons for refusal..

These are not my words but words of council officials from your planning department who objected to myself and my neighbour building two storey side extensions just 325 metres from this site. The need to retain semi detached housing was another reason given.

I moved to Cricklewood in 1960 and I've seen many changes over the years, the vast majority I have supported and stated my approval sometime at planning meetings, but on this occasion I have little option but to lodge my objections bases on the same reasons myself and my neighbour could not build our extensions as we planned to.

I would appeal to all those on the planning committee to set aside any partisan bias and heed what the local people who live in this area would like to see on this site, and not to waste the opportunity to replace the existing ugly warehouse with arguably something even more uglier. I urge each and every one of you to reject this proposal.

These buildings are far too tall, will overwhelm a low-rise neighbourhood and concentrate a huge number of people in a very small footprint. Many thousands will be pouring into streets already jammed with traffic including buses which have to crawl up and down roads with only one lane in each direction. Where are the services and infrastructure coming from to deal with this huge influx? The building works themselves will create enormous disruption for years and make current residents lives much more difficult to say the least. Also has any thought been given to key-worker or social housing? All in all a terrible plan.

As a resident of the Cricklewood Railway Terraces, I strongly object to building this monstrosity of tower blocks on the current B&Q site.

A 25 storey tower block and other very tall buildings of 15, 16, 17, 18 storeys looming over the terraces will destroy 'the great sense of perspective within the area created through a combination of strong horizontal building lines, uninterrupted views through open areas and from the gentle change in levels towards the north-west' as stated in the Railway Terraces Conservation Area Character Appraisal which was reviewed in 2016 (paragraph 4.2 Views and Vistas).

I am shocked that the developer completely ignored Needham Terrace in their "ES Volume, Chapter 11: Daylight, Sunlight and Overshadowing" report. I have lived in the Terraces for over 12 years on the sound end of Needham Terrace, so the 25 storey and other very tall tower blocks in the proposed plan will definitely be visible and affect the sunlight available to mine and my neighbour's homes.

Montreaux dismissed the loss of light as negligible, a 20% loss of sunlight is very significant if your home only gets sunshine for half a day. Since the cottages were built on a north south axis following the railway, these gigantic buildings will affect our light tremendously.

These very tall towers will be seen from Needham Terrace, across the open space of the allotments, as well as from other terraces, yet they provided no illustration from Needham Terrace.

The developer also shockingly suggests that the development will improve "connectivity" between the terraces and its railway heritage - I cannot fathom how they came up with that one, but there is already 'connectivity'. Trains can be seen on the Cricklewood Curve. The Terraces community is very well aware of its history and doesn't need to be connected to an estate of tower blocks that have absolutely no relation to the Terraces, the railway or Cricklewood overall. How dare they attempt such lame reasoning!

Across wider Cricklewood, there are no other buildings of that size within 2 miles! Cricklewood is made up of small Edwardian and Victorian buildings that are 2-4 storeys tall. Unfortunately, the planning committee did approve a 9 storey building (reduced from 15) for 1-13 Cricklewood Lane and a 7 storey building (reduced from 9) on the Matalan site. Barnet's Tall Buildings Update 2019, page 5, divides tall buildings into 'tall' (8-14 storeys) and 'very tall' (15 storeys and above). Page 31 of the document, states that 6 to 14 storeys is appropriate for buildings in Cricklewood with 8 to 28 storeys being acceptable for the commercial/business buildings around the new station at Brent Cross and the North Circular Road. Cricklewood is NOT Brent Cross. Neither is it part of Brent Cross South, which is a mile away and where residential buildings will only be up to 15 storeys. The height of these very tall tower blocks could set a precedent for the Jewson's site, expected in two or three years' time.

Not only will this proposal be detrimental to the views around the Railway Terraces and Cricklewood, 3,000+ new residents will put enormous pressure on already overstretched services such as GPs (especially now that we lost Walk-in Centre), but it will also affect transport and traffic.

Cricklewood is already extremely congested and there has been very little consideration, if any, for this in any of the planning applications that have been approved in the time I've lived in Cricklewood. There will be an increase in traffic, even though there is no parking for residents on the site, other than for disabled. All vehicular access to and from the site (deliveries, services, visitors) will be via Depot Approach, increasing congestion and pollution on the A5, already one of the most polluted roads in London.

The description of Cricklewood Station as a convenient 'transport hub' next to the development is laughable. It is the only rail station in Cricklewood and serves only the City and South East London. There is no tube line and links to the West End, West and North London are by bus and are painfully slow and congested.

The local community has been ignored by Montreaux. They were told repeatedly by those attending their exhibitions and by local groups, that the buildings were too tall and too dense.

The plans and drawings are confusing, in particular the clusters of tall and very tall buildings. Montreaux is seeking OUTLINE planning permission, so the detail for each of the many buildings will come later, but the parameters for the development e.g. the HEIGHT and the DENSITY will be fixed if Barnet's planning committee approves this current application.

I beg of you to please reject this application outright - listen to local people, reduce the height and density and increase the green space.

2 They will substantially reduce sunlight to many residential properties.

3 They are of a bland basic design that will materially blight the area for as long as they stand. They will be visible as the main feature over a wide area, destroying views and the prevailing character.

4 The locality is already heavily congested and even with the imminent tweaks to Cricklewood Lane the additional traffic will cause gridlock, both during construction and ongoing.

5 If anything like this is to be built in the area, it must be in character, sympathetic and in scale, of a much reduced height comparable to existing properties - certainly no more than 10 storeys, not the massive excrescences planned.

It is too high, dwarfing the surrounding skyline. It would put enormous strain on already overstretched or disappearing local services. It would impact on roads and traffic - already overloaded in this area, as well as local transport. It is high-rise which is no way to expect people to live. Past experience has surely taught us that, with similar large structures such as those at Queens Park being demolished in favour of more sympathetic lower structures. I certainly do not object to developments to house people, but not on this massive scale.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This is a brazen opportunistic attempt by a developer to build an entirely unsuitable development in a site that could be developed to enhance the area and the community. They are putting profit before people and the area of Cricklewood.

The height of each tower is totally out of keeping with anything in the surrounding area: any buildings close to that height are in the centre of London. Such buildings in this area are totally out of keeping and unsympathetic to the existing landscape.

The shadows that these proposed buildings will cast will be a blight on people living in the area.. There is a nine story block recently completed at 1 - 13 Cricklewood Lane and was described by Barnet Planning Officer as "an appropriate barometer for future development". This is the acceptable line in the sand!

The whole development is too dense 1,100 residential units is unsustainable in that area: it will quickly become rundown and squalid. The area cannot support the cars that will associated with the residents. Pollution will increase as a result of increased road congestion from the residents and services.(Waste disposal/deliveries etc).

The people of Cricklewood and the surrounding area are going to have to put up with noise, dust congestion and disruption to their day to day lives for over 10 years: the proposed building time of the development.

This plan is wholly inappropriate and will ruin Cricklewood and its environs.

I urge the Committee to reject the plan.

Comment: This is a horrible overbearing development, benefitting only the greedy developers and the corrupt Barnet council. It is too big, too tall, too dense. It even turns its back to the neighbourhood as if it knows it is not wanted. There is not even the vaguest nod towards social or affordable housing. Where is the doctor, the nursery, the dentist or any other social necessity? What about overloading the local transport - buses and trains are already busy without another 1000 flats worth of extra bodies.

Bad idea all round, knock down B&Q if you must, but put in a park for local people who have no other local facilities. Sorry, I hear you say, no profit in that for anyone? Money ain't everything.

Comment:Objections:

1. The proposed development of up to 25 storey housing units on the existing B&Q site contravenes the policy in Barnet Council's own Tall_Buildings_Update, relating to the Edgware Rd Corridor. The published limit for cluster 10 (Edgware Rd - Cricklewood Lane) is between 1 - 13 storeys. This is, in itself, excessive but the siting here of 25 storey structures is absurd.
2. The proposed development site is for up to 25 storey blocks in Cricklewood town centre, currently populated by 2-3 storey housing and shops. As such, it is totally out of keeping with the area. Up to 25 storey buildings would overlook and overwhelm the neighborhood for several kilometers around the site and would totally transform the area, including adjoining parts of Camden and Brent.
3. The proposed development site does not include any social housing and would therefore be of no benefit to many of the more needing existing Cricklewood residents.
4. Current public services in Cricklewood are under severe strain. The proposed development will stretch services to breaking point. As an example it often takes 20-30mins to drive across the Edgware Rd - Cricklewood Lane junction, and the eastbound 226 bus often aborts its journey west of the junction. The addition of people and vehicles from an additional 1100 housing units would produce perpetual gridlock in the area and overwhelm stressed public transport, in addition to escalating the levels of pollution.

5. Without social housing, I suspect that in the current recession properties would be out of the price range of many local residents and units would be either remain unoccupied or purchased as long-term investments by foreign residents having no connection to the town; a situation of no advantage and much pain to the local community. will stretch services to breaking point. Comment: This proposal, although in Barnet, is right on the border and will have a profound impact upon Brent and also Camden and their local services.

The height of the buildings - the 25 story one in particular - is horribly oppressive and totally out of keeping with the character of the surrounding neighbourhood. It will dominate the skyline for miles around and is of no architectural merit.

The traffic in Cricklewood Lane and Cricklewood Broadway is already over capacity and highly polluting. Even if personal cars for residents of this proposed development are not allowed, they will have access to car-share vehicles, plus there will be countless delivery vehicles with online shopping heading there, never more so than in this Covid era.

The thousands of residents will need schools and GPs. Where is the provision for this?

This application is all about maximum profit for the developer, with zero benefit for the surrounding residents and local authorities. Quite the reverse in fact.

What additional public services will be created for more than 2000 people? Our NHS is already crippled in with the local walk in centre closed! Public transport is also at capacity for us residents.

25 storey Tower blocks are totally out of keeping with the 2 and 3 storey buildings in our neighbourhood. The impact of such tall, overbearing buildings on our light and space will be immeasurable.

This is gross over development and any application considered should be in line with the area and have current, as well as future residents, best interests in mind.

Comment: I oppose this planning application. I am objecting to this as an elected Camden councillor for the neighbouring Fortune Green ward.

This is an extremely large housing development which will generate all sorts of pressures on the local infrastructure and have a wide impact. This impact will also be felt in the adjoining boroughs of Camden and Brent.

I am particularly concerned that the application includes 105 residential car parking spaces and that the Illustrative Masterplan has provision for 110 spaces. This may be less than the number of spaces in the extensive car parking area on the existing site, but as a regular shopper there, it is obvious to even a casual observer, that only a relatively small proportion of those spaces are ever used. The comparison, therefore, is misleading.

The Environmental Statement Vol 1, Chapter 15 (Traffic and Transport) estimates that the total number daily car trips from the new development at 1,224. Inevitably, a significant proportion of these trips will be to and from Camden and Fortune Green ward in particular, via Lichfield Road-Westbere Road, Oak Grove-Fordwych Road and Cricklewood Broadway/Shoot-Up-Hill and the 'ladder roads' of Richborough, Ebbsfleet, Skardu, Rondu and Manstone Roads, plus Minster Road and Mill Lane.

Camden council is trying to curtail road traffic and car use and were this development to have been in Camden, we would have required it to be car-free. Curbing road traffic is an essential component of reducing carbon emissions and will also enable greater space for pedestrians and cyclists, something which has been made all the more pressing by the current coronavirus crisis.

Barnet council should require the applicant to make this development car-free, with a small number of car parking spaces only for disabled people. If the applicant will not do this, then the application should be refused. The days when housing developments had to come with large-scale car parking should be a thing of the past.

Comment: I strongly object to this development which will have a significant, and entirely negative, impact on the area and local community. In addition to the overbearing scale of the buildings proposed, no thought has been given to developing the amenities and infrastructure required to sustain a development of this scale. The lives of those who move into these flats will be negatively impacted by the lack of such essentials or the strain on school places, GPs, hospitals, etc, but so too will those of the existing community.

As residents of neighbouring NW10, we are particularly concerned that this development will turn what is already a bottleneck into an area where it is simply impossible to move. This can't be good for the environment, and the council should be concerned that adding so many flats in such a small space will have a huge and detrimental effects on the environment and on the air quality.

Whatever profit the council hopes to make from this will be used up managing the consequences of this development.

Comment: A development of this size is completely impractical.

I find it impossible to contemplate that a planning application of this size had been allowed to progress this far. The schools, transport and green spaces are already at bursting point. The Brent Cross South project is going to put considerable pressure on the existing infrastructure. Then there is the development on the Matalan site. Has all this been properly factored in? As it is the B&Q site is an indispensable short cut for traffic East- West. An alternative must be any part of the plans to redevelop this site. Cricklewood deserves so much better. Overcrowding like this is a retroactive step that cannot be allowed to happen in 2020.

It does not provide enough affordable housing

It would bring incredible strain on all local services and congestion on roads which are already over congested and there would be lack of parking. The need for green space and outdoor areas for such a vast number of residents would be inadequate and have a detrimental affect on health and well being. The high density would overwhelm the surrounding area and all local facilities. The plan for this area needs to be considered by all councils that are affected by such a major change. No thought about the future of the area has gone into this plan which seems to revolve around fitting as many homes as possible into this space which we know leads to social problems in the years to come. I object whole heartedly to this badly thought out plan for Cricklewood.

Comment: As a resident living only a few hundred feet from the proposed development, I strongly object to this planning application.

The application seeks to justify excessive height, massing and density by claiming the proposal solves trivial or non-existent problems. The suggestion that a 25 storey building (and 16, 17, 18 and 19 storey buildings) may be required for wayfinding and legibility is ridiculous. The development is in no way in keeping with the heights or style of other buildings in the local area (2 & 3 storey Cricklewood) and would only be a detriment to the current community dominating the skyline and reducing daylight. The fact that the developer has repeatedly referred to the "wayfinding" properties of the development highlights how out of keeping this development would be to the area. There is no need for a public pedestrian and cycling route between Depot Approach and Cricklewood Lane and no evidence to suggest that the developer has found otherwise.

The application recognises there is no Cricklewood library or town hall, but does not offer any other community facilities, with the exception of access to the spaces between building plots. It calls one of these a Town Square but it is unclear how this space could actually be used for the benefit of the community. The green spaces provided are not equal to the demand that will be created.

The developers have no clear ideas on how the commercial spaces would be used, and no strategy for ensuring appropriate uses. There is no policy to ensure they do not remain empty. Transport for potential residents of such a dense site is also not properly addressed nor is the impact on current residents. When I visited the open evening, it was apparent that there was no clear proposal to ensure that Cricklewood station would be able to accommodate such an influx of passengers from the development. The commuter trains stopping at this station are already full (ignoring lockdown) and it is often a struggle to board one.

Comment: This is already a very busy part of Cricklewood and the traffic on the Broadway and Cricklewood Lane is very heavy. The infrastructure of Cricklewood cannot support an enormous housing development such as this. The number of dwellings proposed will result in enormous pressure on the existing road system as well as on schools. The utter scale of the proposed development on this site is enormous and disproportionate to the roads and amenities of the area. There is a risk that the roads in this area will become completely gridlocked not just for the period of building but after too. There are no such high rise blocks in the area and if there is to be housing in this site, it should be low rise buildings that are in keeping with the surrounding areas.

The whole of the neighbourhood will be in the shadows of this enormous tower block. My family and I object in the strongest possible way to this overdevelopment.

Comment: I and my family are extremely concerned about the disproportionately large structures and level of density being planned for the project. The buildings are vastly larger than any nearby buildings, will overwhelm the neighbourhood and will irretrievably damage the historical character of the neighbourhood. Although it is understood that housing solutions of greater density than the neighbouring streets is required as part of a broader need to alleviate housing pressure in North London, the absence of any guaranteed social / affordable housing is in direct contradiction to this aspiration.

Furthermore, the huge increase in local population will put an intolerable strain on an already crowded and polluted road network. The impact on the lives of local residents does not seem to be taken into sufficient consideration in this plan, whether in terms of the overcrowding, additional pollution, the pressure on infrastructure or the pure visual blight of having such large buildings in a traditional 2-3 storey neighbourhood.

The scale of the works proposed is out of keeping with everything in the area and local resources cannot absorb this huge development without significant further investment and development. The site is already standstill traffic daily. The proposal is not serious in improving affordable housing for Londoners but on another scheme to make huge profits from stacking people a mile high. I would support a largely scaled-back project, with building sizes more in keeping with the local area.

Comment: Response from Dollis Hill Residents' Association

The Dollis Hill Residents' Association objects to this planning application for 1100 flats. The local facilities cannot support this additional number of households. For example, local people are already waiting too long for doctors' appointments and there will not be enough doctors available to meet need in already overstretched areas.

The density of the buildings is too high. Families will have insufficient space in the flats themselves and there is too little green space for recreation, with nowhere for children to run about safely. We have seen during COVID-19 that people need to spend time outdoors and socially distanced from each other. Many people who live in small flats have suffered mental health problems when there is not enough open space around the flat and not enough balcony or terrace space.

There should be no buildings of 25 storeys. We do not like this proposal including such high buildings, so that, if it is refused, slightly less tall buildings will be proposed. The buildings need to keep roughly within the heights of surrounding buildings and the local plan. These absolutely massively high and wide buildings will overlook nearby homes, cast shadow on them and block sunlight from them. They will create an overbearing high barrier to local people's views, in particular towards the green heights of Hampstead.

The traffic generated by residents, visitors and deliveries, which have increased since COVID-19, will cause gridlock in an area already full of traffic. Residents will want to park cars using more spaces than provided, whether for their own cars or ones rented for short periods, and will spill out onto local residential streets.

The development is for only private flats, missing the opportunity for a mix of much needed social housing with private housing.

Comment: I accept the need for good quality housing. I accept the need for a sympathetic development on the b&q site.

But the proposed high rise development will lead to great strain on the local infrastructure. The height and dimensions of the planned development would be excessive, creating an unmanageable increase in road traffic and demands on services including drainage. It would be our if keeping with the pleasant low rise nature of my, and tens of thousands of others', home area.

Cricklewood Broadway, cricklewood lane, chichele Road are already almost impossibly congested at many times over the week.

The developers have a need to 'develop' and earn their profits, but please, consider sensibly what is right here. This monstrous imposition on an already congested area is not socially responsible. It is not led by care for the community.

It must be a smaller, human scaled, well designed, pleasing to the eye addition to the residential town that is cricklewood, not an upsetting, socially divisive high rise with all the risks that attend high rise blocks historically.

Please don't.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I absolutely object to the proposed development. The application documents repeatedly talk about support for the application however the statement of community engagement reflects the truth that this development is out of character with the area and residents see the problems it could cause through being excessively high and dense. The siting of the highest tower in the most prominent position is justified by its relation and sensitivity to two-storey homes The Cottages when in truth it will be a dominant and inappropriate landmark for miles around. The maximum height of a recent application on the Brent side of Edgware Road tops out at 9 storeys - very high for this area.

Alongside any development there should be improvements to utilities to ensure sufficient capacity is available or new capacity is provided for the area it sits in. There is no such provision in this application. In fact in Cricklewood buses and trains already run to capacity with people unable to get on at peak times and traffic is consistently slowed or at a standstill at the bottleneck junctions at either end of Cricklewood Lane and Edgware Road. There is no proper provision of community space in the application - citing space is inadequate, funding and management need to be considered.

The developer says over and over that the scheme is well received and well thought out, but this does not make it so. In fact the many objections during the 'consultation' process and here show that it is not. While the London Plan may show Cricklewood as an opportunity area it should not be at the cost of community cohesion.

The overdevelopment will create additional pressure on already over-whelmed local health and transport facilities and other amenities. Given the current health situation and recent safety issues with high rise towers, surely the sensible option would be to build flats or houses with sufficient internal space and external green spaces rather than allowing the developers to profiteer by building high and shifting the on-going costs and problems to the locals - this is especially true as none of these flats will even be social housing.

Comment: I have lived opposite B&Q on the other side of Cricklewood rail station for many years. Although that car park area is good to have because there is no other car park space in the area, it's too much space as it's never used up. Living so close to B&Q is really convenient as there's no other hardware store within walking distance in this area. I know that our area really needs redevelopment but this is too extreme. This is a mostly working class area with a serious lack of social housing. The proposed tower blocks will not be social housing. It will be too expensive for anyone in the area to afford and will only draw people in from more affluent areas and push poorer people out. This is not how you fix the social housing issue. Another thing is that the tower blocks are ridiculously high for the area. Cricklewood Broadway is a mostly flat built area, and on the platform of the station you get to see a lot of skyline, something that is disappearing very quickly from London areas. As a photographer I've been documenting Cricklewood over the years and I've managed to see and photograph amazing sunsets from the station platform. It's special moments like this that make me glad to live here and more so now during lockdown. The sun sets directly behind B&Q which will be forever lost if this tower block is built. Daylight is so essential for your mental and physical health. Being able to see the skyline should not be a luxury for only people who live on the 20th floor of a 600k flat. If these tower blocks are higher than 3 stories, they will overshadow the entire area, cutting daylight for many people and will become a depressive and overwhelming eyesore. Please reconsider the development and don't build these high-rise tower blocks. They won't solve the problems this area has and it won't benefit the people that need help the most.

Comment: This development would dominate Cricklewood. The much loved NHS walk-in centre was recently closed by Barnet and I often have to wait over a week to see my GP. There isn't the social infrastructure to accommodate 1,100 more flats and I can't see a plan from Barnet to extend local services.

We don't have a functioning library service in Barnet. I recently left sixth form for university and had to travel to Willesden Green or West Hampstead to use their libraries for study space. Again, there is no obvious extension of local library provision for existing residents, let alone the new ones.

This development does not address the needs of the local area, nor does it reflect the desires of the community. We need a library, a community centre and more social housing. This proposal ignores all 3.

The buildings are obviously too tall and would impact on residents living near the site, but would be seen from quite a distance away.

The design is not appealing. As the tallest block is a "way finder" so people can find Cricklewood Station (something I never knew was a problem), it is appalling that the developer didn't design something more unique than any other soulless development.

It is clear from the developer's clear disinterest in taking the views of the community on board that this is nothing more than a development designed purely for the benefit of the developer.

To be clear, I am not attached to the B&Q building and the enormous carpark is a waste of space. However, that doesn't make this plan acceptable either.

Comment: My objection to this development, first of all, is that it seems to me to be fundamentally misconceived. It seems to be based on the idea that whereas Central London must be preserved as "Green City London", Outer London/Suburbia can (in places) be subject to massive high rise, non-green development. The danger is that You'll half-kill the goose that lays the golden egg, expecting it to carry on happily as usual. London AS A WHOLE is Green City London. The creation of the marvellous centre has been complemented by the the brilliant bringing together of previously divorced small towns and villages in ways which somehow manage to preserve bits of woodland for one thing or another, parts of sheep and cattle fields for all sorts of sporting and recreational use, ditto arable lands. As you know, there are hundreds of books that tell you all about the ways in which this was done over the decades. Over the centuries! Please don't ignore them. Even now the helicopters don't just come down to look for miscreants. They come down to look at the Lovey gardens. Ours may not yet be one of them but we're working on it.

If you cannot do anything better, then please halve the heights of each of the proposed new buildings. And get in more trees and shrubs! But how can you do this? I believe I am right in saying that several years ago the various bodies responsible for Brent Cross redevelopment made it clear that after everything had been done there would be 22 acres of EXTRA green space. Incredible! But what is the point of that if this scheme (it would seem) would take us in the opposite direction? Here is a better plan altogether: use the B&Q space for fewer dwellings and more trees, and bring in the best garden cities in the world OUTSIDE London. Preserve Greater London as a green city and make use of that 90 per cent of England /UK which is not under concrete with the greatest garden cities in the world. We have the builders and the garden specialists to do it.

Comment: My objection to this development, first of all, is that it seems to me to be fundamentally misconceived. It seems to be based on the idea that whereas Central London must be preserved as "Green City London", Outer London/Suburbia can (in places) be subject to massive high rise, non-green development. The danger is that You'll half-kill the goose that lays the golden egg, expecting it to carry on happily as usual. London AS A WHOLE is Green City London. The creation of the marvellous centre has been complemented by the the brilliant bringing together of previously divorced small towns and villages in ways which somehow manage to preserve bits of woodland for one thing or another, parts of sheep and cattle fields for all sorts of sporting and recreational use, ditto arable lands. As you know, there are hundreds of books that tell you all about the ways in which this was done over the decades. Over the centuries! Please don't ignore them. Even now the helicopters don't just come down to look for miscreants. They come down to look at the Lovey gardens. Ours may not yet be one of them but we're working on it.

If you cannot do anything better, then please halve the heights of each of the proposed new buildings. And get in more trees and shrubs! But how can you do this? I believe I am right in saying that several years ago the various bodies responsible for Brent Cross redevelopment made it clear that after everything had been done there would be 22 acres of EXTRA green space. Incredible! But what is the point of that if this scheme (it would seem) would take us in the opposite direction? Here is a better plan altogether: use the B&Q space for fewer dwellings and more trees, and bring in the best garden cities in the world OUTSIDE London. Preserve Greater London as a green city and make use of that 90 per cent of England /UK which is not under concrete with the greatest garden cities in the world. We have the builders and the garden specialists to do it.

Montreaux's proposal also intends massive development with no social housing and only an "aspiration" to provide "affordable" housing. These blocks are overbearing in an area of two-storey and three-storey shops and houses

As we are also on the Edgware road with railway tracks and residential areas behind there is also nowhere to integrate with the volume of new residents effectively.

Comment: Cricklewood lane is very crowded as it is, building such a big residence complex will make the area unliveable with a disproportionate increase in traffic and pedestrians. The Thameslink train station runs trains every 15 mins into the city, increasing the number of residents drastically with such a big housing plan will make the trains to run far-far beyond capacity. They are way to busy in peak hours anyways.

This development of this size is just not suitable for the area. It only reflects poor planning on behalf of the builders and the council. It will stifle the area and make Cricklewood lose all its charm. I very strong object the development of such a big residence complex. The local residents will not benefit from it in anyway.

Comment: Why after Grenfell are towers being built with so many floors, shouldn't the height be determined by how far the fire brigade can reach. The towers will loom over the whole of cricklewood, where nothing is really more than 2 or 3 floors, probably cutting light to different areas at various times of the day. There is already a great deal of traffic in that area and always a traffic jam as the Edgware Road is a main route to and from the M1 and Brent Cross. The extra traffic would be a disaster in the making. Are there enough schools, doctors, dentists to cope with huge amount of people living there. Also there are no big supermarkets any where near.

Comment: I object to this application. The proposed buildings are too tall. The housing is too dense. The proposed development would be highly detrimental to the local area and especially my local neighbourhood. The exceptionally tall blocks would be unsightly and block light and obscure views. Large areas of sky would be obscured. The large number of units cannot be supported by the local infrastructure. The roads are already congested. Trains and buses are already crowded. There is not enough schools, doctors or dentists for so many additional homes. The additional numbers will add to pollution and be detrimental to the environment. There is no capacity for this huge number of additional homes in such a small area. I ask that you refuse this application.

The prospect of having any residential building of 25 storeys is also completely out of keeping with the area. Traffic is bad enough as it is in Cricklewood. The 25 storey building is far too high and will block out light etc. I wholeheartedly object to this plan being given permission to build. Comment Reasons:

Comment: I strongly object to this development which is totally out of keeping with the character of Cricklewood. I live in the Railway Terraces, an 1880s conservation area, and the architecture in the rest of Cricklewood is predominantly Victorian and Edwardian. These are small scale buildings, and have a neighbourly feel about them. So to build a cluster of tower blocks, with one 25 stories high, is totally out of character. Barnet's Tall Buildings Update 2019 states that 6 to 14 storeys is appropriate for Cricklewood and even that I think is pushing it. This would totally change the feel of the neighbourhood. This is our home, not somewhere to pack in as many homes as possible to fulfill a housing quota.

Equally important is the enormous pressure 1100 housing units will put on the local infrastructure which is already stretched in all directions - GPs, transport and other facilities. Despite the limited parking onsite, there will be a huge increase in traffic from so many households, increasing pollution on the A5, which is already one of the most polluted streets in London. It and Cricklewood Lane are gridlocked most days, as it is. There is no tube station and buses add to and get stuck in the polluted roads.

This is one of several major housing developments going up in the Cricklewood area which will change its neighbourhood character forever. Do we even need them when demand for small flats is falling?

I ask you to turn down this application. Although the site could do with development, this is an opportunity to add to the character of Cricklewood not destroy it.

Because building such a high building at next to residential conservation area, it will disturb everyone.

surrounding area is only low houses, suddenly having this high building is not match the area at all.

We all see the building as disturb object to cut our sky and sun.

Please re- plan to have flat to have less than 10 floor

This would add further pressure onto the already busy A5, following the other disaster of a development towards staples corner.

The buildings are not in keeping with the area, would stand out like a horrendous stain on nw London in disgusting money grabbing exercise to cram the most people and take the most money out of the site without investment in the infrastructure to support it like most developers do.

All take, no give.

Comment: I am totally against this ridiculous situation in Cricklewood and the taking OUR local stores which is just about, within the boundary of BARNET which has many large open spaces. It is completely obvious what your intentions are! Could Barnet council have chosen a site any less on the edge of their boundary line to Brent if they tried? It is almost farcical!

To build 1,100 flats in such a small area and removing shops we rely on, makes no sense at all. Additionally, high rise flats have proven with Grenfell Tower, that placing financial gain before people, is not the way to go. This situation is far from ideal and has safety and environmental ramifications. This already densely populated area will not be able to cope with this extra influx, the local area has low level Victorian dwellings, we do not have high rise flats and we do not want high rise flats. we want our shopping areas to remain and this project terminated.

Is their intention to spoil our local shopping area and pollute our area further? You can clearly see, our area has fewer green spaces than BARNET, yet you want to encroach on us further, leaving your green spaces intact. Build this monstrosity within Barnet proper NOT on our boundary lines.

This idea is an attempt for Barnet to make money, the structure will be 1,000 money boxes for Barnett !!!!

Rethink the location and build it one of Barnet's many spaces & near one of your stations. These flats are not wanted and will not benefit our local area. They are seen from miles away and spoil the views and landscape.

Hopefully BRENT COUNCIL are against this proposal, as they are trying to make Brent healthier & people conscious borough. Lets hope Barnet isn't paying Brent off

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I am totally against this ridiculous situation in Cricklewood and the taking OUR local stores which is just about, within the boundary of BARNET which has many large open spaces. It is completely obvious what your intentions are! Could Barnet council have chosen a site any less on the edge of their boundary line to Brent if they tried? It is almost farcical!

To build 1,100 flats in such a small area and removing shops we rely on, makes no sense at all. Additionally, high rise flats have proven with Grenfell Tower, that placing financial gain before people, is not the way to go. This situation is far from ideal and has safety and environmental ramifications. This already densely populated area will not be able to cope with this extra influx, the local area has low level Victorian dwellings, we do not have high rise flats and we do not want high rise flats. we want our shopping areas to remain and this project terminated.

Is their intention to spoil our local shopping area and pollute our area further? You can clearly see, our area has fewer green spaces than BARNET, yet you want to encroach on us further, leaving your green spaces intact. Build this monstrosity within Barnet proper NOT on our boundary lines.

This idea is an attempt for Barnet to make money, the structure will be 1,000 money boxes for Barnett !!!!

Rethink the location and build it one of Barnet's many spaces & near one of your stations. These flats are not wanted and will not benefit our local area. They are seen from miles away and spoil the views and landscape.

Hopefully BRENT COUNCIL are against this proposal, as they are trying to make Brent healthier & people conscious borough. Lets hope Barnet isn't paying Brent off

I think they should be limited to 10/ 15 stories more in keeping with the area. and incorporate additional green space and parks for Children. I am also interested in how the traffic will be managed on the intersection of Cricklewood lane / A5 / and Chichele road , as this is already very busy during peak times.

Thanks

Cricklewood is already a crowded place with traffic and people and this development will make the congestion worse. There is not enough facilities for this development such as doctors surgeries and schools. Our local parks will become even more crowded. There have already been many many additional houses and developments in the area and we DO NOT need another huge one.

Comment: I object to the new development on the current B&Q site to be built 25 storeys high and with up to 1100 residential units. I request that the absolute tallest to be 10 storeys and 400 residential units. The reason for these I will list below:

- Anything above 10 storeys will look horrendous in an area of mostly 2 to 3 storey high houses and the tallest of the new development next to Virgin active being 7 storeys high. It would further create a large looming shadow over many neighbouring houses in the wider proximity when sunlight is already rare and working from home being more common now than ever
- the buses going down the A5 are already overwhelmed at rush hour and having 1000+ new flats would bring an unmanageable amount of additional commuters
- the A5 and Cricklewood Lane already have a very high amount of traffic that even trying to pass by bike at times is impossible and dangerous. There simply is not the capacity for more residents with cars and shoppers coming by car.
- On top of that the increase in pollution caused by 1000+ more residents and shoppers would be a threat to many young children and the elderly in the area

I beg you to not allow these way out of proportion development to go ahead in its current form and not to allow anything other than numbers stated above

Will have impact on kids going to school and locals in general using public transport. Impact on amenities, schools doctors , dentists , and local businesses . Comment: Whilst I appreciate the major investment and much needed renovation coming to the area and specifically to this part of our much loved neighbourhood, I must confess that I am at extreme unease with the proposed plans, this will make the area extremely dense, local traffic is already a nightmare with the junction of Cricklewood lane/ Cricklewood Broadway being a scene of frequent accidents and road rage due to the poor layout/ capacity of the road.

The plan looks to bring much needed light to the area as well as a breath of fresh air to the unused car park space by B&Q.

Bringing down the proposed number of flats and height of the towers would be an opinion changer, not only does a 25 storey building look horrendous amidst the local area, it would also increase the density of the area unsustainably, the station would also take a great impact, with the current trains already being overloaded during peak hours, an additional strain on these would be extremely negative to the locals.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I object to this development for the following reasons:

- The proposed development is completely out of character for the neighbourhood and will tower above all the surrounding streets, setting a irreversible precedent for further ugly high rise blocks to be built.

- The scale of this number of new households will put an unbearable strain on local facilities especially schools and medical centres. Most local schools are full to capacity and there are already several other new developments also increasing the number of children needing school places.

- It presents a huge increase in the pressure on to already busy local transport systems / roads, if built, creating more demand for already overcrowded public transport, more congestion at bus stops, increased traffic and pollution.

- I attended the consultation and raised the issue of the works traffic and huge danger this represents to pupils using local roads to get to Hampstead School and several primary schools. It did not seem as if this has been considered at all - despite hundreds of school pupils using the B&Q site as a cut through daily and many more using adjacent streets. What reassurances are there that works traffic - of huge lorries that are known to present specific danger to children/cyclists - would not be delivering on site at school drop off/pick up time?

- The proposed flats are mainly small 1 bedroom flats with no outdoor space - the model that the pandemic has shown us is the least healthy/desired housing model.

- There is no social housing - despite the massive local need - and any 'affordable' flats would invariably be completely unaffordable to local families/individuals on average wages for this area. So the development operates as a vehicle for gentrification and destroying the local community through only offering housing that is unaffordable.

Comment: These residential buildings will be a massive looming eyesore to the local areas. The designed tower blocks are not in keeping being bulky and designed out of character of the area, including the recently built block of flats on Cricklewood Lane.

There will be an impactful loss of light with the shadow falling. On close examination of documents there is significant shadow fall. I also do not feel the documents have looked at the wider area impact.

Cricklewood Broadway and Cricklewood Lane are already busy and over used highways, adding additional 1100 flats, when statistics state 40% of residents will have one car and 12% have two or more cars. 100 to 110 parking spaces is inadequate parking, and will harmful impact on local roads forcing residents in to immediate areas which are already having parking issues.

At a time when people looking for outside space when modern construction means small rooms and living space, these are completely inappropriate.

There is no social housing, which is desperate in the local area. 'Affordable' housing will be unaffordable to most people, leaving housing empty.

Schools, nurseys and doctors in the local area are already oversubscribed. There is no infrastructure put in place to support these, with already other developments happening in the area, this will put on further pressure.

So what does Barnet Council do? Build a garden on the roof! I don't object to that, but also build one at street level. So what should the developers do:

Ensure enough GP surgeries, schools, make the blocks a traffic free zone except for the disabled and most importantly cut down the height of these buildings.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Dear Sir / Madam

It was always inevitable that the B&Q Broadway Retail Site would be redeveloped into a mixed use development. However, what is far from inevitable is the size and scale of the permitted scheme. The permission that is being sought is wholly unrealistic as it would in my opinion be massively detrimental to the area, and for the following reasons:

First and foremost, the proposed maximum height of 25 storeys is not in keeping with the height of any buildings within the Cricklewood area and would be a lasting blot of the landscape if this scheme were allowed to proceed. Yes, there is a completed development a couple of miles up the road in West Hendon, but to compare West Hendon with Cricklewood is chalk and cheese. They are two entirely different areas in character and in outlook and just because Barnet Council granted permission for the West Hendon development does not mean that they should be allowed to do the same in Cricklewood.

The proposed height would as I am sure you will appreciate not only dominate the skyline but studies have shown that it will also significantly and adversely affect daylight and sunlight available to many of the residents living close by.

Our quality of life has already been tainted by your recent approval of plans to create an aggregate plant along the Edgware Rd with an inevitable marked increase in traffic. The traffic situation in Cricklewood, not only the A5 but most adjoining roads is already bad and by granting permission for 1100 housing units (3000 or so new residents) will make a bad traffic scenario intolerable. Moreover, it would place enormous additional pressure on already over stretched local services. The tall towers proposed will do nothing but destroy views and character within the Railway Terraces where I live

Permission has been granted to the Co-Op site for 9 storey buildings and 7 storeys for the Matalan site which is appropriate. Please ensure that the same applied to B&Q. Regards, Jonathan Kustow

Comment: The public realm space looks great. Cricklewood needs a public space with bars, cafes and restaurants that you can sit at away from the road. This public space is even more of importance given you are widening the junction opposite chichele road and are building an asda opposite the bingo.

If you think about a pram test, there is no where currently for parents to take their babies and this provides some options. Many of the comments are from people who don't even live in walking distance to cricklewood or are those who live nearer West Hampstead and have decent public amenities. So in this time of covid, and low traffic neighbourhoods, hold in mind people who want to walk somewhere away from the road. The proposed public space offers this and is reminiscent of granary square, kings cross.

After this I'm sure more will come and the skyline will look awful. There isn't enough social housing in the building. London is full of empty flats and buildings, we don't need anymore. We should focus on housing the vulnerable and homeless in our society not creating more investment opportunities for the rich.

Comment: The proposed building application is without precedent and grossly out of scale with the surrounding environment. Apart from visually blighting the landscape, there is an existing council guideline for buildings to be no higher than eight levels in this area, which is being cynically challenged. The large number of proposed living apartments exceeds local available infrastructure. This is not just with regard to existing roads, notably unaltered for decades but also facilities that include schools and GP surgeries, furthermore the local and well-stocked B&Q hardware store will be lost.

Comment: I live about 500 metres from the proposed development and have done so for over 40 years. I strongly object to the proposed development on several grounds. These high rise blocks will dominate and ruin the skyline of Cricklewood which is in the main a 2-3 storey area. It will be overbearing and out of keeping with the surrounding buildings. In addition, no social housing is included and this is a critical requirement in London with its homeless problem and high rates of rent arrears. The junction and traffic lights at Cricklewood Lane and Lichfield Road is one of the worst traffic bottlenecks in Northwest London and a development of this size and scale will make this problem much worse. I can't envisage how the site can access Cricklewood Lane without creating traffic chaos on that road during the development itself and afterwards due to the high density of residences ie 1100. The local infrastructure will not be able to support such a large development without placing severe strains on local schools, health centres, transport and retail. I object to this development on the strongest possible grounds.

Comment:*The towers are too high and will block my view of the sky and the amount of light I receive especially on rainy days. It is estimated that we will get 20% less light than we currently have.

* There are no buildings of this height in the vicinity and they will dominate the skyline and buildings of this high are not recommended by Barnet's Tall Buildings legislation.

*The population will be denser and the streets are already impassable at times with the number of people walking on them.

The traffic is already impossible and we will be having increased lorries as it is due to the new waste facility, more visitors and delivery vans to the new tower blocks will make life even more difficult.

* Health wise the Pollution will levels are likely to increase and our high road already has one of the highest levels of pollution in London.

* The types of stores:- gardening, DIY and discount stores on the site are vital to the economy and to the lifestyle in cricklewood. They mean that local people do not need cars to buy plants and and supplies for DIY projects.

*The medical centre we had has been closed and now there will be more demand for the few facilities that we have.

B and Q does more for the community than this ever will.

Any major developments must put the community first. If no social housing is included then there must be some public space for things such as music, Arts, youth projects and education, the business that support them.

A project of this size should be building a new cricklewood not just one thousand flats...

Comment: I strongly object to this development. The buildings are too high, 1,100 apartments are too many and it is so completely out of keeping with the character of the neighbourhood that should these flats be built, the present Victorian and Edwardian street scene will be destroyed. There are no very tall buildings in Cricklewood.

I have lived in the Railway Terraces, adjacent to the proposed plan, for over 30 years. This is a missed opportunity to develop housing and green space in a sustainable way for people who need proper homes. High rise flats with shops below have long since been discredited as not being compatible with caring community ethos. It is essential for the health and well being of the people of Cricklewood, that the planning committee do not grant the request to build blocks of flats from 15 to 25 storeys high. The site is on a hill; 6 storeys would be high enough.

With regards the Railway Terraces, from the various Barnet documents I've read, as a conservation area, our skyline and views in and out of the terraces should be protected and very tall buildings should not be built next to us. Both have been allowed. Cottages at the south end of the terraces will lose sunlight, as will Kara Way Playground which serves all Cricklewood children. The playground will be dwarfed by these towers, lose light and will be more polluted because there is only one entrance in and out of the site for all vehicles, Depot Approach, which runs alongside the playground to the A4. Cricklewood is one of the most densely populated and polluted areas in London. Adding, what, in effect, will be another 3,000 population will overload local transport, surgeries and facilities.

My final point is that, though many attended the public meeting and talked to Montreaux reps, about the excessive height and density, no changes have been made to the plans. Residents' requests were ignored.

I request the planning committee discount the consultation and reject this application.

Comment: This is a huge, unsightly development that is not without keeping for the rest of the local area. It is too high compared to other buildings locally at 25 floors - we are a local community here in NW2 not Canary Wharf. It will loom over all other homes and premises in the area and we will have no other choice but to see it from every vista possible. This is a perfect example of cramming as many people into an area as possible without considering the social, psychological and environmental impacts. The increased traffic that such a large number of flats will bring cannot be supported by the current infrastructure. There are few plans to increase the capacity of other local services such as doctors, schools and amenities.

Comment: As resident of the Railway Terraces Conservation Area I object to this proposed development at the B & Q site on key technical points, each already mentioned several hundred times.

Today, Oct 8 2020, there are a mere 5 public Support votes and over 1,000 Objections: meaning less than .005% are in favour of this project- and that percentage will continue to dwindle towards .004%, perhaps even lower.

An overwhelming 99.5% majority of local residents repeatedly object to this vainglorious project one or more of these five reasons:

- a) The impact of the number and height of the tall buildings is completely out of keeping with Cricklewood which is Edwardian/Victorian in character.
- b) The density of the units is inappropriate in a suburban environment and will destroy the human scale of the area.
- c) The loss of light to the existing (and especially the Railway Terraces C will severely decrease the quality of life.

d) The visual dominance of the proposed height and number of the tall towers and buildings will destroy the character of this part of London.

e) the increase pressure on local resources, increase to traffic (already at breaking point) will make life unbearable for local residents.

How are the local roads going to deal with the extra traffic brought on by this and the BX South development? That would not have been considered in a 'realistic' way. Totally OBJECT.

Comment: I wish to express my strong objection and concern about several aspects of the above planning application.

1. It is entirely out of keeping with the current nature of both the Terraces and this area of Cricklewood which is largely comprised of small scale (2-4 storey Victorian/Edwardian buildings, in contrast to the proposed 15-25 storey buildings.
2. The 1,100 proposed housing units will equate to ~ 1,000+ additional residents, putting pressure on overstretched local services including GPs, traffic, public transport etc.
3. The taller towers will be clearly visible and seriously impair views in and out the Terraces conservation area and lead to a ~20% loss of sunlight.
4. The plan doesn't appear to provide any social housing or little/no provision for families.
5. Finally and worryingly the wishes of the wider local community have been ignored despite discussions of our concerns at the public exhibition and consultation.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Having, along with so many others, objected strongly to this development already, I am very disappointed to see that the developers have not consulted with Cricklewood residents or taken residents' views into account, in any fashion.

They blithely reject the well-founded criticisms of their development and have made no modifications. This lack of engagement is unacceptable, in this day and age.

The vague promises and assurances attached to this application that do nothing to reassure.

Again--as is clear to anyone glancing at this planning application--this development should not even be mooted for Cricklewood. It is completely incongruous in a neighbourhood that is mostly is 2-storey or 3-storey homes and businesses. It is ludicrously high and extensive, utterly incongruent, and detrimental to the neighbourhood.

There is no precedent for this. Despite much attempts by the local people, Barnet, Brent and Camden have failed to produce a co-ordinated approach to development in Cricklewood but there is no prospect of similar development in the Brent and Camden parts of central Cricklewood--or in any comparable town center.

And the developer shows no commitment to the social housing much needed in our area, with only an aspiration to provide "affordable" units at the legally required minimum. For this reason alone, this application should be rejected for this reason alone. But the commercial part of the plan is equally flawed, with no plan and no sense of community needs.

Once again, I like so many of my neighbours and our associations, strongly object to this planning application. Please throw it out now.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Many residents of The Groves have objected individually, this objection is specifically from the residents' association which represents Yew, Ash, Elm and Oak Groves. The groves are 2 and 3 storey Victorian houses in the Cricklewood town centre. Many have been converted to flats but still retain their low height.

As a residents' association, we have engaged with the developer and note that none of our concerns raised at our meeting with them have been addressed. We were very clear that the height was completely unacceptable and no effort has been made on their part to work with the community to come up with a locally acceptable plan.

This proposal is too large in both height and density. It would dominate our roads and the wider community. Our homes and gardens would be directly overshadowed. The design is unsympathetic and makes no attempt to blend in with the area or contrast it in a way that is architecturally interesting. The Grade II listed Crown public house sits at the edge of The Groves, this development would keep it in shadow and destroy our otherwise low-rise Victorian high street. Our neighbours in the Railway Terraces conservation area have themselves objected, and we support their concerns that this development would harm their historic homes.

The application attempts to solve local issues which we simply don't recognise. The tallest building is described as a "way finder" to Cricklewood Station. As very local residents, we have not noticed that many have trouble finding the station. The developer also highlights that blocking the driveway to B&Q would solve a local problem. Whilst we acknowledge that there is a problem of cars cutting through from Depot Approach to B&Q, the downsides of this plan far outweigh the cut through issue. It is very likely that the widened junction of the A5 with Cricklewood Lane will go a long way to solving this issue without the need for overdevelopment on the B&Q site.

References made to Brent Cross Regeneration should be discounted. This area is separate from the outline BXC plan. It should be noted that there are no buildings of the heights proposed for the recently rebranded "Brent Cross Town". Our nearest example of a 25 storey building is in West Hendon which is over 2 miles away. Any implication that this development has local precedence is untrue.

This development is simply too dense. 1,100 flats on a site smaller than The Groves is unacceptable. Even with most houses converted into flats, The Groves has no more than 250 homes. We worry about the quality of life for future residents of this development should planning be approved. There is simply not enough space nor local amenities to support this intensification of the local population, our GPs have long waits and trains are full at Cricklewood Station.

We urge the committee to reject this application and look forward to something far more sensible coming forward.

Comment: This development application is ludicrous.

- The number of units and particularly the height are far too high for the surrounding area and would totally dominate the local skyline. The style of the development is also very out of keeping for the area.

- Traffic congestion and pollution are already a daily problem in the area and this development will only exacerbate these problems. Public transport options are already very overcrowded.

- Significant loss of sunlight and privacy for those of us in the south end of the Terraces. This is a major objection for me.

- The developers have clearly ignored the views of residents at the consultation. Arrogant.

Please reject this absurd proposal.

I also just found out that out of 1100 proposed properties, NONE are designated social housing. Is that even legal? We're in a social housing crisis, we don't need more overpriced flats in the area. Cricklewood NEEDS accessible housing for lower incomes. Brent and Barnet don't have enough housing.

The tallest block in this scheme, should not be any higher than the scheme approved for 1-13 Cricklewood Lane, which includes a 9-storey tower. This scheme is not in keeping with the character and scale of the Victorian buildings in Cricklewood town centre, which range in height from 2-3 storeys. The huge towers will obscure daylight and overshadow large areas of Cricklewood and beyond. I am extremely worried and concerned about the effects this proposal will have on local traffic, which is already very congested. The scheme will produce high demands on local infrastructure and services, which are already over-stretched. Local bus routes and Cricklewood Thameslink station will be unable to cope with additional demand with present infrastructure. This scheme, if approved will harm the conservation area railway terraces.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The planned development is totally out of place in Cricklewood. Too high and too dense! They will dominate the skyline, and be out of character with the rest of Cricklewood (presently 2, 3 & up to max 4 storeys high).

Cricklewood is already 'full' of residents, in the shops, on the pavements, and having to queue to get into a GP surgery. Where will all those new residents, up to 3000! fit in? Also, there is no underground here to transport people, only buses (already very slow due to traffic congestion) and the train-line (3 trains/ hour at best).

The building of high-rise tower blocks in the 50s and 60s were later considered a big mistake, and many were torn down. It causes too much density of population and also alienation of individuals living literally 'on top of' each other, but with no natural meeting-places. Loneliness and mental health issues will increase.

And, as has become more evident with the Covid-19 pandemic, outside / green space is paramount for peoples mental health - where are the parks and green spaces, already sparse, to accommodate an additional 3000 residents in Cricklewood???

Comment: I have lived in Cricklewood since 1989 and am appalled that this development is even being considered by Barnet Council's planning committee. Where is the Council's regard for creating a sustainable environment for human habitation? Where are the lessons learned from past decades of high rise developments of this nature? The outlined plans appear to be a cynical attempt by the developers to squeeze the maximum profits out of the minimum investment. I am privileged to be a resident of the railway terraces adjacent to this proposed development and have enjoyed the benefits of living in a neighbourhood where neighbour rubs shoulders with neighbour in a way which can only be attributed to the architecture of the estate. Members of the council's planning committee must be aware of how this pleasant environment has evolved and should be able to adapt the model to future developments in Cricklewood while providing a pleasant neighbourhood for new residents. High rise proposals of the nature of the B&Q site are not the answer.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I would like to object to the plans as outlined in the planning application documents to develop the B And Q Broadway Retail Park Cricklewood Lane London NW2 1ES by Icen Projects / Montreaux, reference 20/3564/OUT.

My main argument to object strongly to the plans is the lack of any serious engagement with the local community.

A building project of this scale of magnitude has the potential to have a severely negative impact on the neighbourhood and to magnify the negative consequences of gentrification, including increased cost of living for current residents, displacement, a changed character of the neighbourhood and a reduced sense of belonging. These problems can be addressed by employing community-centric neighbourhood planning, an approach which strongly weighs the input of current residents as they are important stakeholders. One key element is to first consult local communities and then implement their input during the design process.

In contrast, Inceni/Montreaux has imposed a pre-designed plan on this neighbourhood. Even though in a later stage, Icen has organised consultations with local community groups, the design plans have not been adapted to take into account the needs of the local community, among which are the following points (mentioned in the Statement of Community Engagement):

- Height

- Traffic congestion
- Social infrastructure
- Maintaining the Character of Cricklewood

For my argument, I refer to the report published by neighbourhoodplanning.org, found under this link: (<https://neighbourhoodplanning.org/toolkits-and-guidance/how-to-consult-with-your-community/>) .This report, titled "How to consult with your community?" recommends guidelines on "running successful community engagement and consultation exercises".

In conclusion, I request the council to reject this application in its current shape.

Comment: I object as a resident of Camden living in close proximity to the proposed development. On immediate view of the drawings, it is clear that the height of the development is out of keeping with the area and incongruous in an area of 2-3 storey buildings. Neighbouring properties will lose their light.

The development proposes 1100 new dwelling units, and yet there is not one unit of social housing and very little provision for affordable housing.

It goes against Barnet's planning frameworks for tall buildings.

I further object as it will put a severe strain on local infrastructure, medical, schools, water supply etc.

Further, the development will create an increased level of traffic which will adversely affect the already crowded roads in the area which are already under strain.

Despite there being a real need for it, there is no social housing planned for this development so it will have no benefit to people in the local area. It also will create immense pressure on already overstretched local services including medical and transport. Traffic in this area is already heavily congested. Is there going to be a Section 26 contribution towards increasing local public transport? This development will not only adversely affect residents in Barnet but also over the border in Brent. This is completely inappropriate for this area and should be rejected and rethought.

- Request to speak at committee

Comment:- Access in the event of a fire in a tower block is totally inadequate, as the only access for the London Fire Brigade and emergency vehicles is from the very congested Edgware Road, which is subject to frequent road works, being dug up, temporary traffic lights, long tailbacks eg Thames Water, as the volume/weight of traffic is too much for the old drains and pipes

- This application is for OUTLINE permission so sets the parameters eg height, massing and density, not the detail, the amount of green spaces, which will no doubt be reduced later to save costs
- There are no very tall buildings in Cricklewood. Barnet's planning committee approved 9 storeys for 1-13 Cricklewood Lane and Brent approved 7 storeys for Matalan
- The nearest very tall building (27 storeys) is in west Hendon, 2 miles away
- Barnet's Tall Buildings Update 2019, page 31 states that 6 to 14 storeys is appropriate for buildings in Cricklewood with 8 to 28 storeys being acceptable for the commercial/business buildings around the new Brent Cross station and A406. Cricklewood is NOT Brent Cross.
- Cricklewood is not part of the new Brent Cross Town, which is a mile away and where residential buildings will only be up to 15 storeys

- The B & Q site is not on the A5 corridor, designated by Barnet as suitable for very tall buildings
- The height of the tall tower blocks could set a precedent for the development of the Jewson's site
- Transport links are inadequate. Cricklewood Station is described as a convenient 'transport hub'. It only serves the City and South East London. There is no tube line, bus links elsewhere are slow
- The impact on the Groves will be catastrophic. They should have been made a conservation area years ago.
- Montreaux workshops in 2019 with Barnet officers and council members 'showcased' 4 options, gaining support for this one and so giving Montreaux the confidence to ignore local people's views, making a mockery of the public exhibition/consultation process

IMPACT ON RAILWAY TERRACES CONSERVATION AREA

- This development will not preserve or enhance the character of the conservation area as required by the Planning (Listed Buildings and Conservation Areas) Act 1990 Section 72.

- Barnet council's review of the Railway Terraces Conservation Area Character Appraisal in 2016 states under para 4.2 Views and Vistas 'There are some important views into and out of the area. The views will be destroyed if the development is visible in the terraces.

- The many tower blocks, visible in the terraces will DESTROY 'the great sense of perspective within the area created through a combination of strong horizontal building lines, uninterrupted views through open areas and from the gentle change in levels towards the north-west' to which the Character Appraisal refers.

- No illustration has been provided showing the impact on the view from homes in the middle of Needham Terrace, only from the allotments, which Montreaux states incorrectly are outside the conservation area.

- The terraces were built on a north south axis, following the railway line, so houses facing the B&Q site only get half a day of sunlight. A 20% loss of sunlight is very significant if you only get sunshine for half a day. Montreaux dismisses this as negligible.

- Montreaux suggests the development will improve 'connectivity' between the terraces and its heritage - the railway. There is already 'connectivity'. Trains can be seen on the Cricklewood Curve. The Terraces community is very well aware of its history and doesn't need to be connected to an estate of tower blocks to be reminded!

Comment: I welcome development of the Cricklewood area and support the concept of development of this site. However, object to these plans because;

- the buildings are way too high. They are out of character completely with the area and will be an eyesore on the skyline. Not even the new large apartment complex North of Cricklewood has 16 to 25 storey buildings and it is ridiculous to propose these over our high street (Cricklewood Lane). 6/7 storey buildings would far far more sensible.

- there is no / inadequate development of local services (health care, schools and nurseries, Cricklewood train station, bus stops, etc) to cater for two to three thousand additional people living in the area

- there is no / inadequate development of the local high street and public spaces (Cricklewood Lane and Cricklewood Broadway). These streets are already crowded at busy shopping times and this many additional people living right on top of these streets will intolerably worsen the pedestrian congestion (and given Covid-19 situation, it would be a potentially unsafe increase in pedestrian congestion - which is not dealt with at all in the planning application)

- the traffic impact on the Cricklewood Broadway has not been addressed. Traffic is horrific there as is, and the intersection with Depot Approach/Ashford Rd will see all vehicle traffic into/out of the development area further congesting the Cricklewood Broadway - and has not been adequately addressed. The impact on traffic in the area will be dreadful.

Comment: Dear Barnet Council,

I appeal to your fairness and objectivity when considering the matter of this proposed development. We understand the need for housing, but this proposal exceeds what is appropriate and desirable for the plot or for the area, and I think it would create intolerable over-housing of individuals in an area not suited for that many people to reside.

I am an owner/resident at 7 Campion Terrace right next to the site. The thought that this proposal could get planning permission is horrific. I assume that you have visited the site in person to experience the reality of what is intended and the impact it would have on the surrounding area. If not, I beg that you do so.

HEIGHT - the proposed height of the blocks range from 3 to 25 storeys, most at the higher end of that spectrum. That is too high and will be overwhelming and intimidating as well reducing light particularly where I live. It is likely that the present sunrise would be blocked and sunlight be reduced to 2 hours a day on that side. Cricklewood would be dwarfed. New build residential blocks in the area are no higher than 9 storeys high, and that height has won approval on the Co-Op site on Cricklewood Lane. Please, please, please do not approve anything higher than 9 storeys.

DENSITY - the size of the proposed blocks would create 1100 residential units which is too many - complete overdevelopment. The pandemic effect is already highlighting the problems with high rise high density dwellings with an insufficient infra structure to support them. There are not enough GP's in the area as it is. Transport and parking have not been properly considered. Traffic in the area is already and has been for a long time a very difficult issue.

Since Montreux "consulted" the local community they have not altered or amended the detail. You represent us, we rely on you to listen and to hear us. This is not unreasonable or hysteria. You are all we have, to reduce this plan to human size. Please hear us.

Many have objected about the height of some of the buildings and their overbearing issue. I agree with this but not the height in it self but the design does nothing to soften the profile appearance of the building. The applicants architects could address this issue easily by breaking up the hard edge of the blocks.

Such softening of the skyline makes the building more interesting against the sky line etc. In the olden days builders used stone detailing /spires /gargoules etc. In more recent times as seen on Cricklewood Broadway the chimney pots/parapet walls/decorative ridge tiles /dormers/and detailed front parapets to break up the outline of the buildings even though the whole street is the same height etc.

Please do not record this as a objection to the height of the buildings - I support intense development if the design is compatible and improves the appearance of the area. The current design does not

When I have lived next to high rise (Kings Rd, Chelsea), it is apparent that the flats and surroundings decline quickly - maintenance is poor, and crime and bullying rife. This is part of the nature of high rise developments in my view, and despite best intentions they are hard to maintain (Kings Rd Chelsea, for instance, is hardly an impoverished area, but the high rise, some 20 storeys, were a constant ill-maintained eyesore. In the current climate (esp post Grenfell) I have no confidence that due care will be taken either for the building or its residents.

Furthermore the look of a 25 story building is a permanent blight on the look of the area, and inappropriate compared with other local buildings

Comment: Cricklewood is an area of low-built residential housing and shops. Nearly everything is below 5 storeys. I cannot even contemplate how much it will change the area if these huge tower blocks are built. They will tower over the whole community for miles around and are completely out of character.

Cricklewood is also crowded already. There are lots of HMOs and not a lot in the way of amenities for the people living here. All the development is removing shops and amenities and replacing with more housing. B&Q is a great resource - there are very few other places nearby with a garden centre.

The current green space in front of the site (and no doubt a lot of other roads and buildings) will be cast into shadow and not be a pleasant area to use. I am concerned that the towers will create a wind tunnel effect.

The roads are already very busy. Cricklewood Broadway/Kilburn High Rd/Edgware Rd is often gridlocked with the flow of traffic into town or to Brent Cross and/or the North Circular/M1. So many new residents are bound to bring more cars to the roads and necessitate more buses and taxis. Adding an extra station isn't an answer as it doesn't help with trains being overcrowded - especially further down the line, eg at West Hampstead, once all carriages have been filled with the new people.

Comment: I would like to express my strong objection to this planning proposal where consultation with the community in Cricklewood and Kilburn was negligible and where the proposed design does not attempt to harmonise with other buildings and landmarks; and where little provision for social housing or for any of the tenants in this development is evident.

I am supportive of increased densification as London needs homes and housing but this should not come at the expense of existing communities; especially where the views of local communities (individuals and groups) have been ignored; and would put existing public services, that are already strained, under more pressure.

The height of the towers is problematic for the community as it will lead to a diminishment of the existing architecture and public realm and impact on wellbeing through loss of sunlight, excessive densification, and insufficient amenities for residents (old and new).

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I STRONGLY OBJECT to this development.

It's far too dense for the size of the site and includes too many too tall towers. Even one is too many. 25 is way too tall and goes against Barnet's Tall Towers policy.

There's not enough green space for the number of residents they are proposing.

It's not in keeping with the local area which is made up of low rise 2-3 storey housing.

I can not believe that there is no social housing in this proposal. How can that be allowed to happen? And there's not adequate affordable housing. We need more family homes with gardens, not flats!

This junction is already snarled up with traffic. With this development and the others proposed around the area, will cause further chaos and danger to the crossings.

My last point is the loss of light and privacy I will suffer from such a tall tower overlooking my garden. I live 0.5 miles from the site, these towers will be visible from my front room and will block my evening light for half year!

This development needs rejecting until they can propose something more in keeping with the local area and meeting more of the needs of the local community with affordable family homes and social housing.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This development is very out of keeping with the character and the environment surrounding it. In my view it is an overdevelopment and existing and future occupants would not have good living conditions in and around the development. The development is extremely damaging the local character - huge high rise flats which are highly visible from over 300 meters away affecting many homes in the area. It is completely out of character. It is also a substantial number of new dwellings that would create noise and disturbance - not only during the construction phase but afterwards. After seeing a projection of the proposed development on current photographs it is absolutely an overbearing development. Moreover, this community does not have the level of amenities to support such a large development with such a huge number of dwellings - without additional amenities (and where would they go?) this development is wholly inadequate for future occupiers and would put undue stress on the existing population. It is extremely high with a view to cramming as many people in that small space as possible to maximise profit for the developers - this will put additional pressure on parking, transportation etc - this area is already poorly served by transport with only have the Thameslink and bus routes serving the area. However, the roads are extremely crowded already. If there is even a fractional increase in road traffic the whole area would be gridlock and the roads around there are already unsafe - this development without a significant change in road planning would exacerbate the problem. The development is also clearly only for profit. There is no social housing and the flats are barely affordable. The demographic in the area will be changed - is this a gentrification for the purpose of making money for developers? If so, it is an irresponsible development - there should be a good level of social housing or affordable housing which seems to be lacking. It is also unclear how there would be adequate outdoor space which would be sufficient for this level of increase in dwellings - there would need to be substantially more play space for children etc.

Without substantial changes to the suggested development I think it would simply be extremely detrimental to the community, to those living in the area and for the character of the area itself.

This amount of people moving to the area will impact the whole Services structure. They'll have to think of electricity & gas and water supply. Demand for internet. Not only that but also the view of the area for neighbors is going to be quite affected. There's isn't any social housing taking into consideration in this project. Please stop this project

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I believe this proposed development is grotesquely out of keeping with the general area of Cricklewood which is predominately 2 or 3 story buildings. I do not object to the development being built, but it is the scale which is too extreme. My main concern is the height of the buildings which tower over the modest area of Cricklewood, whereas a height of 10-15 stories would be more suitable instead of 25 which is not suitable for the area to say the least.

I also have concerns over the increased levels of traffic in the area as even now Cricklewood Lane often reaches a point of gridlock due to it being one of the only routes to cross the train-line - this many extra properties will only increase the traffic in the area whilst also increasing air pollution. Loss of light is also a concern as we are in an area where light would be compromised, this also backs up my point of a reduced height. Parking is another concern as we live nearby and have a private parking space yet other people use our development to park for free. An increase in residents for this area in this proposed development would result in a huge problem for parking, and the area would be overrun with cars. As I said, I agree a development in the area would be good Cricklewood but I hope you take on our genuine concerns as residents as we want to continue living in a great place. Thanks.

It is in keeping with the trend towards high density development on brownfield sites, but out of character with Cricklewood. It is a wilful attempt to impose something on us that better belongs in the Paddington Basin or down on the Thames around Canary Wharf.

Comment: I strongly object to the construction of this building.

1) Cricklewood is already extremely overcrowded and the two crossroads by B&Q are perilous already, whether on a bike, as a pedestrian, or in a car. There is not enough space for the buses or shoppers or local residents as it is, adding a 20-story block full of people to the roads will mean Cricklewood is a 24/7 traffic block, polluting our roads and making it dangerous for the numerous local school children who move around here after school. There are not enough shops, schools, hospitals, parking spots etc. to fit all this people.

2) It does not fit with the area at all. This would be the only building of such height in a large area of North West London - it's completely out of character with the neighbourhood and will be an eyesore for miles around.

This plan is rushed, dangerous and completely opposes the will of the neighbourhood.

Where will the 2000plus residents motor cars be accommodated. Where is the social housing in the development, which is badly needed in this area.

We already have a massive development underway at Brent Cross which is adjacent to this proposed development enough is enough.

What benefits are the developers offering to the local community and the borough, None whatsoever. Is this proposed development subject to any section 106 agreement with the planning authority to allow for compensation due to the massive negative effect. There should be at least 5 to 10 million pounds offered for community needs by the developer

Comment Reasons:

Comment:OBJECTION: The proposed development is totally disproportionate in size and style for the centre of Cricklewood. Having worked in Canary Wharf, I am aware of the environmental impact of very tall buildings on the surrounding area and their creation of a micro climate and strong winds in the spaces between the buildings, which is highly undesirable in the residential area of NW2 where the new buildings are proposed.

Many of the tower blocks built in the east end of London since 1960 have subsequently been demolished in recent years as they are difficult to maintain and unpopular with residents so have been replaced with low rise alternative residential provision.

The recent example of the tragedy of Grenfell Tower is another consideration and, even though the construction material will no doubt be different, the looming presence of these buildings dwarfing the surroundings will have a negative impact on the psychological well-being of the population.

If high rise buildings are an imperative for south Barnet surely there is space in more predominantly brownfield and industrial areas that would benefit from development of this nature close to the North Circular.

As the owner of a cottage in the Railway Terraces conservation area of Needham Terrace (which is conspicuously missing from the plan as the houses not the roads are named there so Needham Terrace is missed off completely due to the road being appropriated to Johnson Terrace) there will be a hugely detrimental effect on the amount of sunlight we receive, a lack of privacy and general diminution of quality of life for the residents. All this due to the greed of developers who will metaphorically sh on our doorsteps and leave us to live with the consequences.

I therefore object in the strongest terms to the approval of this plan.

The size, height and density of the building is completely out of keeping with the area which are mostly Victorian Edwardian two to three storey buildings.

Shadows will be cast across the cottages where I live and some light would be reduced.

The density of the proposed apartment would mean a big increased population in a small area which will overpower the local amenities and the increased traffic will create havoc in the already congested inadequate road system.

Comment Reasons:

- Request to speak at committee

Comment: The excessive height of these blocks would

- overwhelm the centre of Cricklewood,
- put central Cricklewood into shadow for considerable parts of the day
- block light and outlook to neighbouring homes
- impinge on the privacy of many local residents

It would

- be overbearing and obtrusive
- increase the pressure on local public transport that is at or above capacity during the rush hour
- the additional traffic generated will increase congestion on already congested local roads and would compromise highway safety
- put pressure on local parking (residents around the St Agnes area have noted increased parking on their streets since the far smaller Woodley Road development)
- place excessive stress on the local facilities - the local infrastructure would not be able to support such a large development without placing severe strains on local schools, health centres, transport, retail and water, sewerage & utilities. Whilst the application suggests improved facilities and attractive landscaping this is speculative without any guarantees that the public realm aspects of the development would be delivered.

The density of the proposal means that the flats are inadequately sized. The small rooms and living spaces proposed would be detrimental to the health of its residents.

The development would loom over the mostly two/three story housing in the wider Cricklewood area and

- is unsympathetic to the late 19th and early 20th century architecture in Cricklewood, neither blending in nor contrasting in a sympathetic way

- the local neighbourhood would be spoiled by this development

No social housing is offered and there is only an "aspiration" to provide the minimum of 35% "affordable" units. This fails to meet London's needs and it fails to meet the needs of our community.

Comment: I am staggered at the overwhelming, out of keeping, size of this proposed development. I understand the need for more affordable family homes in the area but that is not what is being proposed - the massing is totally out of all proportion for anything in the area.

Most of the area is 2 or 3 stories high, so 15 or 25 would be overbearing and dominate the area for miles around. I strongly object to this development as a result.

Comment: I strongly object to the scale and height of this proposed development. The number of flats and height of the buildings will overwhelm the local environment and services, especially primary healthcare. Why is there absolutely nothing here for existing residents - a purpose built healthcare centre, or public open space, enhanced playground or social housing? The developers seem not to have considered the local community.

Buildings of this size (and the building process) will surely have a detrimental effect on light, air pollution and utilities (water, electricity, phone signals) for residents of older, smaller properties. Also, given the momentous events this year and projected fall in prosperity worldwide, it would seem sensible to reconsider a project of this size and scope and re-submit plans once the future is a little clearer.

Comment: When I looked at the first drawing on page 6 of the proposal and saw 7 storey buildings, I thought that here was a developer who was considering the surrounding area. I was wrong. The height and mass of the proposed development is too overpowering and out of keeping in this area of small terraced houses.

In addition, as mentioned by many, there is no inclusion of facilities to support such an increase in the local population. Health Centre? Community hall? Nursery? No; although it is good to have an outside community space, "to support events" - and might work in the summer but what about the rest of the year? Similarly, "play elements throughout the development" and the small playground are fine when it is not cold or raining. These gestures seem cosmetic and designed to appease.

I regularly take the bus from the Finchley Road down Cricklewood Lane to B&Q. The traffic on this route is frequently at a standstill. With the planned number of flats and additional movement of people, I can't begin to imagine the consequences on traffic in the surrounding area.

Add extra housing at the B&Q site it will become totally insupportable. Such high rise blocks are totally out of character to the rest of the area. No matter how many street cafes and people walking their dogs the architects show on their drawings this has all the features that suggest in a very few years this will be a sink estate. You can't create a community this way. You create mental health problems, isolation and loneliness. This is a ridiculous development where the motivation of short term profit overrides every other concern for people who live in this development or those who already live nearby.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This development should not be allowed to go ahead for many reasons.

To cram so many people into such a small footprint by building high rise towers will be a blot on the landscape of Cricklewood. The high towers will overshadow the existing properties in the area and make an already crowded area worse.

There is no infrastructure to support so many extra people in the area such as schools, doctors, dentists.

The already over crowded streets will be inaccessible with all the construction traffic and extra vehicles should this project go ahead.

Public transport is already over crowded and adding more people to the equation will overwhelm the system especially as there are other large developments on the A5.

If a development was to be built in that area, the height of such a development should not exceed that of the tallest buildings surrounding it.

I hope that these comments and objections by many other residents will be taken into consideration and that the planning for this eyesore is rejected. Barnet are building on the edge of their boundary with Brent and it will affect Brent residents much more than it will those of Barnet.

Comment: If it were to go ahead, this development will remove yet more valuable resources from the community (supermarket, homeware shop, b&q etc) not to mention that ballroom that was already shut down for some years now. If there are 1100 units, that means AT LEAST 1100 extra people moving to the area, meaning many more cars on already incredibly busy roads in Cricklewood, and so many more people on crowded trains and buses commuting to work. Many more people within a small area needing access to already overcrowded schools and oversubscribed GP surgeries. So if you plan to build high rise blocks of flats on that site, do you also plan to build and invest in the rest of the infrastructure needed to support having that many extra people in the area? Potentially it could be anywhere over 2000 extra people who need access to public resources. Instead there will just be a shadow cast over the community, with more chockablock traffic and even less chances of being able to see a doctor when you need to.

Comment: This development would dwarf and overshadow everything in an area of mostly 2/3 storey terraced and semi-detached housing, and would be a completely inappropriate eyesore in this location. It would have a detrimental impact on the historic area of the Railway Terraces. It is already difficult to shop in Cricklewood, as driving there or parking are virtually impossible, and buses are subject to long delays because of permanent traffic congestion on the A5 and Cricklewood Lane. Travelling north on the A5 we can see that the Barnet boundary is already an appalling mess of recent overdevelopment, especially in West Hendon and Colindale, and Cricklewood should not be added to this list.

Where is the social housing? What this area needs is small blocks of social housing flats, mixed with some private houses and flats for better social cohesion.

Comment: As a resident of the Railway Terraces for 42 years, I am appalled by this application. It will be horrific for the Railway Terraces Conservation Area (RTCA) and will detract from Cricklewood as a whole. I am unconvinced by the pretentious statements - 'will provide connectivity', 'a key node of high-quality regenerative development', etc. It is too high, too dense and public services will fail to cope with the c.3,000 new residents that 1,100 units bring.

It will be overbearing on the RTCA's tiny cottages, will put them in shadow and dominate views within and out of the RTCA. It will compromise the Terraces' regular rhythm of parallel roof and chimney lines - a main reason for its conservation status. It is disappointing that Barnet has worked with the developer to produce these plans, which fail to preserve or enhance the conservation area as national policy requires.

The impact on other parts of Cricklewood, especially the Groves, will be similar. Open skies, currently one of the joys of living in Cricklewood, will be blotted out by the extreme height.

It contravenes Barnet's recommendation of 6-14 storeys for tall buildings in Cricklewood (Tall Buildings Update 2019). Citing tall buildings along the A5 corridor as precedent is invalid. The site is not on the A5. Brent Cross Town is a mile away. West Hendon, Colindale and Burnt Oak are even further away. Cricklewood's identity is low-level Victorian/ Edwardian/'30s suburbia. There is no precedent for buildings over 9 storeys; few exceed 5.

The public transport assessment is misleading. Cricklewood Station is not a 'transport hub'. It serves only the City and SE London, with 3 trains per hour. The tube is 20 minutes' walk away. Links to the west - even to other parts of Barnet - are by bus, and painfully slow in clogged traffic.

Consultation was flawed. Residents were shown partial sketches and artists' impressions but were BRIEFED, not involved in meaningful discussion. Barnet and the GLA had signed off the scheme BEFORE the public exhibition. Now the plans are available, it is clear Montreaux has ignored all concerns expressed by residents.

I do not oppose housing on the B&Q site, but it should be proportionate, especially as what goes on the site will be emulated on the adjoining Jewson's site. Existing Cricklewood residents should not be collateral damage of Barnet's push to meet housing targets.

Comment: 1100 apartments is far too many and far too high a density of units for a site of this size and in this suburban location.

The massing of the tower blocks are too compact and too dense. This will only lead to Buy to Let investors purchasing the units with few if any viewing these apartments as a proper home where one would want to settle in Cricklewood and become part of the community.

It will put unsustainable pressure on already paltry community services such as doctors surgeries, children's playgrounds, nurseries, schools and green spaces which are already under stress.

With the eco barrier at the aggregate transfer Rail facility unable to stay standing for even 12 months and has already collapsed, Cricklewoods so called redevelopment strategy feels more like Cricklewood being converted into someone else's dumping ground.

I am not against the development of the B&Q site , but this brings new meaning to packing them in like sardines

Comment: The plan to build so many and such high tower blocks in this space should not be allowed. It is a mini city in itself in our local community. Cricklewood is already a busy neighbourhood with lots of traffic and not enough services to support the community. Living in the Railway Terraces for a number of years and noticing the lack of services already, such as nurseries, schools, surgeries etc. not to mention no family cafes or restaurants or local pubs, only alarms me more at the thought of such an increase in population. The proposed buildings will overshadow much of the neighbourhood, especially in such close proximity to the children's playground on Kara Way. The playground is already very busy with local families, and will be put under even more stress if the plan to house so many apartments on the site is allowed. It is also stressful to think that the access road for vehicles to and from the site will be by the children's playground.

Whilst the local area is crying out for improvement and to be smartened up, allowing such a dense development is not the solution.

Comment: As a local resident living in the immediate vicinity of this proposed development, I am seriously concerned by the negative implications for the local community and environment should it be granted permission to proceed as currently described. In particular, I am anxious that the proposed height of the tower blocks is completely inappropriate and out of keeping with the existing architecture in Cricklewood and could fundamentally change the character of my local neighbourhood. In addition to the detrimental aesthetic impact on the local skyline, as a resident of the Railway Cottages I am very concerned that the towers will significantly reduce the levels of sunlight received in and around the terraces.

I am also disturbed by the very significant additional burden that the proposed dwellings within the development would place on local Cricklewood infrastructure. The A5 is already an extremely busy road, often congested to the point of standstill, and any increase in traffic would therefore be to the detriment of local air quality, resulting in elevated levels of nitrogen oxides and particulate matter, and increased negative effects on the health of local residents. Buses serve as the main form of public transport in Cricklewood and these too rely on the A5, and pre-pandemic were already close to capacity and prone to traffic delays at peak travel times.

Finally, in light of the ongoing Covid-19 pandemic and the likely long term shift to remote working away from offices that has resulted, it is not clear to what extent there will be future demand for the high density tower block dwellings proposed. While the course of the pandemic remains uncertain it seems very unlikely that levels of commuting from Cricklewood to offices and businesses within zone 1 will return to prior levels in the near future, and it seems implausible that there will be significant demand for the proposed dwellings from the intended target demography.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I am objecting strongly to this project for the following reasons:

UNACCEPTABLE HEIGHT OF PROPOSED TOWERS:

Barnet's 2019 Tall Buildings Update stipulates no higher than 14-storey buildings for Cricklewood.

Furthermore, a recent report from Barnet said that the adjoining Co-op site, which is nine storeys high, marked "an appropriate height barometer for future development of the neighbouring site".

QUESTION:

Why are the proposed towers higher than Barnet's own recommendations?

EXCESSIVE DENSITY:

My objections are not only to the height but to the density of the project.

The 2019 Barnet Planning Officer's Assessment and Recommendation for 1-13 Cricklewood Lane, the Co-op site mentioned above, said it used the Urban category of 200-700 habitable rooms/hectare as the benchmark for their decision.

QUESTION:

Why then would Barnet allow Montreaux's proposed density of 1100 habitable rooms/hectare, which is much higher than the Co-op site, which many already consider too high?

TRANSPORT

Traffic along Cricklewood Lane (but more widely, Cricklewood Broadway and Chichele Road) is already too dense. The potential extra 1100 units would put an enormous strain on the already stretched bus and rail services.

LACK OF INFRASTRUCTURE

As a parent, I am also too aware of the insufficient number of local schools and surgeries.

Comment: As someone who has lived in Cricklewood for almost 20 years and has used the Cricklewood Lane route to work for 11 years, I am appalled by the project and the lack of consideration to the earlier objections to this development.

As a resident of the Railway Terraces community where homes are two to three storeys high, as in most of the area, I cannot believe that Barnet Council has not objected to not just one nonsensical 25 storey building, but also to other high towers of 14 floors surrounding the tower.

The project has also not taken into consideration the already dreadful traffic along Cricklewood Lane. There is no way that the surrounding area can support a dramatic rise in the population, not just for cars but for public transport.

It's also unbelievable that so little consideration has been made to social housing in an area that is crying out for more affordable homes. I should know as I have taught many deprived families in the area.

Moreover, the sewage and water system is already under strain in the area, with frequent leaks and works along both Cricklewood Broadway and Cricklewood Lane.

None of these objections can be fixed with a tiny tweak or cosmetic change. It involves a major, well-considered review taking into account the local population's needs and the environment.

The oversized buildings contrast grossly in height and volume with its surrounding. The identity and character of the area will be damaged for ever as such heights and volumes are seen either in the city or on the outskirts of London. Comment: I object to the proposed development because it seems no thought has been given to the impact such a large development - particularly the proposed tall buildings - will have on the local community and environment. Barnet's own local planning policy declares that proposals for tall buildings will need to demonstrate 'successful integration into the local fabric.... a regard to local topography and no adverse impact on Local Viewing Corridors, local views and the skyline.' Proposed tall buildings are also required to make a 'positive contribution to the townscape.'

As a resident of the Railway Terraces, I am deeply concerned that the skyline will be radically altered (more so, since approval would give a green light to further similar proposals). 25 and 17-storey buildings will massively dominate our skyline. I am also concerned that light will be impeded, including over the allotments. Where is the 'positive contribution to the townscape?'

I am concerned about increased traffic flow in an area already heavily congested, with traffic often at a standstill. Even if residents did not own vehicles, it's reasonable to anticipate a heavy flow of service traffic eg food, shopping deliveries, etc.

We are already awaiting work to commence on major developments to the south (on the Matalan site), to the north (the former Galtymore site) and we have the ongoing waste transfer site to the Northeast of us.

Construction work on these developments, together with the previously mentioned traffic congestion, is certain to cause a further deterioration to the quality of our air, which is already below acceptable standards. Montreaux's development, were it to go ahead, will turn a bad situation into an intolerable one. It cannot be allowed to proceed.

How is it fair if home owners seeking planning permission are denied the right to transform their homes on the grounds that it would be inconsistent with the existing neighbourhood, yet developers can propose soulless high rises that would change the face of Cricklewood forever.

They represent an imposing eyesore that will add significant pressure to creaking local infrastructure and support services - more polluting cars on the road, more people demanding already scarce public services like healthcare and schools.

Barnet council seem to have targeted the Cricklewood/Brent border with scheme after scheme that shows no regard whatsoever to the feelings of local residents (eg. waste facility: heavy vehicles adding pollution to the roads), but serves to tick off some broader development agenda that will have lasting and detrimental effects for those that have to live with them.

Comment: I object to the planned development at the B&Q site by Montreaux as follows:

- 1) 15 -25 storey high blocks breach Barnet's planning frameworks and policies, and will overwhelm Cricklewood, which currently has 2 - 3 storey buildings. The height and density are totally out of proportion and out of keeping for the area.
- 2) There is no social housing, simply an "aspiration" to make the minimum 35% "affordable". Unacceptable for Cricklewood.
- 3) The size and scale of the development will damage the character of the area, it is overdevelopment, and is detrimental.
- 4) Loss of visual amenity to residents and businesses in the whole area.
- 5) The number of new residents in the blocks would adversely affect traffic and parking in the whole area, which is already highly congested.
- 6) The proposed public pedestrian and cycling route fails to meet Transport for London's London Cycling Design Standards. It will not serve public pedestrians or cyclists, it will only serve residents, and is not a community benefit.
- 7) There are no plans for community facilities in relation to the ground-floor commercial spaces.
- 8) The open space in the development is not commensurate with the increase in resident population.

Comment: 25 storeys is too high for an area without any high rise structures. Although I support the new development, I object to the number of storeys and flats proposed.

It will ruin the character and views for the nearby residents.

The traffic is already problematic on Cricklewood Lane and adding over a thousand new residents will only make it worse.

The number of storeys must be limited to 10-15. The most recent new development in the area (The Broadway) where I reside is typically 5 storeys with only one block rising to 7.

Comment: As a local resident I support this development. It brings much needed redevelopment and investment to Cricklewood. It also provides new, decent homes for local residents that are currently in short supply (most of the local housing stock is old and run down). I also believe that the new development will lead to a reduction in traffic in comparison to the current B and Q development, which causes congestion on Cricklewood Lane. Furthermore I do not believe the height of the new development poses any issues as its shadow will fall most on the railway track and not onto neighbouring buildings or streets.

Creating extra housing also means that there is more space available for people, leading to lower overcrowding, which as we have seen recently has created conditions for COVID to spread.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This development is grossly out of scale in the context of its immediate environment. Buildings in Cricklewood are mostly around two or three storeys. There is little above four storeys and much of the architecture is late nineteenth/early twentieth century. The development will not only be out of character, but, with towers of between 15 and 25 storeys it will completely dominate the area. Given the height, the development will cut light to the Railway Terraces conservation area in the morning and to houses to the east in the afternoons and evenings. It will also significantly curtail views from the Terraces.

The height is unprecedented for the area - permission has been granted for 9 storeys on the Co-op site and that was reduced from 15 storeys. Permission could pave the way for further very tall buildings in the area.

Cricklewood is not particularly well served in terms of amenity and local schools and doctors surgeries are well subscribed. At 1,100 units, the development might be expected to increase the local population by probably around 3000. It would necessarily place a severe strain on local amenities, which very likely would be inadequate.

Anyone at all familiar with Cricklewood will know that it has a significant problem with road traffic, particularly in the Broadway and Cricklewood Lane. It is very congested with concomitant pollution. While parking spaces may be limited, it seems very likely, given the need for servicing and delivery, that it will aggravate an already severe problem.

While the development is close to Cricklewood Station, it is not like West Hampstead, where there is a range of transport options. The area may not cope with a large increase in movement at rush hour.

Montreaux have consulted, but they have ignored the views of the local public and pressed on with this application regardless. This development will impact upon the quality of life of local people and their views should be taken into account.

Comment: I have serious reservations about the height and mass of this development. I understand the need for more housing units but cannot see the justification for blocks of 10 storeys and above; other than the maximisation of profit for the developer from the ground footprint of the site.

Cricklewood's infrastructure is already under extreme pressure.

Where are the roads, parking, schools, medical centres and retail units to support another 2000 to 4000 extra residents who will live on this site.

Also, why have Barnet not consulted Brent and Camden councils planning departments regarding this development?

I agree with more flats being needed, however the surrounding streets just can't cope with more traffic. The idea of having 25 floor buildings is also too high, building essentially tower blocks in this area will

Be an eyesore, reduce the price of existing homes in the area and again, there isn't the infrastructure to cope.

Comment: As a longstanding Cricklewood resident, I am extremely concerned at this proposal. The development would be completely out of keeping with the local area, in terms of height and design. The height of the buildings would significantly impact residents' views, and in many cases light availability.

The existing and anticipated public transport provision in the area will be unable to cope with the additional demand, and the development would create significant traffic problems, in an area where there are already traffic jams every day. The development will add significantly to pollution of all kinds in the local area, in terms of noise and air quality.

Moreover, at a time when there are significant problems with homelessness and increasing poverty, I find it deplorable that a proposed development of 1100 properties is not intended to include any social housing.

In general, the impact will be significant and damaging to the quality of life and to amenity, certainly for Barnet residents, but also for Camden and Brent residents at the same time.

Comment: My objection is purely regarding the height of the proposed development.

in "B&Q Cricklewood ES Volume I Chapter 11: Daylight, Sunlight and Overshadowing, 11.2.19" they state "By virtue of being at an early stage in the adoption process, the Draft Local Plan is considered to be of limited weight and is not a material consideration within this EIA."

- I do not believe they can disregard the London Draft Local Plan and push through such a proposal because process has been affected by Coronavirus.

- The proposed heights are more than DOUBLE what is considered a VERY TALL building and the proposed plans directly and clearly violate Policy CDH04 in the following ways:

"CDH04 b) Tall buildings that exceed these height limits ('Very Tall') will not be permitted unless exceptional circumstances can be demonstrated" - no exceptional circumstances have been demonstrated.

"CDH04 c) Any proposal for a 'Very Tall' building must have a legible and coherent role, integrating effectively to its location" - this proposal in the midst of 2/3-storey buildings must be rejected.

"Proposals for tall and very tall buildings will need to provide evidence of how they have complied with the criteria in this policy as well as the Historic England guidance on tall buildings." - this has not been demonstrated in any way.

"6.16.7 Essentially, the principle of proportionality should apply, whereby the height of the building corresponds to the existing surroundings." - height is completely disproportionate.

"6.16.8 Map 4 shows locally important views together with the location of existing tall buildings.

The Council will seek to ensure that development is compatible with such views in terms of setting, scale and massing. Proposals for buildings of height that the Council considers cause harm to these views will be resisted." - the proposal will completely alter and dominate the locally important view (#2) from Golders Hill Park to Harrow on the Hill and should be refused on this basis alone.

The proposed tower blocks would loom over the very special low rise Victorian cottages. They would cut out light and ruin the area visually and aesthetically. The pressure of thousands of new inhabitants and cars would put enormous pressure on an already congested and overcrowded area.

Most buildings in the area are 2 or 3 storeys so having blocks of 16 storeys and more would be totally out of keeping with the surroundings and a visual eyesore. The towers will dominate our skyline and reduce levels of daylight in nearby properties.

I am not against new housing per se, as I recognise that London has a housing shortage. However to propose new housing with no affordable social housing is very disappointing.

So in principal I am not against the site being converted to housing but I strongly object to the number of proposed storeys and the lack of affordable social provision.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The proposed constructions are entirely unfit for purpose within the context of Cricklewood for a variety of reasons.

Firstly, the building would not fit into the town on an aesthetic level whatsoever. Cricklewood is made up of a vast majority of two or three storey buildings - a fifteen storey building would create a significant eyesore for residents of Cricklewood and beyond, with a huge visual imbalance that could reverse the positive effects of the aesthetic rebranding Cricklewood underwent in the mid-2010s.

Secondly, it is hard to see what positive social effect the construction will bring about. There is a high demand for social housing within this area of London at large, and the construction is unlikely to help relieve this, given that they are likely to be marketed as luxury flats that those with low incomes will no doubt be priced out of. This is not to mention the loss of employment due to removal of surrounding shops such as Poundstretcher and B&Q, which have both provided a valuable service within Cricklewood and would be sorely missed by the community.

Furthermore, the construction could have an overwhelming impact on local services. Local GPs and dentists are already heavily subscribed, not to mention local schools, whose catchment areas have shrunk hugely over recent years. Also, our transport links are relatively poor. Unlike neighbouring areas such as Kilburn and West Hampstead, which have a range of rail options for commuters, Cricklewood is only served by four Thameslink services an hour each way, which are already notorious for overcrowding. Bus and car travel are often also problematic due to frequent queues on Cricklewood Broadway and Lane (which are likely to be exacerbated over the coming months by the upcoming refurbishment of the junction between the two roads). The construction will only worsen these issues, not alleviate them.

For these reasons and more, I join a vast majority of my fellow residents in objecting to the proposal.

I cannot understand the rationale behind building such a huge development that is completely out of keeping with the area and without any serious, legitimate consideration of its impact on the local infrastructure, the local population and the environment.

With 1100 new residencies we could have more than 3000 extra service users in a tiny area which already feels over loaded.

Clear evidence of this can be seen (by those of us who actually live here) in the roads being always jammed with traffic, the drains regularly blocking and floods happening at every downpour under Cricklewood Bridge. One can only assume this is not going to get better with another 3000 people using their facilities.

The construction is a monstrosity, too high, too dense and you have to admit an ugly shape and layout. It looks like a gulag which of course is what it is designed to be.

Shame on Barnet Council Planning Dept.

Comment: I write as a resident of Cricklewood, Ward councillor for Mapesbury, and deputy Mayor of Brent.

IN PRAISE

I object to this development, yet at the same time would like to recognise that it could have been so much worse! The green space on Cricklewood Lane has been retained, and much of the open outdoor space will be new public realm....hoping this does not cause problems of anti-social behaviour.

OBJECTIONS

I would like to support all of the reasons given by residents. Some are material planning considerations, a few are not. But they are all heartfelt. Local people were invited to an exhibition, but nobody really listened to their opinion, there were no meetings or focus groups. A questionnaire loses all richness.

The main points for me are

1. The height

Barnet's tall buildings policy update from 2019 states quite clearly on page 29 that Brent Cross can build over 30 floors, but the Cricklewood Thameslink is shown as 1-13 floors. This is unambiguous, and the developer is bold to think the planning committee can overlook a policy with so much weight.

2. Effect on the town centre.

This development is a new estate. It would be great out of town, whereas right in the centre of town it is too big and imposing. It fills a huge plot right in the centre, replacing 2 or 3 very useful shops.

Brent planning department have worked out the density for me as 396 dwellings per hectare, which according to the London Plan Density Matrix is High Density

3. Social Housing

I could not see mention of any social housing, which is desperately needed in Cricklewood with so much multiple deprivation, and the worst overcrowding in the country. It is also required by The Mayor.

I have seen Brent Council's draft response to this development, and with your indulgence would like to write to you again, after seeing the final response.

Comment: I strongly object to this huge development, which will completely change the character of Cricklewood and the Terraces, for good. It will dominate the skyline and significantly affect daylight to our property and garden. To our understanding, we will experience 20% loss of sunlight, which is very significant for us on the terraces, as we only get sunshine for half a day because of our position. Generally, this will mean that electric lights will be on for 20% longer, during autumn and winter months which is a waste at a time when we are all asked to do our part to reduce our use of energy. Having seen the development further along the Edgware Rd, eg. in Colindale, it is incomprehensible that these kinds of tall buildings will be imposed on an area where the architecture is mainly Victorian and Edwardian. It is completely out of keeping with the local environment. The B & Q development is for four clusters of tower blocks of 15, 16, 17, 18, 19 storeys and one of 25 storeys. Planning approved for the Coop site is for 9 storeys Matalan is also for 7 storeys. There are no very tall buildings in Cricklewood so these buildings would look out of place. I would also like to know how the local narrow roads, which are already very congested, will cope with the additional new traffic. I have real concerns about pollution from all the extra vehicles that will be clogging an area that is already struggling. 1,100 housing units represents extreme overdevelopment of the site and I strongly believe local services will be severely affected to the point where life will become very difficult and potentially unbearable for local residents. We are encouraged to use transport but it will be impossible to catch a bus. The only option will be to use a car. There are already far too many people residing in the area, eg. it can take weeks to book a routine doctor's appointment. The local schools could not cope with the numbers so children would have to travel further away.

This proposal is inappropriate for Cricklewood which is mostly small scale. It does not in anyway enhance .

I was pleased that Cricklewood was to be developed but had expected this to be undertaken in a coherent way . This particular proposal feels like a speculative build without any sense of context. The design is dated . I would like to see housing and infrastructure to meet local need to include social housing and green space .

This proposal will damage the setting of the Railway Terraces Conservation Area and this is a material planning consideration .

Light and views will be diminished for many residents of the terraces and other streets of Cricklewood.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The height of these blocks exceeds what is reasonable for their location. As planned, they would:

- overwhelm the centre of Cricklewood,
- put central Cricklewood into shadow for considerable parts of the day
- block light and outlook to neighbouring homes
- impinge on the privacy of many local residents

This would add 3000 or more to the local population; far too a high density for the surrounding area.

The development:

- be overbearing and obtrusive
- increase the pressure on local public transport that is at or above capacity during the rush hour
- the additional traffic generated will increase congestion on already congested local roads and would compromise highway safety
- put pressure on local parking (residents around the St Agnes area have noted increased parking on their streets since the far smaller Woodley Road development)
- place excessive stress on the local facilities - the local infrastructure would not be able to support such a large development without placing severe strains on local schools, health centres, transport, retail and water, sewerage & utilities. Whilst the application suggests improved facilities and attractive landscaping this is speculative without any guarantees that the public realm aspects of the development would be delivered.

The development would loom over the mostly two/three story housing in the wider Cricklewood area and

- is unsympathetic to the late 19th and early 20th century architecture in Cricklewood, neither blending in nor contrasting in a sympathetic way
- the local neighbourhood would be spoiled by this development

There is room for regeneration in Cricklewood however not to the detriment of the community already living here. The height & density of the proposed development will add increased pressure on our train services that are already unable to cope with demand is not uncommon to be unable to board (excepting covid times). Cricklewood lane is badly congested without the additional traffic that will come as part of this development.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I am writing to object to the proposed development in the strongest terms.

In summary, its height, mass and density is entirely out of keeping with the character and architectural aesthetic of the surrounding area.

It almost doubles the maximum height recommended in Barnet's 2019 Tall Buildings Update. Recently approved nearby developments have been reduced to little more than a third of the maximum height of this proposal. The Brent Cross South development, a mile away, has a maximum height for residential buildings of only 15 storeys. The nearest building of comparable height to the proposal is two miles away in Hendon. There are no very tall buildings in Cricklewood. Allowing building of this height would be completely inappropriate in the context of the area and would create an unacceptable precedent for future developments.

The proposed development will dominate the skyline and views across the surrounding area, with the effect further exaggerated by its location on rising ground. In particular, it will overshadow (and literally cast a significant amount of shade on) the adjacent Railway Terraces conservation area and the very much lower flats on the opposite side of the railway line. Houses in the Railway Terraces could lose up to 20% of their sunlight - a significant reduction when they only receive direct sunlight on the B&Q side for half the day in any event.

The development's mass is inappropriate in an already densely developed area, creating an overcrowded and claustrophobic ambience which will be exacerbated by its height.

The local infrastructure simply cannot sustain its proposed density, particularly when added to the huge population increase which will result from the recently approved or proposed developments on either side of the A5 at Dollis Hill Lane, the Matalan site, the Galtymore site and the Cricklewood Lane Co-op site - not to mention the enormous population increase resulting from the Brent Cross South development.

The area does not have adequate services such as GP practices, and is not a major transport hub, as the application claims - there is no tube station, and the local bus services are centered on the already massively congested A5. The development's residents, visitors, services and deliveries will create a huge increase in traffic and pollution, in addition to that resulting from the other local developments mentioned above.

The local consultation carried out by the developers was meaningless - all these issues were raised with them by many local residents, but none were taken on board. In any event, the development's design focus on one-bedroom commuter pads needs to be completely rethought in light of the huge changes that the Covid pandemic is already bringing to the way people live and work.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I strongly oppose the proposed planning application for the B&Q site in Cricklewood. I feel that it is completely out of character for the area, in particular the Railway Terraces which would be right next to it. Cricklewood mainly has 2-4-storey high buildings and has predominantly Victorian and Edwardian houses. Having tower blocks of 15-25 storeys high would be absolutely dreadful and would dominate the skyline. It would cut out day and sunlight from the area and in particular the terrace cottages as they were built on a north south axis and so already only get half a day of sunlight and less light would not be acceptable.

The proposed tall towers will destroy the views we have here as they will be visible in the terraces. Building 1100 housing units is a complete over-development on such a small site. This would mean about 3000+ new residents not just in the area but in the centre of Cricklewood! This would simply be far too many people. It would lead to an over-crowding and would put huge pressure on already overstretched local services.

Which GP's should they use, which schools, which transport and leisure facilities? It simply would not be fair on old residents nor any new ones.

Furthermore, there isn't a tube station in Cricklewood and the buses are already full and slow with the roads being badly congested as it is. There would be a huge increase in traffic, leading to further congestion and pollution on the A5, which already is one of the most polluted roads in London.

The proposed development is simply too high and too dense and people's outlook regarding the way they want to live has dramatically changed during the pandemic. They want a house with a garden and not be stuck in a high-rise with no outdoor access. People want to buy houses not leasehold flats, which they never own.

Please, with regard to people's health & well-being and also the environment do not approve the proposed plans. I strongly oppose them. Local people have opposed these plans from the beginning but were completely ignored.

I write on behalf of NorthWestTwo Residents Association.

Further to our objection of 5th October, we need to add that the application's quantitative impact assessments have serious errors and cannot be relied on.

In ES Volume III, Appendix 15-1: Transport Assessment, Table 3.2 says Cricklewood Station has capacity for trains 8-12 carriages long. This is wrong; it can only accept trains 8 carriages long, it and Kentish Town North not having been extended when other stations were.

Table 3.2 also claims that 12 southbound trains an hour stop at Cricklewood trains, in different southbound services 4 times an hour each. This is wrong. For most of the day and especially at peak hours, a total of 4 southbound trains stop at Cricklewood (2 passing one way around the Sutton-Wimbledon loop south of Streatham and 2 the other, and all 4 of those passing through London Blackfriars). This is evident from train timetables and in accord with the 2013 invitation to tender for the Thameslink, Southern and Great Northern Franchise, appendix 2D. It also makes transparent sense that there are the same number of trains each way.

Thus when paragraph 3.29 claims there are 160 carriages stopping at Cricklewood station in 16 trains of 10 carriages, it's a gross overstatement - there are 64 carriages (8 x 8), of which 32 are southbound.

This means the summary in paragraphs 12.11 and 12.12 are grossly wrong. The estimated 133 passengers in the morning rush hour will not have 16 trains of 10 carriages to choose from; the vast majority will be travelling south towards central London and the various interchanges from West Hampstead onwards on just 4 8-carriage Class 700 trains (capacity 1146 passengers, 427 sitting and 719 standing).

133 passengers is an additional 3% of the capacity of those trains from this one development alone. This should not be minimised or disregarded. The Transport Assessment does not consider let alone report or evaluate the current crowding on these trains, the last stop before many passengers disperse at West Hampstead, so we must point out the repeated statements by objectors that trains are already so crowded at Cricklewood that it's often impossible to board. Trying to force an extra 3% onto these trains is not feasible.

In not committing to include provision for social or affordable housing this proposal cannot be judged to be serving or working with or enhancing the local community, which needs a variety of housing provision. This proposal fails to meet the local housing need on this basis.

Recent statistics show that in Child's Hill ward, where this development is placed, a shocking 43% of children are living in poverty, once housing costs are considered. This proposal does nothing whatsoever to combat this issue, when the land / development could be used to really proactively address it. It should not even be entertained if it cannot help the local people who most need better housing solutions.

This of course still ignores the cumulative effects of the other approved or in-process developments in Cricklewood, which the application also understates by half, as follows.

Environmental Statement Volume I, Table 7.3 lists the schemes considered in the Cumulative Effects assessment, purporting (para 7.8.11) to include any within 1 km and over 150 residential units which have a planning application submitted as of May 2020. It omits the development 0.5 km away of the Matalan site on Cricklewood Broadway, opposite the Railway Terraces Conservation Area, with 238 residential units, for which planning application ref 20/0115 was submitted to Brent Council on 13 January 2020, which the public was commenting on from 22 January 2020 onwards, and which we covered repeatedly on our own website. This development would use the same buses and trains, the same roads and shops, the same schools and health facilities, as the proposed B&Q site development. It almost exactly doubles the number of residential units within 1 km of the site that the Cumulative Effects Assessment should consider and thus invalidates that assessment.

On the Barnet planning portal, this application consists of 131 documents. We have not been able to review all the claims. Even when we have as above, the estimate of 133 rail passengers in the morning rush hour is dependent on the TRICS system, to which we do not have access and which is clearly sensitive to the selection of comparable locations (cf the significantly different results for the adjoining 1-13 Cricklewood Lane site in planning application 18/6353/FUL). What we have been able to review shows that this application cannot be accepted as providing an accurate or fair or reasonable assessment of the scheme's impact and that it significantly understates the impact.

Comment: The proposed development is too dense and will put enormous strain on the local infrastructure. The height of the buildings is too high, in particular the 25 storey tower - there is no other building of this height in the area and therefore no precedent - and could present privacy issues intruding on other local properties. The close proximity of the 25 storey tower to the railway bridge and the essential groundworks could impact on the structural integrity of the bridge. The overall design could bring general overcrowding and without reduction will impact negatively on the existing neighbourhood and services - particularly local transport services. I object to the current proposals as they stand.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: While the publication of an independent Urban Design Study to review the proposed scheme is welcome, the study does not fundamentally change its key problems. There is a clear sense that the developer is not listening to the serious concerns of the overwhelming majority of local residents, which are centred on:

- The enormous size and height of the main towers. At 25 storeys, the main tower would loom over residents in the surrounding areas, and would be entirely out of character with the rest of the area, which has no buildings greater than 6 storeys in height. While it is recognised that density in the area must increase if Barnet is going to be able to deliver on its ambitious housing targets, this level of density is inappropriate, and better delivered in brown field sites with limited neighbours and existing streetscape character (e.g. Brent Cross Town).

- It would threaten the heritage of the nearby Railway Terraces Conservation Area, which according to the National Planning Policy Framework, must be protected. LB Barnet has an obligation to ensure all developments comply with the NPPF - this development would fundamentally threaten the character of this CA.

- The development does not provide adequate levels of affordable housing, which according to Policy H4 of the Mayor London Plan must meet a strategic target of 50% of all new housing.

The use of green outlines in the Urban Design Study creates a false impression of lightness and disingenuously reduces the negative impact that the buildings would have on surrounding communities. The buildings loom over almost every surrounding street, and, in contrast to the UDS, this effect is not mitigated by "good design" or a "landmark building". Instead, there is little in the architecture of these buildings of any note - they appear much like any other modern, poorly considered development.

I recommend for these reasons that LB Barnet moves to reject this planning application.

Yours Sincerely,
Thomas Agar.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: I STRONGLY OBJECT to this development on the following grounds.

1. Density: It's too dense for such a small site. I understand the need for housing, but building up is not the answer. 1100 on this site is overbearing for the fabric and community of Cricklewood and would be a huge strain on our currently limited resources and facilities.
2. Overdevelopment: Again, we need housing, but in this little corner of Cricklewood you have already approved 1-13 Cricklewood lane which will be 9 storeys, plus the Matalan site will be housing and work is already underway opp the Bingo hall. It's too much all at once!
3. Height: the towers are way too tall! High buildings should be closer to the town centre and face the high street, not residential housing. These are getting taller away from the centre of Cricklewood. These buildings will be seen from green spaces as far away as Gladstone park and the Fortune Green Cemetery. Too tall!
4. Not in keeping with the local area: Cricklewood is made up of low rise 2-3 storey housing. There is nothing of this height or size for miles and miles. It would stand out like a sore thumb, looming over the landscape and damage the local character of our town centre.
5. No social housing: A development of this size should include a large number of social housing units as well as many more affordable units than currently suggested. Without this, it will not provide any housing benefit, particularly in the current climate.
6. Traffic: 1100 more people, even if they don't have any cars, will bring a large increase in traffic with all the online deliveries! I would also hope that any development like this would have restrictions on the parking permits residents are allowed as parking is already an issue in the area.

7. Shadow my garden: I live 0.5 miles from the site, these towers will be visible from my front room and will block my evening light for half year!

I reiterate, I STRONGLY OBJECT to this development.

Comment: This development is out of keeping with the other building types in Cricklewood, in particular being far taller than typical residential or commercial structures. The development provides negligible social housing, and does not add to the area in terms of wider community benefit (eg green space, community focal point, transport links, shopping facilities, cycle infrastructure). Development should only be permitted for a far more modest structure. The height of this development is clearly driven by developers' desire to maximise profit, rather than by sensitive integration with the local area.

There are no buildings of similar height in the area and it is not set up to deal with such a huge influx of new properties. If the council wants to approve buildings of this magnitude, they should deal with the retail, travel and amenities infrastructure first rather than allowing the area to become unliveably overrun. That's not even to mention the thousands of people whose sunlight will be blocked out by this development and will live literally in its shadow. We know what you're doing, and we vote.

Not providing parking will not deter people from owning cars - people are car mad. For all the architect and developers flowery artistic descriptions the bottom line is that at the end of the day it is just another huge ugly tower block lacking in imagination, beauty, greenery and therefore very likely to have an equally huge negative impact on the quality of life for its neighbours and residents.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: These plans are ludicrous. There is no way that our crowded neighbourhood can bear this size of accommodation. It will place huge strain on local infrastructure including roads, transport, schools and services. It is unforgivable that there is no social housing. The designs are completely out of keeping with the style of the area and the views of the original developers.

I feel that because Cricklewood is perceived as being a less wealthy neighbourhood, developers believe they can do as they please. But this is home to thousands of families and ordinary Londoners. It should not be an exercise in making as much profit as possible from a small patch of land. Look at the shortsightedness in selling off Cricklewood station to a scrap yard. It looks terrible. This development would be a mistake on a much larger scale. We all care about our local environment and it affects how we live in practical and psychological terms. This is such an obvious attempt to push profit margins and it should be the job of the council to protect and improve the spaces in which we live. Not sell them to the highest bidder.

As a local Brent resident I'm incredulous this is being considered. I want to see houses built that honour the fine architectural principles that were established when Kilburn and Cricklewood were built and offer housing for working people and especially key workers. I hope you listen to the thousands of objections you will undoubtedly receive.

Huge imposing buildings will be an eyesore and is completely out of keeping with the local area. The proposed plans seem to be poorly thought through; how many will be affordable housing? Why do they need to be so high? The parking facilities for the proposed residents is completely inadequate, which will lead to parking issues in the surrounding area. How about more open spaces in the local area, some affordable housing and adequate parking to support the local businesses in the area???

There will be no amenities. We need our stores. From the Fabrica development with "retail spaces" nobody can afford the rent so they lie empty.

All of the nearby roads in Brent with no permit parking is already impossible for Brent road residents to park on because of the developments in Barnet, with another 5000 people who will bring their cars and walk. There will be more arguments on the streets and nowhere for the elderly residents to park next to their own houses

It will be overbearing for the neighbours in Barnet but all the Brent residents of Cricklewood too and probably Camden afar.

Facilities are already far too overstretched and this will make it so much worse.

The buildings are so high there is nothing else like that in Cricklewood.

The scale and height are not in keeping with the local 2- and 3-storey buildings. Nothing in the Cricklewood area is as tall as this or as dense as this.

If you have been to Colindale and how bad the traffic is and how over populated it is - why on earth would you want to bring that to an area that is far too over populated anyway.

Conflict between Pedestrians, Cyclists and Drivers will increase

Comment: Absolute disgrace, there are no buildings of that height in the surrounding area. The area has been run down for years but used to be a vibrant, multicultural shopping area. Where are people supposed to park now to access the shops around B&Q. The B&Q essential for home maintenance. If the residents are objecting redraw your plans or maybe ask them what they want. Why not houses with gardens and low level flats as we have all seen how covid 19 has affected people's mental health. These will end up buy to let flats for investors not locals with housing needs.

Comment: The proposed development is too tall, too overpowering and will add to overcrowding in the local area.

The proposed development goes AGAINST your own planning principles. There is no affordable housing, no medical facilities and would add to the already overcrowded transport for Cricklewood railway station.

The proposed height of the buildings breach Barnet's planning frameworks and policies, from the Cricklewood Brent Cross and West Hendon Development Framework and last year's Tall Buildings Update and the policies referenced in those documents.

I whole heartedly object this development and the fact that this consultation period was not even advertised to your own constituents.

Comment: Having viewed the new plans and illustrations it is abundantly clear that this development is COMPLETELY out of character with the local neighbourhood. The height of the buildings is far too high, the density is too large and the brutalist style of architecture is from the 1960s and massively out of step with contemporary culture. These type of buildings are being demolished not built! The area is not equipped for the 1100+ additional residents in terms of parking facilities, and although the rail station is close it is not able to support such a large increase. It is also clear from the photos what a terrible sight it would be from the local area - just see how they new development would be detrimental to the scenary. Totally obtrusive.

Comment: The plans look really overwhelming, tower blocks clearly too tall. They look too dense, also why does every block being built in London look the same? Soulless, packed and cramped, square boxes with little or no craftsmanship. Cricklewood is primarily built with Victorian and Edwardian buildings and this new development does clearly look out of place! People need homes to raise families not future ghettos with extreme prices! From a working man with a family unable to ever afford a home in this current climate. On top of this all current brown sites are being converted into flats, when COVID is over and we resume normal activities where are we all going to shop? With these big stores being taken out of areas like Cricklewood there will be no reason for people to travel into the area and so a short fall on customers to local businesses which is solely what it now relies on. Cricklewood will have nothing to offer soon.

If Barnet Councillors have any integrity they can not allow it to go ahead.

It is a blot on the leafy residential character of Cricklewood, and our local services are already under great strain.

In addition we are battling with increasing traffic issues on the A5 and Cricklewood Lane.

Comment: Cricklewood Town Centre is predominantly 2 storey and the scale, number and size of buildings being proposed including a 25 storey tower is over bearing and overwhelming. The design and appearance is not in keeping with the Edwardian facades and historical landmark buildings. This development is next door to a conservation area of railway cottages and these proposed buildings will loom over these architectural landmarks and have a negative impact on all of us neighbours, overshadowing the streetscape and dominating the neighbourhood skyline for miles. The existing infrastructure cannot cope with this density. Cricklewood Lane is already at a standstill with traffic and the surrounding area suffers gridlock. Edgware Road has high pollution levels and is currently being monitored. The site could benefit from development but not what this developer is proposing. Just by changing the description of the scheme on the consultation does not address the objections and concerns of residents. The buildings are too high, too dense and not in keeping with the neighbourhood and will change the character of the neighbourhood forever.

These excessively high, tower block style flats, overwhelm the streetscape and are totally out of keeping for Cricklewood.

Along with the blight on the townscape, I'm concerned about the demand and pressure on the local infrastructure and facilities- doctors, dentists, schools, parks, parking, roads, transport.

The area cannot sustain these ever increasing developments of flats.

The flowery language the developers are using to justify the height and design of the monstrosity and benefits to the area is also completely over the top and simply marketing whaffle.

Much of it stinks of greenwashing.

The development is completely out of keeping with the neighbourhood in terms of building mass, style height and usage. The proposal has inadequate provision for vehicles or pedestrians.

It would be overbearing, overwhelming and totally out of keeping with the area, the architecture far from looking elegant is ugly and to describe it as a landmark for the area is laughable, more like a blot on the landscape. Buildings in this area are no more than 3 stories high, tower blocks as suggested would be totally out of place, traffic congestion would be horrendous and there would be little or no spaces for parking. There appears to be no social housing .

Cricklewood would lose the only bit of green available as any out door space would be used primarily for residents only.

As there are fewer trains going through Cricklewood Station per hour as first thought by the developers, Barnet are unlikely to prosper has hoped.

Please do NOT allow this development.

Cricklewood is already congested, and these building are going to add to the chaos with extra people it will bring. There is no justification for this height of the building Cricklewood cannot handle the influx of people. The transport network is already congested and this is not fair for local residents.

Comment: Horrified to see this planned monstrosity for the Cricklewood area. It is completely out of character with the surrounding area by over 10 storeys and will be an eyesore from every directions.

There have been clear errors in the transport planning; no provisions for social housing and insufficient parking planned .

This development will not happen. We will not let this happen without severe adjustments to the plans.

My child has breathing difficulties with so much pollution. We can smell the toxic air. This development is better for zone 6 and further away. There have been new blocks of flats near Virgin active gym completed recently. These have added to further traffic and pollution.

Comment: The proposed development is a total missed opportunity for Barnet to develop a well planned exemplary housing development in which local people could live healthily and thrive. Instead this proposal is excessively high density living, totally overbearing for Cricklewood and an environmental disaster without the infrastructure to support it. It does nothing to improve affordable housing for local people and looks like it's primary purpose is to maximise profits for the developer and council tax for the council. Please don't waste this opportunity

It's never been perfect but it's evolved over the years into a place to be proud of, vibrant and multicultural, packed with curiosities and characters. The huge tower blocks impose a completely different personality on the area undoing the hard earned equilibrium. Experience of tower blocks suggests they're rarely successful, happy places to live. As seen in the drawings they're discordant with the rest of the surrounding area. These are statement blocks ugly and unsympathetic, hating the place as it exists. Yes we need more housing but surely there are architects around who can sense the feel of a place and negotiate a better way of doing this than this sorry stupid 1960s solution?

Currently GP's surgery's are oversubscribed, it is nigh on impossible when it comes to school places; public transportation is often full and overstretched, the roads are always busy. How will bringing 1000's more people to this small area benefit the current and prospective residents? It won't. The infrastructure is simply not there!

Comment: I have objected in the last consultation in 2020. I don't know why we are doing this again. I will always object to this monstrosity as it is overlooking and over barring the area. It does not house families or growing families with the 1 or 2 bedroom flats. It does not benefit Cricklewood it would just add to the already congested and polluted area. Adding 110 car spaces means adding more pollution and emissions to the area. The roads of Cricklewood are ready struggling as we only have 1 Lane on Cricklewood Broadway and 1 Lane on Cricklewood Lane. I live on the groves and driver will definitely will come through our roads to avoid traffic and block our road. Ash Grove is like this already at peak times, it's unfair for the residence living in the area to put up with more people than it can take. Developers don't care because they don't live in the area and all they care about is making money. These flats won't benefit people in the area but lining the pockets of millionaire. The flats won't be affordable either and will not help people who are in need of council housing.

Comment: While I welcome future development in the area including the building of a town centre, better shops and affordable housing to support the community, this plan does not meet community needs.

The size and nature of the buildings are not aligned to local architecture or scale and not in keeping with design ethos.

The sheer number of properties (1100) will exhaust an already stretched local infrastructure blighted by poor design and planning.

Local amenities such as school, GPs and parking are already unable to serve the local community let alone the thousands more expected in the area should this plan be approved.

Traffic is already peak and air quality is poor - the sheer size of this development will only make these worse.

I would seriously question the impartiality of Barnet council if this plan gets approved considering the thousands of objections from local council tax paying residents.

There is no infrastructure to support such growth in housing, this must be stopped.

Comment: The planned development is completely inappropriate for this site and in this location. This is self evident from the illustrations provided by the developer - which are of course designed to make the development as attractive and plausible as possible. We can only assume that the reality would be even worse.

They are completely out of proportion to the surrounding area, would dominate the skyline and locality totally, and would completely overwhelm the local schools, medical services, and road and rail infrastructure.

I am not generally 'anti-development' - on the contrary, well-planned and appropriate development can benefit a community and improve a locality. I would in fact support appropriate development on this site, and there have been, and are, a number of recent and current developments in Childs Hill that are doing exactly that.

The proposed development for the B&Q site is completely different. It will put intolerable pressure on the local community and on local amenities, and will benefit only the owner of the site and the developers.

Any councillor from my ward who votes in favour of this development can count on losing my vote

I strongly object on the basis that these towers are out of character (too high), the housing is too high density (will exacerbate traffic problems and challenges around the provision of local schools/public services) and finally because the consultation is not being run openly for local residents to truly have a say. Not good enough!

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The proposed buildings in this development are too high and dense. They are not in keeping with the area.

There are no existing cycle routes in this area for new and existing residents to use.

Existing pavements are narrow and do not have capacity for residents from 1100 new homes.

Thameslink trains from cricklewood do not have capacity, especially in rush hour, to accommodate hundreds of additional passengers.

Local amenities including schools and medical services are already stretched and cannot absorb thousands of new residents.

There is no green space or communal parks or recreation spaces in these plans for new or existing residents use.

Traffic is already grid locked in this area especially at busy times. Even with low car use the deliveries and visitors for 1100 new properties will bring this area to a complete standstill.

Comment: Whilst I appreciate the need for additional and affordable housing the size and height of the development would overwhelm the existing Edwardian buildings many of which retain original features above ground floor level. A scheme which reflected the uniqueness of the original architecture would be far more in keeping. The height of the proposed building is overbearing and a scaled down plan would be far more appropriate to the area and width of the surrounding thoroughfares to prevent them becoming canyons of congestion and pollution.

Given moves in the wider area for Councils to demolish high rise blocks in favour of sympathetic lower builds (Kilburn for example) I'd say this proposal flies in the face of building for the benefit of future residents and existing locals. It will create an eyesore of a town within a town.

It offers no affordable housing which is what is desperately needed in this area. The spaces between the towers, which we have been told will be "garden areas", will simply be wind tunnels from which residents will want to escape as quickly as possible. How will local services such as GP surgeries and trains be able to cope with the additional population? This development truly is a horrendous carbuncle and a scar on the surrounding landscape.

I fully appreciate the need for affordable homes, but how many of these are actually going to those most in bed and how many are middle class buying to let? Surely there's a compromise in the number of homes being built? Otherwise, feels very much like stack 'em high and watch the cash roll in without much regard to the lasting impact on the local community and its services. Think on. Regards, Ross

Comment: I previously objected to this proposal, and I am again objecting. These plans are completely out of keeping with the general character of the surroundings and will be detrimental to the people already living in Cricklewood and surrounding areas. Congestion in this area is currently so bad that traffic is often at a standstill causing awful air pollution. Local services are strained and the local infrastructure needs investment- not more housing developments bringing even more population density to an area that is overstretched. Local schools need investing in, more dentists and doctors, better security on the streets. This housing development will be very ugly and dominate the local areas, which are full of characterful old buildings. Barnet should be trying to preserve the sense of local community and help its residents- not allow developers to build huge monstrosities in the middle of a densely populated area. The disruption to the area during construction will also be unbearable- the roads have just been closed for upgrade works around Cricklewood station and it caused utter chaos and misery for local residents. We want to see the council investing in improving the environment for residents- planting trees, giving residents green areas for leisure, improving road quality. This proposal will do none of these things

Comment: I strongly object to this planning application which is totally out of keeping with the surrounding area of Cricklewood. The height of the development overwhelms the Victorian housing in the surrounding area and does not provide attractive vistas from the surrounding streets as the developer suggests. It would also seem that there is nothing in the planning application to commit the development to this design in the planning application. Importantly, there is no social housing and little parking. The A5 is already congested in this area with the addition of other developments to the immediate North of this site.

Any claim to improve the area with a design of this nature appears to be ill thought through and shows a lack of research and consultation with local residents.

There is minimal "greening" of the environment and a dearth of usable attractive outdoor leisure space. Other neighbourhoods with new high rise developments eg Nine Elms are able to accommodate high density housing with striking innovative visual appeal.

The rustic character of the architectural landscape will also be affected by the jarring, towering infrastructure. Construction is also going to cause air and noise pollution in the area and disrupt the day to day lives and living experience of this neighbourhood. The St Agnes Catholic Church, Little Learners Cricklewood Nursery and St Agnes Primary School area nearby will also be affected by the effects of building and construction. The B&Q complex has been around for years and serves the community well here - the nursery with affordable plants promotes green fingers and greater engagement with nature.

Comment: I've reviewed the proposal for the B&Q Cricklewood sit, noting that these have not been displayed in a widespread way as I would have expected for such a large development, and only inviting comments over a very short timeframe (2 weeks). The development proposal will be overbearing and very out of keeping with the surrounding area. The high rise blocks will create traffic issues on already over congested roads in the area, very high usage and potential overcrowding on the public transport system, and is an environmental risk as well with increased pressures on the sewage and utilities as well as refuse and recycling, health, social care and education services. I strongly object to this development being approved in its current form.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: This plan is very unsympathetic to the locality.

The height proposed is considerably taller than any local buildings. The flats will be overbearing. The concentration of people and vehicles in the area will undoubtedly place too much strain on the local amenities.

The council has already caused gridlock along all the arterial routes with their poorly thought out LTN closures and the temporary closure of Cricklewood lane in one direction. Further building work would cause chaos.

The proposed development already stands at a height far higher than the surrounding streets. How can the planning committee allow 25 Storeys above the level of the significantly raised B&Q site?

There are no commitments included about how the buildings may appear.

It's most likely going to produce a crazy eyesore towering over Cricklewoods high St and the local houses. Please decline this. Insist on a lower profile and definitive plans for the aesthetics of the buildings too.

You must deny the work in current plans and ensure any building work can not commence until the completion of the 1. Brent Cross redevelopment, 2. development of Cricklewood Lane and Broadway junction works and 3. work to develop site adjacent to Depot Approach and the Broadway, and furthermore 4. waiting for the removal of the restrictions in the LTN on streets surrounding. Thus allowing local traffic to access the A5 in more than one single junction.

Anything less would cause incredible anger in the local community. A community already incensed by the failed consultation process denied by the implementation of the LTN nearby.

Comment:As a local resident I strongly object to this proposed development.

A high-density residential development in this location would put great strain on local infrastructure and resources.

The tall buildings, going up to 25 storeys, would be an extreme contrast to the character of the area, with its 2 to 3 storey buildings, and in my opinion would exert a depressing visual effect rather than functioning as some sort of 'landmark'.

The proposal makes many vague claims about potential benefits from this development which do not stand up to scrutiny. For example, included in the very limited improvements to transport is a new cycle route which would in all likelihood bring cyclists and pedestrians into conflict.

I imagine if any of the architects or building owners or even members of the planning committee were to live nearby, which I imagine they are thousands of miles away, they would object too. It's fine for them to propose such a build when it doesn't impact them or their local area. They are eyesores, much like the tower block revolution in the 60s. There is nothing to like about their ordinary designs, ones that will shadow Cricklewood and the neighbouring areas for years to come. Just NO NO NO.

Noise and pollution which will get worse given the bizarre decision to knock down Burton's corner to widen the road and build an ASDA.

This development will give us a town square where we can relax, enjoy cafes, restaurants etc and this is severely lacking in cricklewood. These amenities are very badly needed. If housing comes quid pro quo, then so be it.

If people are going to moan about housing on an old industrial site next to a railway (an appropriate place for development) they'll moan about it anywhere.

The density of housing will overwhelm current infrastructure and facilities. The proposed height of the buildings will ruin the appearance for miles around. The provision for car parking spaces is hopelessly inadequate and displays prejudice on the part of the planners, that some types of residents are too poor or too indigent to run cars. It will be discriminatory towards pet lovers, large families, residents with special needs will be handicapped by the size and location. Totally opposed to this proposal.

Comment: I am fully supportive of new environmentally friendly buildings in the Cricklewood area. Regeneration is so vital. However the proposed towers are a monstrosity and not in keeping with the local environment and the requirements of the area. Furthermore, the design is absolutely horrific, akin more to the 1950/1960's council tower blocks, Grenfell comes to mind. There is also a huge lack of green space (trees, shrubs, plants etc).

The effect on air and noise pollution, already under strain as we are over the A41, is unprecedented.

I request an air pollution test to be carried out.

Schools, nurseries, local amenities, let alone our roads are not designed for such an onslaught of traffic, that is vehicle or human.

Further still, these tower blocks, with a lack of green space and a lack of outside space (balconies?) are not only horrendous and adverse to family life but are totally inhuman, creating a space of total isolation and lack of community which is so needed.

I strongly object to these horrific tower blocks as they stand.

Comment: This development is far too dense and tall. We do not have high rise blocks in Cricklewood which has helped to retain the historic nature of the area and keep a sense of community. This will destroy it permanently.

There is also the cumulative effect of Cricklewood being used as a dumping ground by Barnet and Brent councils for high density housing because it is on the borders of their boroughs. We have the development where the Galtymore was on Cricklewood Broadway, the mass development of the Matalan site and now this. Far too much high rises, too high density and over development and over population of the area which already suffers from congestion, litter and crime. Please refuse this application rather than use it as a ticket to reach housing targets and for developers to make millions by 'stacking them high.' Just because it is a Borough boundary area does not mean we should suffer from over development and the destruction of a beautiful Victorian area.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: The high Rise plans specifically within this Development are overwhelmingly large and unfit to the area, roads, traffic and to the ethos of the neighbourhood. This impact on the skyline is a sore sight even on the plans and the impact it will have on the roads, traffic and transportation in the area, which is already very congested is unsustainable and will be detrimental to this area . Please urgently reconsider the level of floors to no more than 5 stories max to blend in with the neighbouring buildings- otherwise it will be a disruptive construction

Comment: It is barely believable that something so out of keeping with the area could remotely be considered. It looms over all surrounding buildings and is a blight on the skyline. The area is already polluted, crowded and congested with traffic. A development this size will only exacerbate the problems, and overwhelm the local amenities and infrastructure, such as parking, shopping, doctors, schools, and public transport. This area of Brent was hit hard by Covid-19, in large part due to the population density. This development is utterly inappropriate and frankly irresponsible.

Comment: Putting 1100 residential units into an area that is already busy and lacking infrastructure seems utter madness. The traffic that this amount of homes will add to the area is not sustainable on the current roads. There are insufficient schools to provide support for the amount of children that this scheme will bring into the area.

Comment: I am totally against this proposed development which will only bring more traffic and disruption to the area whilst it is ongoing over a period of several years.

It has no aesthetic appeal whatsoever. It will cause more traffic congestion once built due to the number of car owners. It is ugly and has nothing to commend it at all.

It will also further pollute the area and cause even more disruption to Cricklewood Lane for the foreseeable future.

Comment Reasons:

Comment: Dear Mr Griffiths,

I would like to reiterate my objection to this new building development in the heart of Cricklewood. The local residents have been making efforts for years to raise the appeal and attractiveness of Cricklewood and this is all going to be negated by having this eyesore of the high rise buildings. They are out of place with the surroundings and character of homes and buildings in Cricklewood. They are simply too high and very bland looking. The proposal includes way to many new flats and units, which will put a significant strain on the local amenities, transport and the environment. This proposal will give our much loved neighborhood appearance of the overly urbanised city area and devalue it. Lower rise buildings with more architectural character and with fewer units would be much more appropriate. This development may push many residents living here for years to relocate and look for less crowded, more eye pleasing and environmentally friendly places to live. This proposal is completely contrary to the direction where more established and desirable areas such as West Hampstead and others are moving towards. It will be a travesty to do this to our lovely local area and should not be allowed.

Kind regards.

The area cannot cope with so many new residents, especially as they will have nowhere to park. Neither will the current residents.

These tower blocks will cast shadows that reach as far as Hampstead.

Comment: Barnet B&Q site dev't objection

In addition to my objection made to Barnet Council in the 2020 consultation, I am now objecting again to this proposal in the strongest possible terms.

My objections are:

1. The scale, number and size of the buildings - 15 and 25 storey tower blocks are significantly higher than any surrounding buildings in the Cricklewood area in Barnet, Brent and Camden. Most of the area has 2- 3 storey buildings, with a few 9-storey exceptions. The new visuals show the proposed tower blocks are overbearing, unduly obtrusive, and totally out-of-keeping with the rest of Cricklewood.
2. The new visuals describe the tower blocks as "...their animated tops ...generosity of detail... a genuine landmark. ... moderate impact ... beneficial effect." This is total nonsense, the tower blocks will overwhelm the landscape, and will have a big detrimental impact on the locality. Cricklewood does not need a "landmark" of looming tower blocks, it is wholly inappropriate for the area.
3. None of the proposed blocks offer social housing, this is totally unacceptable in the Cricklewood area, where there is great need for social housing. Barnet Council should reject the proposal on this point alone.

4. There will be significant loss of light and privacy for the residents in the area near the proposed tower blocks.
5. The increased number of residents in the tower blocks (1100 flats) will overwhelm the facilities available in Cricklewood, and will significantly increase traffic in the whole area. Also, the increased levels of air pollution caused by the additional traffic will go counter to the Mayor of London's clean air initiative, and ULEZ scheme.
6. Cycling and pedestrians - the proposed plan says cyclists may use the narrow pedestrian paths through the development - this will create conflict between pedestrians and cyclists, and is not a benefit. The concept fails to meet Transport for London's London Cycling Design Standards.

Comment: This proposed development is completely out of keeping with the surrounding environment. The site is already elevated and towers of this height will be overpowering in an area of predominately low level structures. Aggressively dominant comes to mind.

Another concern is the local infrastructure is ill prepared for high density housing. Schools, parking and access to GP services for instance do not seem to have been considered. Please reconsider.

It's ugly, overshadows people's homes, far too dense for the local community to absorb regarding schools, doctors etc. It also represents the greed of the developers. It also looks dangerous, being so high and dense. Infringes the privacy of local homes, affects light distribution to people's homes, represents a fire risk being so tall.
